Air Force Bill Ready For Action in Both Houses

Conference Group Hopes Measure May Be Sent to White House Today

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Senate-House conferees reached a final agreement late yesterday on all phases of the so-called 70-group Air Force expansion bill.

The Joint Conference Committee plans to call up the $3,198,000,000 aircraft appropriation measure in both houses today for approval of their action. Barring unexpected developments, they hope to send it to the White House before nightfall.

If President Truman signs the bill, orders for some 4200 Air Force and Navy planes can be let, aircraft plants expanded and the big air power program launched without delay.

Senate Makes Progress

Earlier in the day, the Senate Armed Services Committee nearly completed preparation of its draft and military training bill.

Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) told reporters that there was "general acceptance" of most phases of the military manpower measure. Ten of the committee's 13 members were present, he said.

The group meets again this morning and Gurney said he expected it would be formally approved then. As the bill now stands it would:

1. Require all men 18 through 25 years old to register. A special registration of doctors, dentists and other medical men up to 45 years old also is provided.

2. Draft men aged 19 through 25 for two year "hitches." Manpower experts say most persons in this age group, not exempted or deferred, will be called.

3. Call up 161,000 18-year-old youths for one year's military training in regular units at Army and Air Force bases in this country or on Navy ships operating in home waters.

Men with dependents, "necessary" individuals, National Guardsmen and many Reservists would be deferred or exempt. Veterans with 18 months of service would not be called in peacetime and those with at least three but less than 18 months in uniform would be exempt if they joined the Guard or Reserve.

Would Get Credits

Gurney said the committee voted to insert a proviso crediting each State for the number of volunteers it has in uniform in setting selective service quotas. Quotas would be in proportion to population.

The Senate committee chairman said the group has "about three more things" to decide this morning.

One is an amendment proposed by Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.) empowering the President to seize plants, if they fail to accept war production orders at reasonable prices.

House Speaker Joe Martin said yesterday that draft legislation will be taken up on the floor next week. Now awaiting action is a measure quite similar to the Senate bill, except for one major difference: The 18-year-old training plan is excluded. House members generally are opposed to it.

As Senate leaders have promised to give the draft legislation priority, the bills may be under

American Proposal Revealed

Russians Agree to Discuss Differences With United States

London (Tuesday), May 11 (AP).—The Moscow radio said today the Russian government has agreed with a United States proposal for "discussion and settlement' of existing differences between the two nations.

The broadcast disclosed a diplomatic exchange between the two countries concerning relations between the wartime allies.

A Russian statement dated May 9, the radio said, followed a United States note sent by Ambassador Walter B. Smith to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov May 4, which expressed the hope the two countries may "find a way of establishing good and rational relations" and ending the "tense state of international relations."

[The State Department in Washington today confirmed that it had sent a note to Russia leaving the door open to discussion of differences.]

The radio's paraphrase of Smith's statement said the recently formed "European Union of Nations and the United States of America, alarmed at the tendencies of Soviet policy, had united for mutual defense."

The broadcast, while expressing the Russians' willingness to discuss Soviet-American differences, gave no hint of when or how representatives of the two countries would get together.

The Russian statement, according to the radio, rejected American contentions that Soviet policy was at the root of worsening Russian-American relations.

The radio broadcast the text of the American note which Smith wrote was put forward so there "will be no misunderstanding." Its main points were:

1. United States policy, which "has become sufficiently definite of late," is supported by a majority of Americans and "will continue to be pursued energetically in the future."

2. "Internal political situations such as, for instance, the forthcoming (American) elections" have no influence at all on this policy.

3. The United States Government has "no hostile or aggressive intentions" toward Russia.

4. "An economic crisis will not in any way touch the industrial capacity of the United States of America . . ."

13 Indicted On Charges Of Gambling

Grand Jury Acts After Fay, Glick, Tell Members of Drive in District

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

Thirteen persons were indicted by the District grand jury yesterday on charges of numbers lottery operation, and one man was accused of running a horse race betting business.

The charges were placed by the regular grand jury. A special grand jury is to be sworn in May 17 to probe the entire gambling situation in Washington.

The grand jury indicted in every case presented to it. Shortly after the jury was sworn in, the members were "educated" as to the seriousness of gambling here by United States Attorney George Morris Fay and Vice Squad Lieut. Roy Blick.

Horse Betting Charge

The indictments alleged that numbers writing goes on here in variety stores, apartment houses and in the kitchens and bedrooms of homes.

The alleged horse-race bookie charged with setting up a gambling table for his purposes was Sam Wise of 4835 New Hampshire ave. nw. Police said a businessman informed them of Wise's activities.

An undercover man said he "arranged" with Wise in a Connecticut ave. restaurant to have a horse-race account, and placed a $100 bet with him. Police asserted that when Wise was arrested, he tried to drop the marked $100 bill in the street and was found with several memoranda of bets in his pockets. Police confiscated two telephones in Wise's home.

Mrs. Edna Harris, of 1032 Lamont st. nw., was charged with four counts of lottery operation and one of possession of numbers slips. Police said that they found numbers slips during a raid in her bedroom on March 18. Police asserted they made three plays with marked money with her.

Miss Bettie R. Cook, 22, 724 G st. ne., was charged with lottery

Public Feeding Fay With Gambling Leads

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

An increasing number of gambling leads, in the form of letters and telephone calls, is being received by the United States Attorney's office, it was learned yesterday.

This information is being checked and authenticated for presentation to the special grand jury which will be impaneled next Monday for a full-scale probe of gambling.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay, who returned yesterday from a three-day trip to New York City, where he discussed anti-gambling work with officials, said he found "a large number" of gambling "tips" accumulated here over the weekend.

In addition, "many" phone calls are being received from residents in response to Fay's appeal for gambling information. This data is being examined by Fay and Assistant United States Attorneys John W. Fihelly and Charles B. Murray.

Where to Send Tips

Mail containing such information should be addressed to United States Attorney George Morris Fay, United States District Court Building.

Fay said that while many of the letters are submitted anonymously, a "surprising" number are signed, and contain substantial information.

There were no further public developments yesterday in the letter-writing dispute between Fay and Superintendent of Police Robert J. Barrett over the use of police in the gambling probe.

Fay has written to Barrett that the grand jury itself should decide this issue, but has requested that

Truman Gets Bills for 2 Buildings

Senate Completes Authorization for New Structures For GAO, Courts

The Senate yesterday completed congressional action authorizing a new Federal Courts Building and new General Accounting Office Building here.

Bills authorizing the two structures cleared the Senate by unanimous consent in the form previously approved by the House. The Senate decision sent the measures to the White House. Money for the buildings would have to be appropriated later in separate legislation.

Federal Courts Home

The Federal Courts Building, to be located at 3d st. and Constitution ave. nw., would house the U. S. District and Appeals Courts here. Total cost is fixed at $18,665,000. Half the cost would fall on the District, with the appraised value of the District-owned site, $2,420,000, being counted toward the city's payment. The balance would be paid in 25 equal annual installments.

The General Accounting Office Building would be at 5th and G sts. nw., in the square north of the present main GAO Building.

Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.), who handled both measures in the Senate, noted during a press conference the appeal made by the St. Mary, Mother of God, Church at 5th and H sts. nw., for an amendment to prevent its property from being taken in the GAO Building plan.

Cites Testimony

Senator Cain cited testimony by United States Commissioner of Buildings W. E. Raynolds that the Government would not buy the property, unless the church in the future voluntarily wanted to sell it, and that "we would not think of condemning the church property." Senator Cain said that statement, as part of the legislative history of the GAO bill, made it clear there would be no encroachment on the church property.

The GAO Building would cost $22,850,000, of which some seven million has been appropriated in previous years, and about two million spent for a site and preliminary work, leaving five million on hand to be used.

Draft-Eisenhower Men Decide to Give Up

The National Draft-Eisenhower League, Inc., of New York, is convinced—finally.

Long Rail Tieup Was Fear

City Breathes Sigh of Relief In Shelving Emergency Plan

Emergency plans to keep Washington eating and commuting went back on the shelf with sighs of relief last night as the railroad strike crisis passed.

It was the fear of a prolonged strike that goaded officials into action during the dark conference hours yesterday. The city could have weathered a short tieup of supplies, but meats and perishables would have lasted only several days.

During the day, Commissioner John Russell Young received what he termed a "rather cheerful picture" of the District's stores of food, fuel and other necessities. But with perishable foods and the problems of getting railroad-using commuters to and from their jobs as the prime considerations, thought was given to voluntary rationing and the wartime car pools.

Trade and business leaders met with Young and told him meat wholesalers would have gone into a strike period with about 10 days' supply.

During the last four days, area rail yards have been receiving slightly larger than normal shipments of food. The one exception was meat supplies, pinched by the packinghouse workers' strike.

The strike threat found the Potomac Electric Power Co. with 40 days' supply of coal on hand. Gasoline and industrial oil consumers worried but little because only 5 per cent of the supply comes to Washington by rail.

There was a 15-day supply of drugs, but even a brief meat shortage would have been quickly felt in hospitals. Only "serious" tag was placed on chlorine stocks for the city's water and sanitation departments.

As for the other side of the picture, the lagging parleys at the White House found engineers and firemen unruffled.

"We're waiting for Alvie," said Clyde L. King, 308 Seaton pl. ne., a Baltimore and Ohio engineer, referring to Alvanley Johnston, head of the engineers' union. "As far as we're concerned, we're walking out unless Alvie tells us to stay."

He seemed to voice the sentiment of railroaders in the grimy bunkhouses at the Ivy City and Potomac Yards, where passenger and freight trains are serviced.

Engineers agreed then that only an order from Johnston could stop them.

Directive To Stay on Job Is Sent To 125,000

Operation Task Was Given Army; Injunction Can Be Argued May 19

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Three operating unions late last night called off their strike which would have stalled the Nation's railroads at 6 a. m. today by calling out 125,000 workmen.

Shortly after the unions gave in, major railroads announced that service today would be normal and that employes who had been notified not to report for work would be ordered in as usual.

They surrendered to a restraining order at 7:50 p. m. by Federal District Justice T. Alan Goldsborough after the Government had seized the roads and designated the Army to run them. Maj. Gen. E. H. Leavey, chief of the Transportation Corps, was named their new boss.

Justice Goldsborough is the judge who twice has been the nemesis of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

Decision to go to work as usual today came shortly before 10 p. m. after hours of discussion by strike committees of the three unions involved. Definite word that the country had been spared the agony of a transportation tieup came first from Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, but reports had been received from union officials that "word is going across the country" that there would be no strike.

Gets Official Notice

"John R. Steelman, assistant to the President," Ross told reporters at the White House, "has just received official word from the rail union leaders that the threatened strike has been called off."

He said Steelman had been assured that messages would be dispatched immediately notifying union members the strike order had been called off.

Before Ross's announcement, Edward Gloss, press secretary for the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, had told reporters and photographers crowded into the lobby of the Hamilton Hotel:

"The three brotherhoods will comply with the court order. Steps to that effect are being taken immediately."

These steps, he explained, consisted of notifying the members of the union there would be no strike.

May Ask Set-Aside

Justice Goldsborough's order amounted to a temporary injunction, returnable before him May 19, when the unions may argue their case and ask that it be set aside. But, in the meantime, they are under court order not to strike.

Disobeying such an order in the case of the Mine Workers and Lewis proved costly. In one instance Lewis was fined $10,000 and the union $3,500,000 and in a second Lewis received a $20,000 fine and the union $1,400,000. The Supreme Court reduced the first fine to $700,000 for the union while

Unionists Defy Churchill as Congress Ends

Compromise Reached On Economy Plan in Tumultuous Session

By Ned Russell

The Hague, May 10 (NYHT).—The First Congress of Europe, aiming at a United States of Europe, ended tonight in a tumultuous session that saw its leader, Winston Churchill, defied by a group of continental trade unionists.

After more than 60 hours of debate in four days, the Congress concluded with the unanimous adoption of reports calling for the creation of a European assembly to promote the idea of a United Europe, and for a scheme aiming at the economic unification of Europe.

Churchill, honorary president of the Congress, appeared at the final meeting tonight and attempted a last-minute intervention, which failed to quell a rebellion by approximately 20 trade unionists from France, Belgium and Italy.

The rebellion involved the role that the workers of Europe should have in the plans for the economy of a united Europe. The rebels, lead by Jean Mathe of the Communist-led French Confederation of Labor (CGT), continued a fight they had waged all last night in the economic committee, demanding a special status for workers in plans for organizing the economy of the continent.

When the fight reached the floor of the last plenary session on the committee reports, Churchill asked for the right to speak and delivered an impassioned appeal for unity—on the basis of the resolution that the Socialist rebels felt deprived workers of their proper role in the economic reorganization of Europe.

Churchill explained he had deliberately stayed away from the conference during its debate in order to escape charges from Britain's Socialists that he was attempting to dominate it. Then he proceeded to try to dominate it on this final issue.

He appealed passionately for unanimity of the economic resolution on the ground that if the delegates "scattered" at the last moment their action would only aid the enemies of a united Europe. He said united Europe had many foes in the world—obviously mean-

89 Are Slain As Koreans Flock to Polls

6 Million Cast Votes As Communists Fail To Disrupt Election

Seoul, Korea (Tuesday) May 11 (AP).—Communist-directed violence took at least 38 lives yesterday in futile attempts to disrupt the South Korean election, but the night passed in unexpected quiet.

An overwhelming total of more than six million voters—approaching 90 per cent of those registered—ran the Communist gantlet and voted for a projected 200-member National Assembly in the first election in 4000 years of Korean history.

Weekend violence, starting Friday, sent the death toll to at least 89 with scores injured and many arrested. Bombs hurled into polling places destroyed some ballots.

Korean police had expected the greatest Communist effort to be directed at destroying ballot boxes after the polls closed. Instead, violence trailed off during the day. This capital was calm under an overnight curfew.

Boxes which could not be delivered to district counting headquarters before dark were being brought in today.

Communications, sketchy at best, were cut at many points by saboteurs, so that many outlying districts had yet to report.

However, Lin Yu-wan, the Chinese member of the United Nations Commission of observers declared he was "absolutely satisfied" with what he saw.

The Communist aim had been to create so much disorder the U. N. would call the election no contest.

The Russians who occupy the northern half of Korea refused to permit their territory to participate in the election, which originally had been slated to cover the

Md. Assembly Meets May 25 On Pay Boost

Special Session Due To Vote on 10% Raise For State Employes

Annapolis, Md., May 10 (AP).—Maryland's General Assembly will meet in a special session May 25 to decide whether State employes should receive a 10 per cent cost-of-living pay raise.

Governor Lane called the session today, after conferring with leaders of the Legislature and State officials.

Lane said the estimated cost of hiking most employes' pay is $2,101,654.

Scale for 2697 Raised

He reported a total of 6429 positions on State employment rosters would be affected. None have been marked for a raise since the last general increase in September, 1946.

The scale for another 2697 positions has been boosted in the meantime, the report of a special committee which probed the need for raises disclosed.

Of the latter, about 800 would be eligible for smaller cost-of-living checks to bring their total gain to 10 per cent. These have received only slight raises since 1946.

State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles headed the committee which recommended the 10 per cent raises.

A General Increase

"After carefully considering the recommendations of Mr. Miles' committee and the advice of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates and the Budget Bureau, I believe that the State is in a financial position to absorb the cost of the salary increases recommended, but I am also convinced that the State is not in a financial position at this time to assume any greater burden.

"I shall recommend to the extraordinary session that appropriations be made to implement the recommendations of the committee for a general increase to become effective July 1, 1948, and to make available funds to support actions already taken by the standard salary board."

The Governor said the estimated

Dixie Rebels Defer Decision Until July

Southerners to Decide Course After Party Acts on Civil Rights

Jackson, Miss., May 10—Dixie States' Rights Democrats today voted to call a conference in Birmingham, Ala., in July to take "all necessary and appropriate actions" if the national party convention approves the civil rights program.

Southern delegates to the National Democratic Convention were also asked in the resolution not to commit their States to support of President Truman, or any nominee, unless the civil rights program was repudiated.

Half-day Session

The convention adjourned its half-day session after adopting this resolution by unanimous vote. It was presented by Horace C. Wilkinson of Birmingham, an Alabama Presidential elector, and chairman of the convention's resolution's committee.

Georgia's delegation, led by State Democratic Committee Chairman James Peters, withdrew from the convention anticipating this resolution, but remained as "observers." Peters said in an interview he did not feel he could speak for his State's voters on the resolution.

Wilkinson said in an interview the Birmingham conference would be able to do "anything the American people can do in a convention."

Suggests July 17 Parley

The resolution provides that the chairman of today's conference, Governor Ben Laney of Arkansas, may set the date of the Birmingham conference, but suggests July 17.

Delegates to the Birmingham conference will be selected by the State Democratic executive committees, and each State will be allowed as many delegates as it has Presidential electors.

Today's convention was keynoted by South Carolina Governor J. Strom Thurmond who told the convention the South has been "stabbed in the back" by President Truman's civil rights program.

Governor Thurmond asserted the South should serve an ultimatum on the national party that

Javelin Slips, Kills Athlete At Naval Academy Stadium

Annapolis, Md., May 10 (AP).—Midshipman George J. Eliopolus, 23, died today 20 minutes after a javelin flung by a fellow athlete pierced his neck, Navy officials reported.

Eliopolus, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Eliopolus, of Rawlins, Wyo., and a Naval Academy track athlete and varsity basketball player, was working out at Thompson Stadium when the accident occurred.

Capt. E. B. (Whitey) Taylor, Navy athletic director, said the second-class Midshipman was "struck in the neck by a javelin that slipped from the hands of Midshipman George B. Stone."

Taylor said he didn't think the spear traveled more than 15 yards. Eliopolus himself pulled it from his neck, but collapsed immediately afterward. Stone, a second-classman, was reported "hospitalized suffering from shock."

Navy Trainer Billy Fallon and others near the scene immediately rushed to the wounded Midshipman's assistance. He received emergency treatment on the spot. Medical officers got there within four minutes, Taylor said.

They gave Eliopolus oxygen while in the ambulance on his way to the Academy infirmary, but he died before he got there.

Lieut. Comdr. Robert Kennington, gym medical officer, said death was due to internal hemorrhage.

Condon Voluntarily Avoids New Data on Atomic Energy

Dr. Edward U. Condon has "voluntarily agreed" not to learn any more atomic secrets until the Atomic Energy Commission double-checks his case, the new Secretary of Commerce, Charles Sawyer, announced yesterday.

Sawyer, at the same time, declared there are no reasonable grounds for believing Condon disloyal. Condon, head of the Government Bureau of Standards, has been under fire by the House Un-American Activities Committee which called his "one of the weakest links in our atomic security."

Condon has denied the allegation, and asked the committee for a hearing, which has not yet been held.

Sawyer, at his first news conference since becoming Secretary of Commerce last Thursday, told reporters that:

1. Like the secretary before him, W. Averell Harriman, he agrees with the finding of a department investigating board that "no reasonable grounds exist for believing that Dr. Condon is disloyal to the Government."

2. Also like Harriman, Sawyer wants the President's loyalty Board to review the case "in order that we may have a completely independent survey and finding on this important matter."

The Atomic Energy Commission, meanwhile, is reviewing the clear-

Gen. Leavey Drops His Screen Painting To Run U. S. Railroads for the Army

The head of the house at 3415 Volta pl. nw., was painting screens at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the telephone rang.

Annoyed at the interruption, he laid aside his brush, wiped his paint-stained hands on his already spattered Army pants, and took up the 'phone.

He spoke briefly. He dressed hurriedly. Maj. Gen. Edmond H. Leavey, chief of the Army's Transportation Corps, was off to his Pentagon office—this time to see about running the Nation's railroads.

His wife, the former Miss Ruth Farrington, daughter of the late Governor of Hawaii and sister of Hawaiian Delegate to Congress, J. R. Farrington, eyed the unfinished screens. Who knows when he'll finish them now with his leave cut off like this, she wondered.

But ever since the day in January 1920 when Miss Farrington was married to the young West Point captain who commanded the Third Engineers in Hawaii, she has known a good many breaks in her husband's assignments. A year later he was back in the States and sent to Rensselear Polytechnic Institute, where he got a civil engineering degree.

A month after Pearl Harbor—many interruptions later—Colonel Leavey was on his way to North Ireland to be acting chief of staff of the United States Army forces there.

Then to England, North Africa, and 1943 to the Pacific, where he was Admiral Nimitz's man in charge of logistics.

On September 2, 1945, as deputy commander of our forces in the western Pacific, Major General Leavey accepted the surrender of the Japanese forces on the islands.

On that day, it was a tall, good-looking and determined American general who stood before the notorious Yamashita in the mountain city of Baguio on Luzon.

"But if you look closely at that surrender document," Mrs. Leavey said yesterday, "you'll see that his hand shook when he signed it."

Nonetheless, Mrs. Leavey and the people who know him at work are sure he can operate the railroads. At 54, he stands erect, plays golf when he is not painting screens or gardening and looks forward to more room on a farm—doubtless a hangover from his early days in his native Longview, Tex.

He has been chief of Army transportation since December 1, 1945. The Leaveys have two children, a son, Maj. Edmond H. Leavey, jr., and a daughter, Miss Catherine Leavey.

Rail Strike Is Called Off

permitting Lewis' to stand and in the second case Justice Goldsborough indefinitely postponed execution of sentence.

When the rail case is argued May 19 there is little doubt the Government will ask that the injunction be made permanent.

A railroad strike now, said Justice Goldsborough's order, would "imperil national health and safety and interfere and obstruct the effective performance in discharge of vital and necessary Government functions, and will frustrate the powers conferred by the Constitution and by the Acts of Congress upon the executive branch of the Government, and cause the United States of America to suffer irreparable injury for which it has no adequate remedy at law."

Result of Coincidence

Justice Goldsborough's part in the three labor cases was the result of coincidence. Under the system of rotating judges in Motions Court, it happened that he was on the bench when injunctions were sought in the Mine Worker cases and the railroad case.

Capitulation by the unions followed hours of uncertainty about what they would do should the Government's request for a restraining order be granted.

Early in the afternoon, Alvanley Johnston, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the unions would obey a court order. Asked point-blank by a reporter if they would accede to such an order Johnston growled:

"Of course we will. What the hell are you asking a question like that for after what happened to John Lewis?"

But afterward, and before Judge Goldsborough had acted, Johnston said a restraining order would "not necessarily" mean the three unions' 125,000 members would go to work today.

Yesterday was a day of swift developments beginning with seizure of the roads by executive order at 1 p. m. and culminating in the injunction. Throughout the day conferences were held at the White House between Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman on the one hand and union leaders and operators on the other.

These conferences, lasting from 8:30 a. m. to 5:35 p. m., left participants weary and short-tempered but accomplished nothing whatever. Leaving the White House at 5:35 p. m., William T. Fairicy, president of the Association of American Railroads, told reporters:

"The situation is the same as when we came here."

Negotiations were begun at the White House last Friday and have continued daily since.

Events began moving swiftly to their climax when Army Secretary Royall, designated by President Truman to run the railroads for the Government, called the three union leaders to his office at the Pentagon just before the operators left the White House. The union leaders are Johnson, David R. Robertson of the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and Arthur J. Glover of the AFL Switchmen's Union.

After slightly more than a half hour with Royall, they left his office looking glum and sounding testy. Johnson told reporters "we are not asking them (their union members) to go back," a statement which overlooked the fact they had not yet gone out.

The union leaders had left strike committees of their unions in a huddle at the Hamilton, where they had been at work since leaving the White House. They were still there when Royall issued a statement saying he was asking for an injunction.

"I called attention to the executive order instructing me as Secretary of the Army to operate the railroads," his statement said, in part, "and requested that the members of the respective unions continue on the job and that the strike set for tomorrow be canceled.

"I was informed by Messrs. Johnston, Robertson and Glover that they would not issue instructions or make recommendations that the strike be called off and that the men continue on the job after the hour set for the strike.

"Therefore, I was constrained to forward a statement to this effect to the Attorney General and requested that an injunction be applied for."

Even while Royall was talking with the union leaders, the strike committees were in session at the Hamilton and the roads' representatives still were with Steelman at the White House, Judge Goldsborough was being alerted. At that time he was closeted for some time with George Morris Fay, United States attorney for the District of Columbia.

At 7:30 p. m., assistants to Attorney General Tom Clark left the Justice Department for Justice Goldsborough's court. Twenty minutes later the Judge signed the restraining order.

In a statement accompanying release of his executive order, Mr. Truman said:

"In the strike situation thus confronting us, Government seizure is imperative for the protection of our citizens.

"It is essential to the public health and to the public welfare generally that every possible step be taken by the Government to assure to the fullest possible extent continuous and uninterrupted transportation service. A strike on our railroads would be a Nation-wide tragedy, with world-wide repercussions.

"I call upon every railroad worker to cooperate with the Government by remaining on duty. I call upon the officers of the railroad labor organizations to take appropriate action to keep their members at work."

Johnston disclosed yesterday that during the last three days of White House talks, the unions reduced their original demands in an effort to get a compromise.

"We have endeavored to get a settlement by cutting down—to the limit — our demands," Johnston said. "We've done all the giving. They want to make a compulsory arbitration board out of the fact-finding board. We're not going to do it."

When asked just how they had retreated from earlier demands, both Johnston and Robertson said it was "too complicated" to explain. Reporters interpreted this to mean that the compromise offers had involved the working rules rather than the flat wage demand for $3 a day or 30 per cent pay increase. All the working rule changes, totalinng some 40 modifications in number, involve money benefits which would increase the workmen's take-home pay.

Forty-five days ago, the fact-finding board recommended that the three disputing unions follow the lead of 19 other railway labor groups and accept a $1.24-a-day, or 15½-cents-an-hour wage increase together with "some" changes in working rules.

The three unions threatening a strike rejected this offer, demanding a flat wage boost of $3-a-day or 30 per cent plus changes in 44 working rules, all of which would add money to their members' pay checks. They first raised these demands 11 months ago when negotiations began. The wage talks on a private level collapsed last month, ending with a strike call that would have affected all railway movement except that of milk, troop and hospital trains.

Would End Exemptions

Repercussions of the near-strike were felt quickly on Capitol Hill. Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) yesterday introduced a bill to end exemptions of railroad labor from provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law.

The long standing National Mediation Act has been deemed sufficient to take care of labor troubles on the railroads although it contains no provision for injunctions such as that in the new Taft-Hartley Law. Should rail unions be brought under the latter, the Government could obtain court injunctions without seizure of the roads which would forbid strikes for as long as 80 days.

Yesterday's seizure order marked the fourth time in 30 years the Government has taken over the railroads. Other occasions were in 1918, 1943 and 1946.

President Truman, in 1946, as now, was in the White House and issued the order bringing them under Government control. Two operating unions, Johnston's Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, defied him and called a strike which tied up traffic for 48 hours.

Then Mr. Truman went before Congress and asked that the rail employes be drafted into the Army. While he was making his address to thunderous applause, he was handed a note saying that the unions had surrendered.

'Piracy, Extortion' Laid to Business

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10 (AP).—CIO President Philip Murray said today free enterprise in the United States has given way to "a form of commercial piracy, hijacking and racketeering."

"It should be the business of movements such as ours . . . to urge the institution here . . . of a type of balanced economy that will provide for all the people . . . a more equitable distribution of our national wealth," Murray said.

He told the Amalgamated Clothing Workers convention the CIO "cannot lend comfort here in the United States of America to a system which is so completely out of balance that there are more people actually suffering in the United States today than there was prior to the war.

"The CIO contends that there is too much extortion being practiced by American business.

"We do not have in the United States today what might commonly be regarded as a system of true free enterprise. We have in the United States today a form of commercial piracy, hijacking and racketeering, and the CIO can lend no comfort to that."

Murray said again he was opposed to a third party. He expanded on his charge of two weeks ago that the party was organized by the Communist Party in October at a New York meeting. He said:

"The leaders of the American Communist Party called that meeting and they called in some labor fellows, whom, I can't say right at the moment, and they said to this labor group, 'We are going to have a third party,' and some members of the labor group said 'Why?'

"And they said, 'Because we are going to have a third party, and whether you like it or not we are going to have it.' So said the leaders of the American Communist Party."

Henry Wallace, third party presidential candidate, has denied the Murray charge.

Steel Output Claims 'Phony', Union Charges

Boston, May 10 (AP).—The CIO Steelworkers today demanded that the Nation's steelmakers expand their basic plants to produce at least 10 million more tons a year and blasted the industry as the country's "real bottleneck."

Officers of the CIO's biggest union charged the steel industry in the past two years has created "phony" production increases aimed at raising its profit level, not at increasing total production."

They said:

". . . steel is the real bottleneck . . . in a whole network of industries. . . .

"Today steel shortages mean less work for automobile workers, electrical workers, metal fabricators, miners and a host of other workers and industries dependent on the volume of steel supplies."

The annual report of the union officers headed by CIO National President Philip Murray, also attacked American business in general for what the union called trying to "freeze" wages in a time of "fantastic" profits.

And the report announced that along with its economic battles the union is opening "a second front" politically—"a deadly serious assault in the political area on the political lackeys of business who would happily destroy organized labor."

Keynoting that second front in this election year, the report declared:

"The Eightieth Congress is a constant reminder to workers that they must vote on election day . . . to protect the spirit of enlightened Americanism of the New Deal years.

"Failure of the people to vote is clearly an invitation to disaster at the hands of the servants of corporate wealth and bigotry."

The report, prepared for Tuesday's opening of the union's biennial convention of 3200 delegates, did not give definite answer to the top question which the convention is expected to decide—the 1949 wage demands when contracts with 1583 firms expire next April 30.

Major steel companies rejected interim pay demands last month and announced price cuts to "fight inflation."

The officers' report said net profits after taxes for the steel industry will total "more than 600 million dollars in 1947" and said stockholders could expect a net worth return of 11 per cent compared to "a 6 per cent return generally considered reasonable."

Production boosts announced in the past two years "represent in the main, phony increases" without completion of "one new blast furnace" in that time, the report said. The officers added this is what the steel industry needs to break present bottlenecks and "destroy the insidious and disgraceful "gray" market in steel:

"Immediate expansion of basic steelmaking facilities to support additional annual steel production of at least 10 million tons of ingots . . ."

The report estimated ingot capacity in January of this year as 94,233,480 tons compared with a wartime peak in 1945 of 95,505,280 tons.

Strike Cloud Not Dispelled At Chrysler

Detroit, May 10 (AP).—A strike threat hung over the Chrysler Corp. tonight after Government mediators sought to head off a walkout of 75,000 employes Wednesday.

The mediators and spokesmen for both the company and the CIO United Auto Workers seemed hopeful of averting a major blow to the automobile industry in final bargaining sessions Tuesday.

But their optimism was not coupled with any progress reports from two brief conferences today.

"They have not offered one cent," said Norman Matthews, the UAW's national Chrysler director, as he emerged from the day's discussions. Federal Mediator Leo Kotin reported that neither company nor union retreated from their positions. But he called today's sessions "exploratory" and said no offers were asked for.

Meanwhile, the UAW ordered its 100-man national Chrysler conference to meet Tuesday night to stand by for a possible final strike order.

Union demands on Chrysler have centered on a 30-cent wage raise, plus other fringe concessions.

Six persons were arrested on gambling charges by members of the police vice squad yesterday afternoon.

After a raid on a home at 1039 5th st. ne., police arrested Luther S. Saunders, 44, of the 5th st. address; Edna M. Young, 44, of 1125 5th st. ne.; Herman G. Brown, 43, of 1036 6th st. ne.; John Wesley Smith, 30, of 519 L st. ne., and John Rozier, 48, of 76 I st. nw.

The othe four were released under $1500 bond each on charges of operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips. All five will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage today.

Cleo Williams, 30, of 2424 N st. nw., arrested on the street in the 3400 block of Connecticut ave. nw., was charged with operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips. He was released under $1500 bond for his appearance in Municipal Court today.

police continue to gather information on current addresses for a list of 138 "bigger gamblers of Washington which police have submitted to Fay's office.

Special Assistant Corporation Counsel Daniel B. Maher, named by Commissioner John Russell Young to assist Major Barrett in a "legal exposition" of the problems met by the police in inforcing gambling laws, yesterday met with Barrett and Young at the District Building.

In response to reporters' questions, Commissioner Young said the conference had no relation to the grand jury probe. "It was on another matter entirely," he said.

Later yesterday, Maher conferred with Fay, who was Maher's former boss before the later was named to his present post. Neither Fay nor Maher would comment.

To a large extent, the effectiveness of the coming investigation will depend on the individual initiative of the persons selected for the special grand jury panel.

The jury, first of its kind to investigate gambling here, will have wide powers and can call on any agency for whatever aid it requires. When the jury convenes, Fay, Fihelly and Murray will outline to it their information, which Fay says shows a 100-million-dollar-a-year gambling racket in the Washington area.

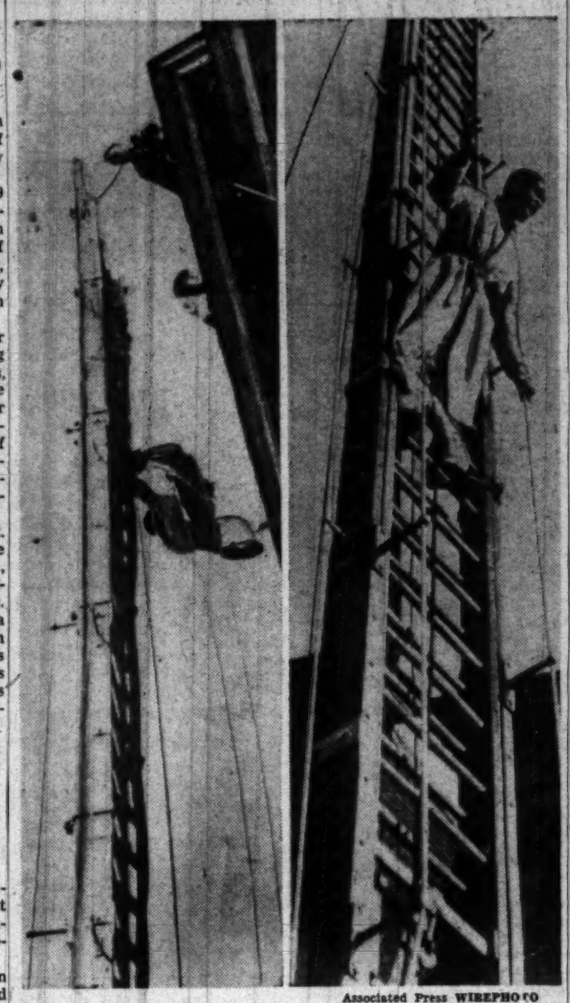
Kicks Fireman Off Ladder



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

AERIAL TRAGEDY—At left, William Lane, 39, dangles from a fire ladder at Baltimore, nearly falling himself, after kicking Deputy Fire Chief Lorenz A. Dolle, 63, to the street. Dolle died. At right, Lane resumes from ladder a tirade which he had begun on the roof, and which brought out the firemen in a rescue attempt

Fireman Killed When Kicked Off Ladder by Roof 'Preacher'

Baltimore, May 10 (AP).—An hysterical rooftop preacher who used his feet to thwart efforts to bring him to earth was accused today of causing the death of a Baltimore deputy fire chief.

Lorenz A. Dolle, 63, kicked from a fire ladder yesterday, died in a hospital this morning.

A charge of kicking and causing the death of Dolle was filed by police against William Lane, 39. Dolle fell 25 feet from the ladder and suffered a fractured skull.

Patrolman Louis J. Mitchell said he found Lane dancing about the roof of a three-story house in robe and pajamas and "preaching to save the world." About 1000 witnessed the incident.

Witnesses said the preaching was audible for three or four blocks.

Firemen and policemen coaxed Lane onto the ladder.

Dolle, who met Lane two thirds of the way up the ladder, had mounted to try to prevent the "preacher" from falling.

Dolle is survived by his mother, wife, a son and a daughter.

At the request of police, Magistrate August Kozlosky today continued a hearing to a date to be fixed by the State's attorney. Lane was ordered to the city jail, to be held pending a psychiatric examination.

18,737 in Arlington Under 6

United States Census Bureau figures released yesterday revealed that Arlington County has more preschool youngsters than children of school age.

The data was part of a special census taken of the county for the Arlington School Board to aid in future school planning.

It shows a total of 18,737 preschool children—5 years of age or less—as compared with 17,765 children of school age, or 6 through 18 years old.

Next step, Arlington School Consultant Dr. E. J. Braun said, is to interpret the bumper crop of preschoolers in terms of extra space, more teachers, and added equipment for the future.

Arlington's County Board, which controls school purse strings, recently hacked the School Board's requested $2,444,000 budget down to $2,217,000 by a 3-to-2 vote.

After studying school census figures, School Board Chairman Barnard Joy said it was "clear that Arlington will have to expand its school facilities considerably in the next five years."

Out of the 17,765 children of school age indicated in yesterday's census report, approximately 12,000 are now attending Arlington public schools. The remainder, school officials pointed out, are enrolled in private, parochial, or out-of-county schools.

Census figures also prove Arlington to be an exceptionally "young" community in terms of adults as well as children.

There are 53,132 persons from 20 to 40 years of age, 27,977 between 40 and 64, and only 4221 of 65 years or more.

Of the total population figure of 123,832 reported earlier by the Census Bureau, Arlington females outnumber the males by a figure of 64,045 to 59,787.

Arlington's small Negro population made up only 6598 of the total, as compared with 117,234 white persons. There were 15,413 white children 5 years of age or less, 751 Negro children.

Lewis Serves Notice July 10 Will End Hard Coal Contract

By The Associated Press

It was the hard coal operators' turn yesterday to get the bad news from John L. Lewis.

Lewis told them that, come July 10, he intends to end the contract covering 80,000 anthracite workers.

Without saying what his demands would be, Lewis suggested that wage conferences begin May 20. The present contract—which says either party can end it with a 30-day notice—was drafted in 1946.

Yesterday's 60-day notice conforms with the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, and is similar to a notice the soft coal operators got on April 30.

But there the similarity ends.

Lewis usually starts the soft coal discussions by setting off a few sticks of verbal dynamite.

To the hard coal owners he said: "We will be glad to have your answer or suggestions . . ."

The notice was given in a letter to Ralph E. Taggart, chairman of the Anthracite Operators Committee.

Most of the news was in two typical, nonstop Lewis sentences. The first sentence had 88 words, the second 87.

In addition to wages, Lewis said the contract should affect:

"Hours, rules, practices, differentials, inequalities, compensation and occupational disease laws, welfare, health, safety and all other pertinent matters appertaining to the anthracite industry."

Stockhandlers Cancel Strike, Accept 6 Cents

Chicago, May 10 (U.P.).—CIO stockhandlers at the big Chicago stockyards voted tonight to cancel a strike set for midnight and accept a wage increase of 6 cents an hour.

Frank Monaghan, president of the Stockhandlers Local 44, said that 400 workers at a mass meeting voted unanimously not to strike at 12:01 a. m. as scheduled.

The workers move animals at the huge stockyards and a strike would have tied up 85 per cent of livestock marketing in Chicago.

GOP Group Clears World Health Bill

The House Republican Steering Committee yesterday cleared legislation permitting the United States to join the World Health Organization, and the House Rules Committee slated action next week.

The GOP steering group, checking major legislation in advance of the June 19 adjournment drive, left decisions hanging fire on these missions to future immigration two other measures:

1. The Fellows bill, admitting 200,000 displaced Europeans over a two-year period and charging adquotas. Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., said a majority of the committee is in favor of the bill but formal clearance will await a House canvass.

2. The over-all tax revision bill, making manifold technical tax adjustments which the House Ways and Means Committee has had under study since last year. Martin said no decision was reached but the House can't handle it unless the bill is reported by the first week in June. He questioned whether the Senate, which has held no hearings, will have time to consider the bill in advance of adjournment.

The bill permitting the United States to participate in the World Health Organization cleared the Senate unanimously last year. The House Foreign Affairs Committee later unanimously approved it but the Rules Committee blocked action.

Martin last week told The Post he had always supported the measure and said he hoped the Rules Committee would act soon. Following yesterday's steering conference, he said the bill will probably be reported by the rules group next week. The World Health Organization will meet in Geneva in June and the State Department has been urging action so the United States can participate in the meeting.

Displaced persons legislation already has received the green light from the Senate Steering Committee. The Senate bill provides for admission of 100,000 persons from European refugee centers in two years, compared to 200,000 who could come in under the House measure.

Md. Assembly Meets May 25

cost included $949,249 from general funds and $800,260 from special funds. To continue raises approved by the salary board, another $277,820 would be added to general funds and $74,325 to special funds.

While he will convene the Legislature primarily to consider the payroll increase, Lane also included a $500,000 emergency appropriation for the welfare department in his fiscal review.

J. Milton Patterson, department head, is scheduled to discuss funds with the legislative council Thursday. He was reported ready to ask for more than $500,000.

That amount was approved by the 1947 special session, after strong opposition.

Senate President Joseph R. Byrnes (Balto. Fifth) who attended the conference, said the Legislative Council had a number of measures ready to toss into the hopper.

If the cost-of-living increases are made, the Governor said this would happen to general funds:

An estimated surplus of $13,024,620, plus a working fund of two million dollars, will be on the books June 30, the end of the 1948 fiscal year.

The free surplus will drop to $10,020,507 by the close of the 1949 fiscal year.

In the 1950-51 biennium, "we must assume" that appropriations next year will be needed again. Increases totaling $5,769,814 are estimated for Deer's Head State Hospital, welfare, schools, sales tax administration, higher cost of materials and services, salaries and retirement system.

That would lower the surplus to $4,839,616 in 1950.

At the same general rate of income and outgo in 1951, the State will have to dip into its working fund. That would be reduced to $1,658,725.

Here's Who Would Get Maryland Pay Increases

Annapolis, Md., May 10 (AP).—If you work for the State and the General Assembly approves a cost-of-living pay raise at its special session this month, you'll be making 10 per cent more in July than you do now.

If——

Your pay hasn't been raised that much since September 1, 1946; and,

You don't hold down a position created since that date.

If you have received a raise since 1946, you'll get only the difference between that and 10 per cent of your former scale. If your raise was more than 10 per cent, you're out of luck.

Increases resulting from "annual increment or promotion" would not be considered in shelling out the cost-of-living raises. But the proposed boost affects only salary, not maintenance.

Report Asks Aide For Salary Board

Annapolis, Md., May 10 (AP).—Governor Lane was told today the Maryland Standard Salary Board could use a full-time aide to make job studies.

The suggestion was part of the report of a committee appointed to investigate raises for State employes and the effect on Maryland's budget.

Union Officer Refused to Waive Rights

Faust Moreschi admitted in District Court yesterday that he refused to waive his right to immunity when called to testify before the grand jury investigating the Larry Kelly case.

The grand jury investigation resulted in an indictment charging a conspiracy to loot the treasury of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union locals of this area of almost $100,000. Moreschi was one of several union officials or members indicted.

Moreschi, who was an official of various locals, said he signed more than 50 checks in blank during the 1941-1942 period during which the conspiracy is alleged to have occurred.

As Special Prosecutor Leo A. Rover pounded questions at Moreschi, the defendant became flushed at times and had difficulty remembering the answers.

Moreschi insisted, however, he was very exacting in preparing his expense accounts. He said he spent $500 to make a trip to attend a meeting of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

Moreschi is one of five defendants still in the case. Originally, there were 10 defendants, but four were ordered acquitted by Justice Alexander Holtzoff and the fifth, Larry Kelly, is missing.

The name of the American agent was withheld, pending notification of his family. The German slain was identified as Franz Eichinger of Munich, described by the CID as one of its best agents.

House Battles Over TVA Steam Plant

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Deletion of funds for a TVA steam generating plant from the Government corporations bill touched off a stormy House floor attack yesterday on the private power lobby.

Tennessee Valley Congressmen, fighting to restore the four-million-dollar item, blamed Purcell L. Smith of the National Association of Electric Companies, for scrapping of the item by a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Twice Representative Walter C. Ploeser (R., Mo.) asked valley legislators if they were "impugning" the integrity of majority members of the subcommittee. The TVA bloc denied this, but referred repeatedly to Smith's opposition to the plant before the subcommittee.

Campaign Issue Seen

Although the restoration fight was spearheaded by TVA legislators, one predicted the private versus public power issue will be projected into the national campaign by the Democrats unless the four million dollars budgeted for the steam plant is restored to the bill.

The steam plant, which TVA contends is essential to "firm up" hydroelectric power to meet expanding markets, was cut out 4 to 3 by the subcommitte last week, and the full appropriations committee approved.

Subcommittee Chairman Ploser, both on the floor and in the subcommitte report, questioned TVA legislative and constitutional authority to build a steam plant under the original TVA Act.

He told the House that TVA was attempting to create "a giant power monopoly" and said it would have ample hydroelectric power to serve municipal and cooperative "preferred customers" if it didn't sell to industries.

TVA Congressmen called the action a stop sign to TVA growth, and a checkmate to power needed to meet defense requirements.

Representative Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) told the House the subcommittee was proposing a "Morgenthau plan" for the Tennessee Valley. He called Smith "the highest paid lobbyist in the world" and said the subcommittee, in its report, seemed to rely on information supplied not by TVA, but by Smith.

Representative Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) said:

"An attempt is being made here to have the private power lobby say how much development we can have in this country."

"Who are you speaking for?" asked Ploeser.

"I'm speaking my own sentiments," said Kefeuver.

Gore told newsmen he will offer an amendment to restore the four million dollars after the House resumes today.

Three Superforts Take Off on World Flight

The Air Force said that the superforts, from the Strategic Air Command's 93rd Bomb Group will fly to Okinawa via Germany, Saudi Arabia and India.

That route has not been used by military planes since shortly after the war.

The planes will stop at Okinawa and then fly back to the United States by way of Japan, the Aleutian Chain and Alaska.

Previous flights by the big bombers have gone eastward as far as Dhahran, Saudi Arabia and westward as far as Japan. But the link between Japan and Dhahran has not been flown.

Truman to Ask Farm Program of Congress After Anderson Urging at White House

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

President Truman will ask Congress this week for a long-range farm program, Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic leader, said yesterday.

Barkley told of the plan after a 45-minute White House conference. The message, which Barkley said might be sent to the Capitol "within a few days," will be based on a suggestion of Clinton P. Anderson, former Secretary of Agriculture.

Anderson resigned formally yesterday. The call for the conference on farm legislation came while he was a luncheon guest at the White House.

Farmers' Time "Now"

Anderson told associates such an appeal would put the Republican Congress "on the spot" with the farmers. In a recent department meeting he remarked that "the time for farmers to get a modern, long-range program is before election, not after it.

"There might be someone in the White House who would veto a farm program, as Republican Presidents Coolidge and Hoover vetoed farm bills when agriculture was in distress in the 1920s," Anderson added.

The former Secretary has been laying the groundwork in recent weeks for an appeal to the farm vote. He has emphasized the danger farmers face from a sharp drop in prices unless preparation is made.

A year ago Anderson proposed a new farm program for the Administration. Hearings were held, and have been continued by the Senate Agriculture Committee in recent weeks. No bill has been offered yet.

Anderson's program includes permanent price supports, means for disposing of farm surplusses through school lunch programs, food stamps and other means, and a revised party formula.

Price supports on most farm products expire December 31. Supports of others will drop to lower levels on the same date, unless Congress acts. The House Agriculture Committee recently recommended extension of the present wartime program until next June, postponing permanent action until after election.

Successor Unnamed

The successor to Anderson was not discussed at yesterday's meeting, which included, besides Barkley, Sam Rayburn (Tex.) Democratic House leader, Representative John W Flannagan, jr., (Va.) ranking Democrat on the House Agriculture Committee, and Senator Scott Lucas (Ill.)

In resigning to run for the Senate from New Mexico, Anderson told Mr. Truman that "when the farmers reflect on how they have progressed during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, and especially when they compare their fortunes in the years immediately following World War I and II, they will quickly see how much they have gained by your friendly consideration of their problems, and by your steady personal interest in the long-range welfare of agriculture.

"You deserve well at their hands."

Mr. Truman's acceptance said he hoped Anderson "will return to the legislative councils of the Nation."

"Thanks to your wise policies, the farmers of the Nation enjoy today the greatest prosperity in their history," he said.

The White House announced that a new Agriculture Secretary will be named "shortly."

Holt, Neeley Renew Feud In Primary

Charleston, W. Va., May 10 (AP). Two Democratic Party foes who a dozen years ago aired their differences on the United States Senate floor squared off again today to see how they would fare in West Virginia's primary election.

At the same time, on the Republican side, Harold E. Stassen prepared to find out tomorrow—how many presidential preference votes he would get. Stassen is the only major presidential aspirant on the ballot. The vote is advisory and not binding.

Voters in the 55 counties will choose nominees for United States Senate, Governor, Congress, Supreme Court, State Board of Public Works, Leislature and county offices.

Rush Holt in Race

Among five contenders for the Democratic senatorial nomination is 42-year-old Rush Dew Holt, the "Boy Senator" of early New Deal days. He was elected in 1934 but had to wait until July, 1935, before he was 30 years old and eligible to take his seat.

Also in the race is 73-year-old Matthew Mansfield Neely, veteran of more than 30 years in the House and Senate and Governor from 1941 to 1945.

Neely and Holt were once stanch political allies but after the boy Senator took office differences developed and soon reached a bitter crescendo.

Others after the nomination are R. Bruce Hoff, Parkersburg attorney and one-time candidate for Supreme Court judge; J. Buhl Shahan of Elkins, former State Senator who was State purchasing agent when Neely was Governor; and State Senator Forest McNeer of Hinton.

Senator Chapman Revercomb, Republican, who defeated Neely for the Senate in 1943, is opposed for renomination by John Alderson Sims, a Charleston chemical engineer.

A torrid Democratic campaign for the nomination for Governor has sharply divided the party.

Okey Patteson, former executive assistant to Governor Clarence W. Meadows, is running with the full support of Meadows, who is ineligible to succeed himself.

James Kay Thomas, former speaker of the house and former attorney general, is after the nomination with the backing of some high party figures. He also has the support of the Charleston Gazette.

Robert L. Bailey of Pineville, former circuit judge, is the third candidate. He remained aloof from the factional squabbling which marked the Patteson-Thomas campaign.

Dixie Rebels Defer Action

Southern voters "will not be bound to support the nominees (of the party) if such nominees or the party itself should advocate the so-called Federal civil rights program."

He said the South has "a powerful weapon" in its votes in the Electoral College and that "should the national convention choose nominees who do not meet this test (of opposing the civil rights program) . . . then the State's Democratic organization . . . should immediately take action to see that the electoral votes of Southern States shall be jointly cast in such manner as shall carry out the manifest will of the people of their State."

California and Ohio Courts Are Overruled on Covenants

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

California and Ohio court orders enforcing Jim Crow covenants were set aside by the Supreme Court yesterday.

Saved by the ruling from being put out of their homes were:

Two Los Angeles war veterans—Tom D. Amer, a Chinese, and Yin Kim, a Korean—and

The Rev. L. L. Dickerson, a Negro, who is pastor of the Monroe Avenue Church of Christ in Columbus, Ohio.

Appealed From State Courts

The homes bought by Amer and Kim and the parsonage bought by Dickerson's church all were subject to covenants, which said they could be used only by white people. State courts ordered all three to move out, and they appealed to the Supreme Court last year.

The court ruled for them yesterday by a 6 to 0 vote, without opinion, pointing out that last week the same six justices put all such covenants outside the law. The covenants themselves are lawful, Chief Justice Vinson said for the court, but it is against the Constitition for the courts to enforce them.

An agreement among California sugar refineries that they all would pay the same prices to beet growers was condemned by a 7 to 2 vote of the court, in another case yesterday. Justice Rutledge said for the majority that the price agreement was against the Constitution, and ordered that a beet grower, who complained, be given a hearing of his suit for treble damages. -AoFv1k

Rent Control Ruling

All the justices agreed yesterday that the Emergency Court of Appeals now lacks power to rule on a rent control order issued three years ago. A Manhattan, Kans., apartment house owner fought the case. Chief Justice Vinson said for the court that the apartment house owner had no right to go to court to oppose the order in the first case, so that the case could be taken to the Emergency Court of Appeals in Denver asked the justices are taken care of.

The Supreme Court will sit to hand down rulings every Monday until the 45 cases now before the Election Contest Report Drafted

By The Associated Press

A report on a contested Maryland senatorial election may be made Wednesday by the Senate Rules Subcommittee Chairman Jenner (R., Ind.) said yesterday.

Jenner and Senator Myers (D., Pa.) at a two-hour closed session prepared a final draft of the report on the contest brought against Senator O'Conor (D., Md.) by D. J. Markey, Republican.

Whether the report will be made to the full committee Wednesday, Jenner told reporters, will depend on whether Senator Bricker (R., Ohio) returns to Washington in time. Bricker is the third member of the subcommittee.

The subcommittee recently heard arguments by counsel in the months-long investigation of voting irregularities charges brought by Markey.

Bill Debate Sparks Senate Rights Battle

The Senate yesterday backed into a civil rights battle that threatens to throw a monkey wrench into leadership plans for a June 19 adjournment.

The row, which Senate Majority Whip Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) said will be fought out to a conclusion, started over a proposed ratification of a Southern inter-State compact to establish regional universities.

The bill has already been approved, 236 to 45, in the House, but Senate action was halted last week after Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) offered an amendment that none of the proposed schools should be segregated.

Southern States admittedly want the compact so they can establish regional universities for Negro students, equal to those for white students, which they say they cannot afford on a State-by-State basis.

Cooper Opposes Measure

Opposing the measure yesterday, Senator John Sherman Cooper (D., Ky.) declared congressional approval is not necessary under the Constitution, since education is a function of the States.

The States, he said, can go ahead on their own and establish such regional systems.

Paying tribute to Cooper's ability as a lawyer, Morse said he entirely agreed with this interpretation of constitutional law.

It is not necessary for Congress to approve such a regional arrangement, Morse insisted, but he edded, "If we assume congressional authorization is necessary, then we cannot avoid expressing ourselves on national policy as to the civil rights involved."

Sees "Historic Debate"

Morse, who will have the floor again when the Senate opens today, said he believed the Senate was heading into a great historic debate over the civil rights issue.

The bill to authorize the compact should be recommitted, Morse declared. He told reporters that if his antisegration amendment were defeated, he then proposed to offer President Truman's entire civil rights program, and get the Senate on record.

"Obviously," exclaimed Morse, "this must be what Senator McGrath (National Democratic Committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island) wanted when he approved this compact."

The compact is opposed by nearly every Negro organization on the ground that it would foster segregation.

Southern Senators have already agreed to an amendment, drafted by the Senate Judiciary Committee, that states that congressional approval of the regional arrangement shall not be construed as an indorsement of segregation.

Favors State's Rights

Chairman Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.), steering the bill on the floor, said he did not favor segregation, but did favor States' rights, and that the constitutions of the Southern States already provided for segregation.

Wiley pointed out that defeat of the measure would mean that Meharry Medical College, from which 52 per cent of the Negro doctors in the country are graduated, would have to close its doors. He read dozens of letters from Meharry urging passage of the compact.

Senator Spessard Holland (D., Fla.) said an anti-segregation rider would mean "the complete destruction of the compact because the States have constitutional provisions which are binding on them.

"We want to fix responsibility very plainly," Holland declared, "if Meharry Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., is forced to close its doors and if this regional plan is killed. The regional plan has been hailed by educators as the most forward-looking step in many years," Holland told reporters.

Meanwhile Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) served notice that Southern Senators are ready to filibuster against any civil rights legislation.

13 Sightseers Killed

Naples, Italy, May 10 (AP).—Marble blocks toppling from a truck fell on a group of sightseeing pilgrims near here today, killing 13 and injuring 4.

Bill Introduced

Segregation End Asked In Schools

Representative G. Klein, D., N. Y.) yesterday introduced a House bill to eliminate the dual school system in the District.

Under the present setup, Washington has what amounts to two school systems, one for white children and one for Negro children, from kindergarten through teachers college. The two systems operate under a single Board of Education, in which white and Negro communities have representation.

Klein's bill declares that with the start of the first school year after his proposal takes effect, "the segregation of persons in the public schools of the District on account of race, color, creed, national origin and ancestry is hereby prohibited."

The bill would give the Board of Education the assignment of putting the proposed law into operation.

The measure was sent to the House District Committee of which Klein is a member.

Meanwhile, a hearing scheduled for today before a House District subcommittee on proposed District equal rights legislation was postponed because of the illness of the author of a bill. Representative Adam C. Powell (D., N. Y.). No new date was set.

Human Relations Seen Better in D. C. Schools

Progress has been made during the last fifteen years to "teach better human relationships," Dr. Carl F. Hansen, first assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum in white public schools, last night told a seminar sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Meeting at Pierce Hall, 15th and Harvard sts. nw., the group heard Dr. Hansen discuss means of "enriching the curriculum."

Roads to Jerusalem Cleared, Jews Say

Jerusalem (Tuesday), May 11 (AP).—Jewish sources today said their troops battered through all Arab resistance and opened the Tel Aviv-Jerusalem highway, vital convoy lane of Jerusalem's hungry Jews.

Haganah engineers moved up behind Jewish commando forces using bulldozers and dynamite to blast the Arabs out of positions in the rocky hills along the road.

Meanwhile, the International Red Cross awaited a written request from Arab and Jewish authorities to convert the Holy City into a neutral zone.

Jewish reports said their commandos rooted Arabs out of Bab el Wad gorge on the winding mountain road, and then swept over the craggy hilltops to mop up clots of Arab resistance.

The first convoy in three weeks is scheduled to rumble over the road this morning, from Jerusalem to Tel Aviv, past bullet-scarred rocks where Arabs and Jews have fought bitterly for possession of the highway. A Jewish Agency spokesman announced the trucks would roll and it was expected a food convoy would move out toward Jerusalem from Palestine's coastal plains.

Jewish engineers, poised for five days waiting for the signal to move in, battered Arab stonework down once resistance was broken.

[A dispatch from Haifa said Safad in upper Galilee was taken by the Jews after a 10-day battle and Arabs were fleeing the town.

[This was confirmed in an Arab army communique from Damascus which said Arab troops had withdrawn from the town after fierce fighting with superior Haganah forces.].

Jacques de Reynier, a Red Cross representative, said the organization already had received verbal assurances of cooperation from Arab and Jewish leaders.

If the Red Cross plan is placed in operation, Jerusalem and its suburbs will become like a giant hospital area, "a place of refuge which all may enter, respected by all armies," De Reynier said. The plan would entail disarming all Jewish and Arab fighters in the city. A temporary cease fire, agreed to Saturday by the Jews and Arabs, now prevails in Jerusalem.

Prompt action is required if Jerusalem's status is settled before the British give up their Palestine mandate Friday at midnight.

Jewish and Arab civil authorities would be retained if Jerusalem is converted into a neutral zone. The Red Cross would act as intermediary. Jewish and Arab police forces would maintain order. Unarmed convoys would be allowed free passage into the city if they carried the Red Cross flag.

Jews Plan Mass Exodus From Italian Ports

Rome, May 10 (AP).—Tens of thousands of European Jewish immigrants are planning a mass exodus from Italian ports for Palestine, it was learned today.

They will be led by a front line of youths of fighting age, said Arie Stern, Jewish agency representative here. In an interview, he disclosed plans for emigration of "tens of thousands" of Jews from Germany, Austria and Italy.

The mass movement is expected to begin with proclamation of the Jewish free state, expected May 16. It will depend, also, on Jewish seizure and control of entry ports in Palestine. Ships are being readied in Genoa, Venice and Naples to transport the refugees.

French Police Probe 'Plot' Against British Princess

Jewish State Recognition Signs Mount

Lake Success, N. Y., May 10 (U.P.). Indications mounted today that several United Nations members might give diplomatic recognition to the Jewish state that is expected to be proclaimed when the British mandate ends Friday midnight.

Following Russia's hint last week that it might bolster such a self-proclaimed state with recognition, Poland and Guatemala gave similar indications at a meeting tonight of the special committee that is devising a plan to install a "makeshift" regime in Palestine by the weekend deadline.

Speculation about the possibility that the Jewish state might get a boost through the appointment of several ambassadors overshadowed the subcommittee's efforts to rush formation of a policeless regime that would be little more than a symbol.

The United States has been trying desperately to forestall formation of a Jewish state.

Jorge Granados of Guatemala told the subcommittee, in the course of debate that, after May 15, it would be up to each U. N. member to decide whether it would recognize any new states proclaimed in the Holy Land.

Granados has been one of the stanchest supporters of partition from the start.

Man's Body Found Below Tidal Basin Flood Gates

The body of an unidetnified man was found floating yesterday afternoon in Washington Channel about 25 yards below the Tidal Basin flood gates.

Capt. Anthony Richette, Ninth Precince commander, discovered the body at about 4:15 p. m. while cruising in a yacht. He notified the Harbor Police, who recovered the body at about 4:30.

The man, a Negro, was described as about 22 years old, 5 feet 10 inches, 163 pounds and wearing herringbone trousers, a tan Navy zipper jacket, tan shoes, blue socks and a light tan shirt. He was pronounced dead at Gallinger Hospital and the body removed to the morgue.

the assurance that the door to discussion of American-Russian problems stands open.

The main points of the Russian note were:

1. Russia has a "positive attitude" toward improving Soviet-American relations.

2. Russia "is in agreement with" the United States proposal for "discussion and settlement" of existing differences.

3. Russia rejects the United States contention that "the cause of the present unsatisfactory state of Soviet-American relations and the strain in the international situation is the policy of the USSR in eastern Europe and the increase in influence of the Soviet Union.

4. Soviet relations with eastern European countries have improved considerably since the war by means of mutual aid and friendship pacts aimed at prevention of aggression by Germany and her possible allies.

U. S. Moves Cited

5. Similarly, "it is known that the United States is also pursuing a policy of strengthening its relations with neighboring countries—for instance with Canada, Mexico and the other countries of America."

6. This Soviet policy will continue.

7. Russia has not interfered in the evolution of "democratic changes" within eastern European countries.

8. The United States permits interference in the internal affairs of other countries, "the events in Greece being not the only example."

9. "There would be no cause for a negative attitude on the part of the Soviet Union" toward the Marshall Plan if the question of European rehabilitation were "not put the way it is"; that if it were put "on a basis of normal conditions of international economic cooperation within the framework of the United Nations organization on a basis of respect for national rights and the sovereignty of states."

War Damage Recalled

10. Russia, "one of the countries which economically suffered most during the war, is extremely interested in the development of post-war international economic cooperation."

The Russian note, as broadcast by the Moscow radio, contrasted what it termed military threats against the Soviet Union with its government's pursuit of "a consistent peace policy."

The American note, according to the radio, said the present state of American-Soviet relations is "a source of serious disappointment" to the American people and their Government, and added:

"My Government sincerely hopes that members of the Soviet government will not disregard the policy of the United States Government outlined here.

"The door always remains open for . . . discussion and settlement off our differences."

entire nation. The way has been left open for the north to join later if it desires.

Instead, the Russian-sponsored North Korean regime bitterly opposed the balloting in the south. Communist and leftist parties refused to enter candidates, so that the contest was entirely among rightists.

Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, American occupation commander, blamed "Communist stooges of northern masters" for the waves of sporadic murder and sabotage.

Americans took no part in the policing.

General Hodge and the American military governor, Maj. Gen. William F. Deane, both toured many precincts at the height of the voting. They expressed pleasure at the good order and at the surprising number of women who voted.

"It shows the people are serious about what they are doing," said General Hodge. "It was an inspiration to me."

Deadline Set For Pentagon Loyalty Oaths

The 600 workers in Pentagon cafeterias and snack bars have until May 20 to file loyalty affidavits, according to a directive issued yesterday by the Military District of Washington.

The MDW order followed a similar order from Federal Works Administrator Philip B. Fleming last week requiring employes of Government Services, Inc., to sign loyalty oaths by May 15 or lose their jobs.

MDW headquarters specified in its order than the loyalty affidavit which is to be required "as a condition of work" for the Pentagon restaurant and snack bar workers after May 20 must be similar in form to that required of Civil Service employes under the Government's loyalty program. They termed the order issued "in the interests of security."

The Pentagon cafeterias are operated by the National Food Corp., which has a contract with Local 471, United Cafeteria Workers' Union (CIO).

ing mainly the Communists—and the Congress should not play into their hands.

But the leftist rebels would not be talked out of their struggles. Mathe insisted his delegation should not return to France with the resolution as it stood. He said the workers of Europe wanted to be a part of the movement for a united Europe. Finally a compromise was arranged and the resolution was adopted unanimously.

Meanwhile, the Congress adopted a resolution calling for a European assembly to spur the governments of Europe to some sort of federation. The assembly, which is expected to be set up later, would also:

1. Advise on immediate practical measures for the economic and political union of Europe.

2. Examine juridical and constitutional problems involved in such a union or federation.

3. Prepare necessary plans for it.

World Union Committee Shelves Explosive Issue

Rome, May 10 (AP).—The executive committee of the World Federation of Trade Unions ended its sessions tonight without an open East-West breach.

The explosive issue of the status of Leon Jouhaux's breakaway faction of the Communist-ruled French General Confederation of Labor was put aside until the next meeting in Paris in August.

The question was whether the non-Communist French labor faction would retain membership in the WFTU. Delegates from 22 countries attended the meeting.

Television Tower Plan Opposed

Arlington's County board tonight is expected to receive a request for a use permit to erect a 400-foot television tower in the county's Country Club Grove area.

The use permit is being sought by the A. B. Dumont Laboratories, Inc., as a site for transmission of television programs of Station WTTG. It would be located in the 3700 block of N. Upland st.

Nearby home and property owners are protesting on grounds the tower will lower local real estate values and spoil the beauty of the residential neighborhood. County Manager A. T. Lundberg has said he will recommend denial by the permit at tonight's meeting.

While the AEC is making its review, Condon voluntarily agreed he will "restrict his activities and contacts so that he will acquire no new information with respect to atomic energy."

Your Scalp . . . a DYNAMIC HAIR GROWER!

R. W. FARRELL, Trichologist

AVOID BALDNESS . . .
Let Hair Experts "Normalize" Your Scalp to help Produce THICKER HAIR

YOU CAN'T STOP THRIVING HAIR GROWTH IN A NORMAL SCALP!
Nature's innate urge to grow luxurious hair is so intense that it takes a strong, continuous retardant, or infection to stop the functions of hair reproduction. When excessive hair loss indicates a laxity or sluggishness in hair-growing activity, Hair Experts analyze and rejuvenate the complete cycle of hair growth so that lost hair will be replaced naturally by strong, virile, obvious hair growth.

IS YOUR SCALP REPLACING HAIR AS FAST AS IT IS LOST?
The average normal scalp loses about 26,500 hairs per year. If your scalp is functioning normally, thick, healthy hairs will replace those lost in the normal replacement process . . . But if just one factor is out of balance, the replacement hairs will come in shorter, and weaker, and be successively replaced by still weaker hairs, until fuzz and scanty bald spots begin to show. If this condition exists over a period of time, your hair follicles will collapse shut from disuse and deadly follicle shrinkage will set in. After that it is too late. It is pathetic but true, that most bald people could have saved their hair and their looks had they acted in time . . . before follicle shrinkage was too far advanced.

HERE ARE THE DANGER SIGNALS:
If you have excessive hair in your combings, if you have short weak hairs at your frontal hairline, if there is excessive dryness, or oiliness, if your scalp is itchy, then there is some condition attacking your normal hair growth. Frankly, in most cases it is a seborrheic infection nurtured by heavy imbedded dandruff, which chokes off the follicular tubes. The new replacement hairs are successively weakened until they are no longer able to force their way through to the scalp surface.

WHAT ARE SCIENCE'S INSTRUMENTS TO CONQUER NATURE'S WEAKNESS?
Hair Experts use the most modern trichological methods in the country to combat and replace hair loss. Ultra-violet lamp therapy, exclusive formulae created in our own laboratories, intensive professional stimulation, and massage are all scientifically combined to normalize and return the scalp to healthy vigorous growth. Treatments are pleasant, and relaxing. No odorous chemicals, ointments, or greasy salves are used. Treatments are timed to suit your social, and physical requirements.

Truman Asks More Europe Aid Money

President Truman asked Congress yesterday to appropriate another installment of the world-wide aid authorized last month under the Foreign Assistance Act.

The new request was for 818 million dollars for China, Turkey, Greece, Trieste and the United Nations children fund. It came while the House Appropriations Committee still was holding hearings on the previous request to appropriate $4,245,000,000 for the European Recovery Program.

During the ERP debate, Chairman John Taber (R., N.Y.) said May 10 would be the earliest date by which his committee could finish its work. The May 10 date came and went yesterday, with a committee spokesman unable to say when the hearings would end.

Using RFC's Billion

At present European recovery expenditures are being financed by an RFC advance of a billion dollars, which should last until early in June.

To avoid delay, the Senate Appropriations Committee is considering starting its hearings Thursday, although usually it waits until the House committee has brought out a report.

Thanks for American help came from President Vicent Auriol of France in a message to President Truman made public at the White House yesterday.

"On the day when the first ship loaded with European Cooperation Administration cargo has reached French shores," the French President wrote, "I wish to express to you, in the name of the French people, the deep gratitude and friendship which they feel for the American people."

Auriol said the passage of the Foreign Assistance Act by Congress, "in a generous spirit of international solidarity," would bolster Europe's economy and be "a decisive contribution to world peace."

In London, where ECA Ambassador W. Averell Harriman stopped briefly on his way to Paris yesterday, a tribute to American aid was paid by Sir John Boyd Orr, director general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. He called American generosity unsurpassed in history.

"The people of the United States are making sacrifices by sending food to distressed countries, with no other thought in mind than alleviating human misery," said Orr. "Politics does not matter. You would be surprised at the extent to which private individuals and organizations, apart from the Government, are sending food parcels abroad."

Harriman in Paris For Recovery Talks

Paris, May 10 (U.P.)—W. Averell Harriman, roving Ambassador of the European recovery program, arrived here by airplane today for a three-day visit during which he hopes to determine the needs and ideas of the European Recovery Organization.

Harriman was involved in a minor auto crash en route from the airport to his hotel. The American Embassy automobile in which he was riding collided with a taxicab. Fenders were damaged, but no one was injured. Harriman continued the drive.

Harriman said he plans to confer with French Foreign Minister George Bidault and Finance Minister Rene Mayer. He will go to London Wednesday.

Big Red Force Nears Mukden

Nanking, May 10 (AP).—Half a million Communist troops were reported marching toward Mukden today.

A Chinese government spokesman predicted a "decisive battle" for the biggest Manchurian city.

Government dispatches said the National air force had started its heaviest Manchurian operation in weeks.

The government reports said Communist Gen. Lin Piao had started one force marching south from Itung, 140 miles northeast of Mukden.

An equally large force was said to be moving northward from points flanking the Peiping-Mukden Railway. The unofficial estimate of 500,000 Communists is more than three times as great as the government's Mukden garrison.

Government generals returned by air to Mukden after weekend conferences in Nanking with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

In China proper, fighting centered in western Honan Province, near the Han River.

Boy, 6, Mortally Burned, Walks To Doctor's Office

Suncook, N. H., May 10 (AP).—A 6-year-old boy, alone at his home when his nightclothes caught fire, put out the flames, dressed, shut his dog in the barn and went for help.

He died a few hours later in a hospital.

Henry Beard, son of Ralph E. Beard, walked to the office of Dr. B. L. Freeman. Dr. Freeman took him to the Concord Hospital, where emergency treatment for second- and third-degree burns failed.

Dr. Freeman described the child's efforts as "superhuman."

The physician said the lad's clothing caught fire when he was trying to fry himself an egg. His father was at work.

Sforza Reported Ready to Withdraw

Near Albania

Armies Clash On 35-Mile Greek Front

Athens, May 10 (AP).—Greek army troops and Communist-led guerillas clashed on a 35-mile front today in a battle of "considerable intensity" near the Albanian border, a general staff communique said.

The Greek regulars killed 46 rebels and captured 30 others, the bulletin said. In the last 72 hours, the guerillas are reported to have suffered almost 400 casualties on this western Macedonian battleground.

The communique gave the army's losses as 15 dead and 41 wounded and said the regulars seized a large amount of munitions and arms.

By pushing westward, the Greek troops hope to break into the Pindus mountain range that the army says the guerillas utilize as a supply route from Albania. The front now reaches from Nestorion southeast to Grevena. Nestorion is five miles from the Albanian frontier.

Meanwhile, the Greek high command met here with King Paul I and heads of the United States and British military missions. It is believed plans for the next phase of the operations against the guerillas were completed.

Rome (Tuesday), May 11 (AP).—Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza, apparent leading candidate for the Italian presidency, has asked that his name be withdrawn, it was reported early today.

"Don't push my candidacy any further," he was quoted as telling a Christian Democratic delegation which visited him last night to discuss yesterday's presidential vote in Parliament.

The Parliament failed yesterday in two hotly contested ballots to elect a President of the new republic. The vote was scheduled to be resumed later this morning.

There were indications yesterday that Sforza, an internationally known diplomat and outspoken anti-Communist, would be named to the office. He was opposed by the Communist-dominated Popular Front which was defeated in last month's parliamentary election by the Christian Democrats.

On the second ballot yesterday, Sforza recorded a substantial gain over Enrico de Nicola, who has announced that he does not want the office. The Popular Front was backing De Nicola.

There was no immediate indication on what basis the voting will proceed when Parliament reconvenes later today.

Political circles said Sforza probably had been influenced in his decision to seek withdrawal by the fact that some of De Gasperi's Christian Democrats had voted against him and that Sforza's own Republican Party was ready to withdraw the support it gave him on the second ballot.

It also was reported that Giuseppe Saragat's Independent Socialists promised to support Sforza in return for concessions in the make-up of De Gasperi's new cabinet. The Premier finally considered their demands too drastic, political circles said.

On the second ballot yesterday Sforza's 405 votes to De Nicola's 336 still were far short of the two thirds margin of 600 votes needed to elect on the first three ballots. However, it was near the simple majority of 451 which will suffice to elect a President on a fourth ballot.

On the first ballot De Nicola, who has served as provisional President the last two years, received 396 votes to 353 for Sforza.

There was a scattering of votes for Luigi Einaudi, governor of the Bank of Italy and cabinet budget director; Alessandro Casati, former War Minister; Cipriano Facchinetti, Minister of Defense, and Ivanhoe Bonomi, elder statesmen elected senate president two days ago.

Sforza not only was De Gasperi's candidate; he was also, although not officially, the choice of De Nicola himself.

Sforza, first as an independent and then as a member of the Republican Party, participated in De Gasperi's cabinet and aided the Premier in his fight to hold power after the Communists and other extreme leftists were ousted from the cabinet a year ago.

The two houses of Parliament meet in joint session for the voting. The new President will designate the man who will form the new cabinet.

Leadership Crisis Reported in Hungary

Vienna, May 10 (NYHT).—High diplomatic sources reported tonight a crisis within the top Communist Party leadership in Hungary which they described as the most serious in that country since the Communists took control a year ago.

They reported that Soviet embassy personnel have been in regular consultation with both sides in order to patch the differences with quarreling leaders represented by Vice Premier Matyas Rakosi, who also is the party's titular leader, and his consistent critic within the Communist organization, Minister of Interior Lazlo Rajk.

Rakosi and Rajk are said to disagree over the problems of the remaining opposition groups in Parliament and over relations with the Roman Catholic Church.

Merchant Ship Sailings of Reds a Puzzle

New York, May 10 (U.P.).—The Russian merchant fleet has become "a prime source of mystery" to shipping men, the American Merchant Marine Institute said today.

The institute, representing 60 American steamship lines, said the movements of only 110 of the 660 ocean-going ships of the Soviet marine are listed in Lloyd's Register.

"Following no schedule and maintaining no regular services, Russian ships appear to be engaged in long and uneconomic voyages," the announcement said. "As an example, a Russian ship will sail from the Black Sea with a cargo of manganese for Baltimore. After discharging, it will call at several Atlantic and gulf ports, picking up cargo at each.

"But instead of returning to the Black Sea, as would be the normal practice, the vessel is apt to go through the Panama Canal, and call at several West Coast ports before sailing across the Pacific to Vladivostok, a total distance of 16,000 miles."

The institute said such an operation "raises the suspicion" the vessels serve chiefly as training ships for naval and merchant marine personnel.

Reports are received only on Russian ships that touch foreign ports, the announcement said. The bulk of the Soviet fleet is occupied in traffic between Russian or Russian-controlled ports, where strict censorship exists.

Only 23 of the 87 American-built ships now under the Russian flag through lend-lease or State Department sale can be located, the AMMI said.

French Balk At U. S. Plan

London, May 10 (AP).—Diplomatic sources reported French opposition today to major features of an American plan for putting western Germany on its feet financially.

Chiefs of the United States, British and French delegations to the six-power conference here on Germany went quickly into secret session to work out a compromise between speeding German industrial recovery and keeping it from dominating the continent's economy.

Results were not disclosed. Upon the outcome may depend how far the six-power meeting can go in using western Germany's resources as a unit for European recovery.

French delegates have received instructions to stick to French demands that the proposed international authority over the Ruhr Valley be given strong and lasting powers over distribution of the area's resources. The United States has advocated consultative rights.

With support of the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, the French were reported firmly opposed to an American plan that would, in effect, give western Germany full partnership in trade relations among the western countries.

Bit Player

Actor Held In $30,000 Store Holdup

Hollywood, May 10 (AP).—A real life tale which was something like reel life led today to the booking of a movie bit player—whose last role was in "G-Men Never Forget"—for questioning in a $30,000 Denver department store holdup.

Aylesworth

Sergt. Dan B. Gilmore of the police fugitive detail identified him as Douglas D. Aylesworth, 40, and said he was held on a booking "fugitive for Colorado—grand theft," pending receipt of a warrant from Denver.

Aylesworth was taken in custody late Saturday night at the Masquers' Club, exclusive gathering-place for Hollywood actors.

He told a reporter today: "It was just a lost weekend. I don't remember much of what happened."

In reel life, in his latest role, Aylesworth played a police commissioner's secretary. But, charged Gilmore, in real life he is suspected of being a pseudo bank guard who walked away with the day's receipts from a Denver department store.

Senate Passes Bill Requiring 6-Month Alien Registration

By the Associated Press

The Senate yesterday passed and sent to the House a bill to require registration twice a year of aliens who live in the United States.

The penalty for failing to do so would be a fine up to $200 and a 30-day jail sentence.

It was one of a series of bills concerning aliens passed by the Senate. They include:

1. A bill making it easier for aliens who served honorably in the United States armed forces in World Wars I and II to obtain citizenship. It goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments.

2. A bill denying admission of dangerous aliens. It would give the Attorney General power to exclude aliens who might be coming to the United States to engage in activities "which will endanger the public safety." The bill now goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments.

3. A measure to enlarge the class of deportable aliens eligible for suspension of deportation at the discretion of the Attorney General. It like wise goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments.

4. A bill giving alien males married to United States citizen women non-quota status if the marriage occurred prior to January 1, 1948. The present law provides for non-quota status if the marriage occurred before July 1, 1932. It goes to the White House.

Secretary Sawyer Chary of Controls

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, newest member of the Truman Cabinet, has little enthusiasm for Government controls.

Asked to give his views on the question yesterday, he said:

"In general my feeling is that the less Government control of inflation or anything else, the better; but, obviously, where control is needed to preserve our economy, it should be provided."

"Do you see any specific instances where (inflation) controls are needed at this time?" a reporter asked.

Opinions Are Deferred

"Well, there may be specific instances." Secretary Sawyer answered, "but I prefer at the moment not to undertake to list them."

He was asked whether he was familiar with President Truman's 10-point anti-inflation program, which calls for wage-price and rationing controls among others.

"Not too familiar," Sawyer said. "I have read it sometime back. I prefer not to be quizzed on that, if you don't mind."

"Does that mean you might disagree with some of the points?" he was asked.

"That doesn't mean anything," he said, "except I would like a little time."

Concerned With U. S.

Secretary Sawyer, who succeeded W. Averell Harriman at Commerce, repeated what he said the day he arrived in Washington—that while Paul G. Hoffman and Harriman are setting out to restore the economy of Europe through the Marshall Plan, it would be a good idea for him to try to maintain the economy of the United States.

"I have a very definite feeling," he said, "that perhaps in our very proper and generous desire to help other nations, we may not give quite enough attention to our own.

"If this great capitalistic country here doesn't demonstrate its ability to survive and set an example of how democracy can work, any effort to save the world in other fields, it seems to me, would be useless."

Secretary Sawyer, an Ohioan who was wartime Ambassador to Belgium, said that his views on maintaining the American economy should not be taken to mean that he is an isolationist. He said he knew at first-hand how Europe had suffered and appreciated also that some effort must be made to reduce the imbalance of export and import trade.

Diaz Leads in Panama Voting

Panama, Panama, May 10 (AP).—On a basis of unofficial country-wide returns, Domingo Diaz Arosemena, 74-year-old political veteran, held a slim lead tonight in the race for Panama's presidency.

Early returns from the Sunday election gave Diaz 37,973. Close behind him were the other two leading contenders, Arnulfo Arias Madrid with 35,558, and Jose Isaac Fabrega, 35,238. Independents totaled only 1707 in early counting.

Arias, a former President, was ahead when the first two precincts were counted—one in Panama and the other in Colon.

Counting of votes continued today after suspension over Sunday.

In addition to the presidency, ballots were marked for two Vice Presidents and 42 Congressmen.

Government Party In Venezuela Ahead

Caracas, Venezuela, May 10 (U.P.).—First returns from yesterday's local elections gave the left of center Democratic Action (government) Party a lead of nearly 4 to 1 over the combined opposition.

Votes so far tabulated for 156 district councils gave Democratic Action 110,114 again 25,305 for the conservative opposition party COPEI; 4011 for the left-wing Republican Union and 2146 for the Communists.

Political observers predicted the same ratio would prevail in the total vote, giving Democratic Action an even greater victory than its 3-to-1 landslide in the national election last December.

Final returns will probably be available Wednesday or Thursday.

3 Former Strikers At Fairlington Get Prison Terms

Three former union strikers at Fairlington were given prison terms yesterday in Fairfax County Circuit Court on charges of assaulting a nonstriking worker at the Arlington housing development last December 13.

Sentenced to two years in the State Penitentiary at Richmond was Wilbert L. Roberson, 33, 940 P st. nw.

Wilson Robinson, 48, 3345 King st., Alexandria, and Edward M. Putnam, 24, 635 N. Washington st., Alexandria, each received one-year sentences.

The men pleaded innocent to the charge, which grew out of the knifing of Thomas O. Davis, the nonstriker. The three will be tried later this week on charges of similarly assaulting two other persons.

Air Force Bill Approved

debate simultaneously in both houses next week.

Only minor questions were under consideration at yesterday's meeting on the air power expansion bill. Both the Senate and House previously had voted overwhelmingly for 822 million dollars more than President Truman had recommended for new USAF planes.

The conferees agreed to make all prime or subcontracts in excess of $1000 subject to renegotiation, if the total orders held by a manufacturer in one year exceeds $100,000 and the Secretary of Defense believes excessive profits have been made.

Another change allows the Navy to spend $500,000 in expanding privately owned aircraft plants. The Senate had voted two million dollars for this purpose, the House nothing.

A total of $20,849,000 was allowed the Army Engineers to complete some existing projects. The House had voted nothing for this purpose and the Senate, $30,049,000.

Nonscheduled Airline Control Sought by CAB

By The Associated Press

The Civil Aeronautics Board asked Congress yesterday for authority to regulate the operations of non-scheduled, contract air carriers.

Emory T. Nunneley, CAB General Counsel, laid the request before a Senate Commerce Committee. He said the aim of the regulation "is not to stifle this class of operations, but to afford them a legitimate sphere wothin which to fit into the orderly and economically sound deveuopment of the air transport system."

H. B. McCoy, speaging for the Department of Commerce's office of Domestic Commerce, indorsed the principle of regulation. But he said he does not think it necessary to provide the broad authority proposed in a bill which the committee is considering.

That bill, by Senator Brewster (R., Me.), was indorsed by Robert Ramspeck, vice president of the Air Transport Association. It was opposed by Raymond A. Norden, president of Seaboard and Western Airlines, Inc., and by Langdon P. Marvin, jr., of New York city, testifying as an individual.

Rebuff To Hawaii

Surely the members of the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs who carried the 7-5 vote against reporting out the Hawaiian Statehood bill cannot believe that another investigation will shed any new light on the question. In view of the five separate congressional probes in the last 13 years, the committee's decision to defer action pending further study "on the ground" looks offhand like a mere excuse for another junket. That may be an unfair interpretation, but certainly the action reflected a strange sort of conservatism. If the reasons for deferment were political, for example, the move hardly can be expected to arouse any huzzas in Hawaii—which, by the way, has sent a Republican Delegate to Congress.

Committee members could not have been unaware of the fact that their vote, if unchallenged, would vitiate the approval last summer by the House and effectively doom Statehood legislation during the balance of this Congress. Senator Knowland has proposed the logical corrective for this situation in his resolution to discharge the committee from further consideration of the Statehood bill. That resolution, even if it does not carry the Senate, may have enough weight to induce the committee to review its close vote. In any event, the people of the United States have been the losers no less than the people of Hawaii in this hide-and-seek game, not only because of Hawaii's admirable qualifications for intelligent membership in the Federal Union, but also on the practical ground that Hawaii contributes far more than it takes from the Federal Treasury. The way the stall has developed, residents of Hawaii may be forgiven a little impatience with the devious ways of Congress. We hope they'll keep trying.

The New Churchill

Metternich felt that peace could be insured only by the recognition across frontiers of a unifying idea. His idea was legitimacy. If peoples, he said, agreed on the return of legitimate governments, then the panic left by the Napoleonic wars would disappear. Mr. Churchill is actuated by the same approach in the present peace-making. Different occasion, different ideas; Mr. Churchill's unifying idea is—unity itself. His is now the voice that is making federation the stuff of European politics. To be sure, a wide gulf is fixed between idea and realization, but this idea is equipped with hands and feet because of the circumstances of its birth.

The first augury of success of the movement to federate Europe is the intrinsic merit of the idea. Neighborhood is the word of the twentieth century. It is forced upon the people of this earth by the physical facts of their new environment. It is now possible to dispatch a message around the earth in a few seconds and to travel around it in less than four days. In this new environment fiat maps have become archaic, national sovereignty an anachronism, and the strategy of American security a global business. Related to the merit inherent in the idea of a federated Europe is its timeliness. Lecky says that no matter how merit-worthy an idea may be, there must be "a predisposition in society" to receive it. The common man is ready—of that we are convinced. To their slowpoke governments the peoples of Europe long ago gave a mandate not to talk about the difficulties of federating Europe but to resolve them.

The final augury of success for a federated Europe is the leadership that is now forthcoming. Mr. Churchill has become our No. 1 world citizen. He will not live long enough, perhaps, to be the statesman of federated Europe. His role is rather that of prophet. None could better fill it. Mr. Churchill inspires the boldness and imagination without which men would remain chained to their own pedestrianism. He furnishes exhilaration to the common life of freemen everywhere. Yet he knows the difficulties of working out his conception: I am a European. How to conquer them? Surely in his way, which is to think in terms of the European civilization. He appreciates the talon-like grip of national sovereignty. The way to undo the attachment, he says, is to talk not of relinquishment but to enlarge the grip—to think of "that larger sovereignty which can alone protect [the nations'] diverse and distinctive customs and characteristics and their national traditions."

Men move toward their destiny under the impetus of danger. The danger that is spurring unity in Europe is, of course, the threat of communism. The way to react to it is the Churchill way. For if danger excites fear, the danger will triumph. If, however, it promotes challenge, the danger is doomed. There is a dynamic about communism that can be overcome only by a greater dynamic. A bad idea can be conquered only by a better one. As we know in presidential campaigns, antis do not win victories. That is why the new movement in Europe is so much to be welcomed and encouraged. For the weakness of Europe, no less than the aggression of Moscow, is driving this country inexorably into a military state.

Railroad Seizure

In seizing the railroads yesterday and ordering the Army to keep them in operation, President Truman took the only reasonable course open to him. The public health and welfare demand, as the President's statement emphasized, "continuous and uninterrupted transportation service." Labor unions which believe that they can stop the Nation's trains and inflict incalculable hardships upon the public and millions of other workers in order to enforce their demands now have their answer. It is that a paralysis of our economic life will not be tolerated, as was evidenced by the granting of an injunction against the strike, as well as by the President's seizure of the roads. The leaders of the three brotherhoods which planned the strike ought to have learned this lesson from the experience of the United Mine Workers, even though railway unions are not covered by the Taft-Hartley Act. Evidently they preferred to learn it the hard way, that is to say, by inviting and then bowing to a court injunction to stay at work.

There is at least one encouraging aspect of the whole controversy with the brotherhoods. Government did not this time upset the recommendations of its own fact-finding board under a strike threat. On numerous occasions in the past the White House has flouted the carefully worked out recommendations of emergency boards set up under the Railway Labor Act. Indeed, that practice became so general that leaders of the railway unions came to think that they had not done their duty to their members until they had thrown down the emergency board's proposed settlement and tried to wring more favorable terms from the President. We have no doubt that this recent history accounts for the last-ditch attitude of the three brotherhoods in the present case. There is cause for them to complain that the Government has changed its tactics, but it is a change for the better. If the Government had an unbroken record of upholding the recommendations of its emergency boards, when the carriers and the brotherhoods have been unable to settle their own differences through collective bargaining, we suspect that it would seldom, if ever, have to invoke its seizure powers.

Congress as well as the brotherhoods may profitably take note of the President's statement of yesterday. He acted under the Federal possession and control law of 1916 which authorizes the President to seize any transportation system if that becomes necessary in time of war. Technically, the country is still at war, but the President justified his action in the name of "public health" and "the public welfare." The indisputable fact is that an extended Nation-wide railroad strike would be disastrous in time of either war or peace. The President ought to have well defined powers for dealing with such an emergency, without having to rely upon a wartime measure that may soon be inapplicable. Since the present emergency has been met, it may be too much to expect Congress to deal with this complicated problem on the eve of an election, but it is a problem that will have to be met and the national interest would be served best by meeting it before rather than after a peacetime emergency has arisen.

University Women

It is too bad that the strife over membership qualifications between the Washington branch and the national organization of the American Association of University Women could not have been settled internally. Now that the local group has obtained a temporary restraining order against ouster by the national chapter, however, the matter becomes one of public concern. Simply stated, the issue is akin to that of States' rights versus the national authority. Regardless of the merits of either position, a court test should be welcomed as the only apparent way to end friction which certainly is doing respect for the AAUW no good.

The controversy arose a year and a half ago when the Washington branch declined to admit a qualified Negro applicant who was a member of the national chapter. In December, 1946, the national board of directors reaffirmed the AAUW's status as an educational society and asserted that it "has no basis for membership except an approved degree from a college or university on the association's list." Subsequently the Washington branch drew up new by-laws giving it the right to screen applicants, a stand approved by a referendum. The national organization refused to accept this qualification and ordered the Washington body to make its by-laws conform to national standards by May 6 or sever its affiliation. Contending that it should be the judge of its own membership, the local branch has obtained a District Court restraining order pending a hearing for an injunction on May 13.

No one, of course, can challenge the right of any group of women to choose their own associates. But it is hard to see how the courts can sustain the right of a local body to set up policies in conflict with those of a national association and still retain membership in that organization. The national AAUW, which has the responsibility of granting charters, would soon lose its stature and influence if its standards could be disregarded at will by constituent chapters enunciating opposite principles. Carried into the political sphere, such an assumption would mean that States had the right to set their own qualifications for citizenship in complete denial of the Federal Constitution and their obligations to the Federal Union. The very nature of the title, American Association of University Women, implies an organization open to all university women without regard to such accidental distinctions as the color of their skin.

Condon File

Dr. Edward U. Condon's desire to have the FBI report on his loyalty made public is altogether understandable and affords additional testimony of his own conviction of innocence. There are compelling reasons, nevertheless, why his desire should not be gratified. It was certainly not for the purpose of protecting Dr. Condon as an individual that the Secretary of Commerce refused to release this FBI report to the House Committee on Un-American Activities or that the President forbade the publication of any reports compiled in the course of the loyalty investigation program. As Dr. Condon himself noted in his letter to Secretary of Commerce Sawyer requesting publication of the FBI report, "the President's decision was based on general policy considerations." These policy considerations transcend in importance the embarrassment they happen, unfortunately, to occasion Dr. Condon.

The material in this and other FBI loyalty reports was obtained under a pledge of confidence. Disclosure might imperil the bureau's ability to gather needed information in the future. Loyalty reports necessarily include much that is merely groundless gossip, involving the names and reputations of persons other than the particular employe under investigation. Disclosure might do irreparable injury to wholly innocent individuals who are not themselves being investigated and consequently have no means of being cleared. Disclosure might, in addition, when, as in this case, it involves foreign diplomatic personnel, prove gravely embarrassing to the Department of State; and it might give warning to persons whom the FBI wants to keep under surveillance.

The Condon case is a special one in that, as he remarked, "the issue which the House Committee is making about this letter (the FBI report) is largely fictitious." The committee has already made public a portion of the report—presumably all of it that could be construed as disparaging to Dr. Condon in any way. Another portion, which pretty well refuted what the committee had released, appeared subsequently in the press. But publication by the President would shatter the very sound principle on which he and his predecessors have stood in insisting that all FBI reports remain strictly confidential. Dr. Condon's point of personal privilege should never have been raised and deserves to be rejected.

Routine Nuptials

The vogue for romantic, picturesque weddings, so strong in recent years in the Western world, is threatening to invade the Soviet Union. Letter writers to Komosol Pravda, official organ of the Young Communist League, have recently been complaining that marriage has become too bureaucratic. They call for flowers, lace and "fatherly talks" by local Soviet officials to supplement present procedure of waiting in line at a marriage registration office and getting a wedding document stamped.

We wonder whether young Russian Communists realize what a perilous step this would be ideologically. Once bridal ceremony got its foot in the door, it would never stop. Soon there would be veils, orange blossoms, white satin gowns with trains. Next would come bridesmaids, ushers, best men, flower girls, ring bearers. This would call for potted palm backgrounds, candles, vocalists, wedding marches. Soon the Obolenskys would hold a wedding reception for their daughter Natasha and display the salad bowls, sugar tongs, and bud vases—or their equivalent—she had received. Then other families would have to do likewise. Next would come showers for the bride to be, and her acquisitive instinct would grow by leaps and bounds as she salted away her luncheon cloths, eggbeaters, tea towels—or their equivalent. Before long a complete bourgeois wedding would be in the making!

That is not all. Brides and bridegrooms would begin thinking in terms of cottages or apartments worthy of their treasures. Mothers of daughters would be looking for young men who could provide gadgets and security. Mothers of young men would be casting about for young women who would come into marriage with a dozen of everything in flat silver. People would get their minds on possessions, private property, savings, bank accounts. Ambition would develop. "Decadent" capitalistic attitudes would intrude. Purges would be necessary. No, the Kremlin had better see to it that its young people stick to bureaucratic weddings.

Strange Line

President Arthur Besse of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers says that attempts to build up imports by further tariff cuts should be abandoned. His reasoning is simple: The foreign loans we are making are in reality gifts; hence there is no need for the United States to import to the extent necessary for full repayment of such loans. The premise on which Mr. Besse bases his conclusions is itself open to challenge, because some of the aid furnished countries participating in the recovery program will be given in the form of loans for which we expect to receive payment. However, the ability of the debtors to make such payments will depend to a large extent upon the success of their efforts and our own to open up channels of world trade for export of goods and services. Even accepting Mr. Besse's untenable premise that all our loans are disguised gifts, the countries receiving such gifts would be in no position to shift for themselves when the gifts ceased flowing unless, in the meantime, they had succeeded in expanding their foreign trade sufficiently to pay for essential imports.

Milk Monopoly

The recent decision of Justice Keech throwing out the antitrust indictment against the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association leaves the local milk consumer with a feeling of helpless frustration. It seems unbelievable that any Federal statute does, as Mr. Leahy, counsel for the milk association, put it, grant a "right to become a monopoly" to any group, with complete disregard for the public welfare. As the Justice Department attorney asserted, Congress could certainly not have intended to legalize "illegal transactions."

While it is likely that there may be a difference of opinion as to whether or not practices of any given association result in undue enhancement of the price of an agricultural product, apparently sufficient cause had been shown to justify an antitrust indictment against the Maryland - Virginia Milk Producers Association by the grand jury, and consumers rejoiced at an opportunity to have the facts examined in the courts.

Moreover, in spite of Mr. Leahy's statement to the contrary, consumers in this area have "squawked" on many occasions. As recently as April 1, 1947, the Department of Agriculture was called on by a consumers' group to "investigate the monopolistic practices of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association."

Mr. Leahy also referred to legislation which had been passed to avoid price depressing surpluses for farmers, but so strong was the monopolistic position of his clients that early in 1947 they withdrew from a marketing agreement set up under the aforementioned legislation through which they had enjoyed price protection since 1939. Had they stayed in the agreement the price of milk would probably have gone down 1 cent per quart or more. By virtue of their monopolistic control of this market they were able, without further protection from legislation, to keep up the price of their milk at a time when in all the neighboring milk markets under Federal order milk prices were going down.

Consumers are not opposed to legislation favoring the farmer until such legislation is used as a shield to protect groups employing illegal practices to preserve their bargaining power in disregard of the public interest. The only hope for consumers now is that the Department of Justice will appeal the case to the Supreme Court. They might clear up for Mr. Leahy his misconception that the Capper-Volstead Act bestows upon his clients or upon any group a "right to become a monopoly."

Memorial's Meaning

Of man's creative work, to me the outstanding example is the Lincoln Memorial. Frankly, it was not my enthusiasm for the forest but what I saw and heard—rather what I did not hear — on a visit to the Lincoln Memorial the other day, that inspired this letter. It seems to me the contemplation of this shrine must be accompanied by a tingling of the spine. In these times particularly, it should be a mecca for all our people — better still, a world mecca.

It is one of our apparently cherished customs to stress numerical greatness and physical bigness. The memorial does not escape. At the time of my visit the guide in speaking to a crowd in which the younger generation far outnumbered the oldsters, had scarcely a word to say about why the memorial was built, about the life of the man on the pedestal, about his aims, his work, his ever-increasing influence. It made me sad.

"Bribing Patriotism"

Hats off to The Washington Post for your editorial, "Bribing Patriotism," in the issue of May 6. You express the feelings of all citizens whose conception of patriotism is not graduated by a decimal point and whose belief in democracy abhors the idea of its salvation behind a Maginot Line of money.

Representative Allen's proposal to bride citizens of this Nation with a cash bonus of $1000 to honor the simple obligations of their citizenship is not only a travesty of patriotism, it is also a revelation of the abject level of some congressional mental attitudes.

So atrophied, so intoxicated has the public consciousness become that a perusal of our daily and periodical press, with the daily bombardment of the commercialized radio, make it appear that money is the only motive in what Henry Luce has called the "American way of life." There are a few of us left who continue to hope and to believe that life, either in the hemispheric Americas or elsewhere in a floundering world, is something more than merchandise and that in life, actuating motives persist which lie beyond buying and selling—and bribing.

If our type of democracy hopes to survive in the inevitable planetary showdown, it must resurrect some honor for the obligations of citizenship in a democracy to balance—or at least to moderate—an increasing and incessant clamor for "rights" as defined in terms of money.

Arbitration Courts

I should be delighted to see in your editorial column your opinion of this statement: "No government is meeting its obligation to its general public by permitting strikes or mass stoppages of work in essential industries."

It is plain that strikes in essential industries not only jeopardize the national economy, but subject the employer and employed to heavy financial losses and disturb greatly the convenience and well-being of the general public.

Therefore, should not Congress quickly pass legislation to outlaw all strikes and mass work stoppages in essential industries? In place of the present confusion and dangerous possibilities, would not State courts of arbitration presided over by three judges and a Supreme Court of arbitration presided over by five judges, with the right of appeal from the State courts to the Supreme Court of either dissatisfied party to the action, be a just and reasonable solution? The verdict of the Supreme Court would be final and binding in all cases not settled in the State courts.

Rhee's "Opportunism"

The bitterly anti-Korean letter by Mr. Leeds Gulick in your May 8 issue is chiefly interesting to those who know that he is one of the men in the Pentagon who make and administer policy for the American-occupied zone in Korea.

Mr. Gulick says truly that Koreans in Japan can go home if they don't like the way they are treated there. But he fails to add that under SCAP rulings they will have to leave the bulk of their property for the Japanese. He charges the Koreans with preferring their own brand of education to that prescribed by the Japanese. As a pre-Pearl Harbor resident of Japan, Mr. Gulick knows what propaganda comprises the Japanese public school curriculum. He should know that present Japanese schools have very largely the same text books, same teachers, and same guiding principles as before Hiroshima.

My May 2 article on Korea Mr. Gulick found "more interesting than factual," but failed to say why, except that he considers Dr. Syngman Rhee "opportunistic." It is revealing that so fantastic a charge can still be made by a military government official. The AMG in Korea hand-picked Dr. Kimm Kiusic as its anointed leader, and has since had to condemn him for communistic activities. Is it not better simply to follow the democratic method of letting the Korean people pick their own leaders for themselves?

As for Dr. Rhee's "opportunism," he deliberately devoted his life to a well-nigh hopeless cause; he went to prison for seven years for his democratic program; he turned down an American attempt to set him up as a "puppet front" through which south Korea might be ruled; he stanchly opposed trusteeship for Korea, against every pressure that could be brought against him; he refused to have any part in an AMG-sponsored "coalition" with pro-Communist forces in Korea. Far indeed from being "opportunistic," he stands now where he has always stood—for a free Korea, based on a fair education, to let the people choose for themselves.

Unwarranted Promotions

My heartiest congratulations to D. C. Teacher on the letter of May 5.

It points out a most vicious practice in the public and many of the private schools — the practice of promoting a pupil because "he will gain nothing by repetition." The abandonment of this practice would, however, reveal the utter inadequacy of the schools to fill the need of the pupils. D. C. Teacher, I fear, has broken a lan e in a hopeless cause.

The waste of time of the pupil, the slow sapping of his self-respect and the deterioration of character that follow on this practcie must not be disclosed.

No derogation of the teaching corps is intended.

Railroad Labor

IF IT WERE NOT so serious in terms of the well-being of the Nation and the world there would be an element of comedy in the politics behind the railroad strike. The comic overtones of the tragedy center around the harassed, badgered, overworked President in tht White House and the labor leaders who have brought down on him this latest burden.

This, it must be remembered, is a repeat performance. Two years ago the Nation's railroads were about to come to a dead stop when President Truman intervened in the most dramatic and positive fashion.

As last-minute negotiations were about to break down, the President went before a joint session of Congress to ask the right to draft striking railway men into the Army and thereby compel them to run the trains. His request for such far-reaching power stirred a hornet's nest of protest and denunciation.

From the opposite poles of the Republican Party—Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio—came an attack, with Morse using the strongest language. But the most violent attack came from the trainmen themselves. A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in a burst of fury said he could spend millions of dollars to defeat Truman.

WHITNEY'S partner in that quarrel of two years ago was Alvanley Johnston, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. While Whitney's union is not one of those involved in the present controversy, Johnston is in the thick of it.

After the railway unions had gone back to work, following Mr. Truman's impassioned plea to Congress in 1946, Whitney set out to make good on his threat. He became an active leader in the Progressive Citizens of America and lost no opportunity to denounce the "haberdashery salesman" who had forced his hand.

President Truman's popularity rose in the opinion polls following his action of two years ago. Many overseas veterans were still coming home and this was a factor in the grave concern throughout the Nation over a shutdown of rail transportation.

Then some months ago Whitney made an abrupt about-face. The rail unions are essentially conservative, politically speaking, and the venerable leader of the trainmen could not back Wallace with all the Communist connections of the third party. So with appropriate fanfare supplied by the Democratic National Committee, Whitney did one of those political somersaults that occasion embarrassing questions from reporters and a slight leer from the public.

THE PRESIDENT is not likely to go to Congress this time with a dramatic plea for force, even if the right to draft men into the Army were still on the statute books. There is the solid, commanding figure of Alvanley Johnston, one of the most powerful rulers in the hierarchy of the railroad brotherhoods, and not far in the background is Whitney with his promise of loyalty to the President.

There is, of course, a longer political perspective that the leaders who have precipitated the present crisis apparently ignore. Given the present outlook for November, they would seem to be shutting their eyes to an imminent danger.

Johnston's union is one of three holding out against a settlement accepted by 19 other rail unions. The latter were willing to take a 15½ cent-an-hour increase. Thus, for a minority of the unions involved, the life of the Nation may be brought to a stop.

Already Senator Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota has revived the idea of a law which would prohibit industry-wide bargaining. Ball led the drive a year ago to include such a ban in the Taft-Hartley Act. It was defeated at that time.

The fact that this is an election year is almost certain to prevent any action by this Congress. But the new Congress that comes in January of 1949 may well be more antilabor than the one that is now in its last phase. This is what labor leaders accustomed to having their own way by a show of force seem to forget.

Seeing that 19 unions have already accepted the settlements, the public will conclude that inter-union rivalry must have something to do with the stand of the other three. And the public is at this point not inclined to be patient with the jealousies of union potentates.

Enforcing Civil Rights

During recent months there has been considerable controversy concerning President Truman's proposed bill of civil rights. Section 20 of the U. S. Criminal Code reads as follows: "Whoever, under color of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom, wilfully subjects, or causes to be subjected, any inhabitant of any State, Territory, or district of the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured or protected by the Constitution and laws of the United States, or to different punishments, pains, or penalties, on account of such inhabitant being an alien, or by reason of his color, or race, than are prescribed for the punishment of citizens, shall be fined not more than $1000, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

If this section and section 3 of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution were literally and impartially enforced, they would probably secure substantially what Mr. Truman has suggested.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Unity Of Europe

"But our aim he", said Mr. Churchill to the ongress of Europe, "is not confined to western Europe. We seek nothingless than all Eure."

Lippmann

Is this a dre? Or is it an aim which res sible gover ments in Eur op can take seriously, and wh this country m support?

I THINK of the unification Europe in terms of a federa nion comparable with our o in its integration and centralization of authority, we can I think, in any near future pect to see it achieved. Even e Benelux nations have not y n fact resolved the dispari s of their currencies and the prices and terms of trade. e British dilemma, as betwe their role in Europe and their interests in the Commonwealth nd Empire, is not in sight of be resolved. The sense of a c mon European destiny is ind thin and abstract as betwee e progressive countries of thern Europe, the Scandi ians, the Dutch and the Belians on the one hand and on t other the countries of the lkan and Iberian peninsulas.

NEVERTHELESSnce every allowance has bee made for the divisions, ther is almost certainly a deep d growing feeling all over t continent that somehow all of urope has a common interest becoming an independent gr power in the world. It is this feeling that Mr. Churchi with his genius for discerni the reality of things, addressed imself. It is the feeling, of co e, that the domination of Euro or of any large part of it, by ussia is in the end intolera that it would be intolera e even if Russia were not Communist, even if Russia were ot a police state.

Though it is possible to prove it, I think it is true that in eastern Europe am thinking particularly of Poland and Czechoslovakia—the greatest and strongest and ost genuine sentiment is not pro-communism or anti-communi but nationalism, rooted n religion and in history, wh causes almost all Poles a Czechs to identify their pa riotism with membership in th community of Europe. The i e is deeper than whether indu ries shall be nationalized or th land redistributed, far eper than whether they shall remain within the Russian diplomatic orbit. It is whether th regime of their lives shall inform with what they are a have been throughout their history—nations belonging - European civilization and n to an alien civilization which has had its center in Byzantiu, St. Petersburg, and Moscow.

BUT IT is not only this feeling that Russia is an intruder in Europe which possesses the nations of Europe. In a different way they feel also that their dependence upon America for sustenance, rehabilitation, and protection is, however necessary today, in the long run intolerable. If they cannot be slaves to Russian despotism neither can they be the clients of the American republic. We must welcome that feeling, which is general in Europe, and most emphatic among those Europeans with whom we are most closely associated. If this feeling did not exist, the best hope of the European Recovery Program would be doomed to frustration.

The unifying sentiment of the Europeans is not socialism or anti-communism but the will to be masters in their own continent, to be independent again, and to be not the stakes of Soviet-American diplomacy—but to be a power in their own right in order to decide the fate of Europe and the destiny of the world. This sentiment, which springs from their dignity and the remembrance of their historic greatness, is fortified today by the fear that if they do not intervene in the diplomatic struggle, their continent will become a battlefield on which non-European powers fight a ruinous war.

IF THIS is indeed the sentiment in Europe, what is the chief difficulty about arousing it to action? It is the memory of Hitler's intent to unify Europe under Nazi domination. The great task of the Congress of Europe, and of its leaders like Mr. Churchill, is to prove that Germany can be taken into the European community. They have to prove that to the Poles and the Czechs and also to the west Europeans.

"United Europe", said Mr. Churchill, "provides the only solution" of the German question —how to restore the life of Germany safely for the rest of Europe. Mr. Churchill did not on this occasion specify how this was to be done. But on other occasions he has. The solution of the German question is the admission of the German states, loosely confederated but not under a unified central government, into the larger federation of Europe.

If this view is not accepted by the British government and the American, if they persist in their present course which is taking them towards a unified and centralized Germany, this European movement for unity will founder on the cardinal error of Anglo-American policy in Germany. No peaceable settlement of the German and therefore of the European problem is conceivable, if Anglo-American policy in Germany connives at the revival of a nationalist German state.

SO IF WE are really in earnest in our support of the United States of Europe, we shall have to take concrete measures to reorient the Pentagon and the Foreign Office and many of the bureaus of the State Deparment on their policy towards Germany.

New Palestine Stall

By Sumner Welles

Partition Is A Fact

THE EXTENT of the Administration's ineptitude in dealing with Palestine seems to be unlimited.

The trusteeship plan proposed by the United States has fortunately been shelved by the Assembly. It would have ended all Jewish hopes for independence. It would have prevented the resettlement in the Holy Land of all but a handful of Europe's Jewish refugees. It would have represented an abject acquiescence by the United Nations in Arab aggression. It would have created precisely that situation in the Near East most likely to increase tension between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Now the Administration is backing a set of British proposals which are open to every one of these objections.

BRITAIN'S most recent maneuvers at Lake Success require close scrutiny.

Mr. Creech-Jones' recommendation that "some neutral authority" be established to act for the United Nations and to take over from the mandatory power on May 15 until such time as "the communities can resolve their conflict or the form of future government be finally determined" is merely further evidence of Britain's intention to sacrifice Jewish rights in return for Arab support. The proposal has already included the Assembly's political committee to recommend "a provisional regime for Palestine."

But plausible as the proposal may superficially seem to be, the dangers inherent in it would be fatal to the hope for a lasting Palestine settlement.

The British initiative is intended to prevent the partition plan from becoming effective by default when the mandate expires. If the maneuver proves successful its sponsors can claim, when the Jews on May 16 announce the formal establishment of the independent republic promised them by the partition plan, that they are acting in defiance of the United Nations.

THE SOVIET Union has made it clear that it will recognize the new Jewish state. Presumably other propartition countries will take similar action. Will the ensuing deadlock enhance the United Nations' authority? If this plan is adopted, and no brief period is fixed for its duration, we will see an attempt to transform this "provisional regime" into the same Anglo-American condominium as that contemplated in the trusteeship plan of the United States. Mr. Creech-Jones urges that this "provisional regime" should continue until the Arabs and Jews come to an agreement. Under that restriction what chance would there be for the Jewish state promised by the Assembly last November?

In all of the sterile debates that have been going on in the Security Council, in the Assembly's Political Committee and in the Trusteeship Council only one courageous and realistic course has been recommended. Australia and New Zealand, supported by such other governments as Uruguay and Guatemala, insist that the Assembly should relentlessly cut its way out of the disgraceful dilemma into which it has been forced by American folly and revert to its original plan for the economic union and partition of Palestine.

The most urgent essential is that Jerusalem and the other holy places be safeguarded by United Nations authority. Had the United States not obliged the Trusteeship Council two months ago to postpone the completion of the arrangements for a trusteeship over Jerusalem with which it had been charged by the partition resolution, that program would now be available to go into effect on May 15.

IF A "neutral authority" in Palestine is required as an unavoidable stopgap, what more logical authority could there be than the Palestine Commission, set up by the Assembly to carry out the partition plan and which, despite every form of obstacle, has discharged its obligations ably and with marked devotion to the highest interests of the United Nations?

If a "provisional regime" is to be set up it must have force to back it. If force is available for this purpose, why should it not be equally available to implement the partition plan? In the latter case a United Nations force could obviously count upon the support of the Jewish army.

The Jewish state already exists. Partition has taken place. The provisional government of the Jewish republic is already functioning. All of these steps have been taken under the provisions of the Assembly's resolution of last November, and in reliance upon the authority of the United Nations.

Yet our own Government, in total disregard of the catastrophic harm done to the United Nations, of the effect upon the confidence of other nations in this Government's faith, of the increasing strain placed upon Soviet-American relations, and of the vital interests of the Jews, persists in a series of grotesque gyrations which we are told by President Truman represents an attempt to "help the United Nations" to find a "peaceful settlement."

The conclusion is now inescapable that if the Jewish commonwealth survives the approaching crisis, and if the Jewish refugees eventually find a home in Palestine, it will be solely because of the strength and devotion of the Jewish people, and in spite of American policy.

Winter Wheat Prospects Drop; 845 Million Bushels Forecast

Government crop reporters lowered their sights on winter wheat prospects again yesterday, predicting a harvest of 845 million bushels, as compared with a prediction of 860 million a month ago.

If the forecast proves accurate, it will mean a drop of 242 million bushels this year from the 1087 harvested last year. Grain experts in the Agriculture Department are confident that, if there are normal corn, spring wheat and oats crops, the country will be able to meet grain export goals for next year without difficulty.

The department also announced that 31,499,000 bushels of grain have been allocated for export in June. This will bring total exports to the all-time high of 575 million bushels during the crop year ending June 30. Supplemental allocations during the next two months are expected to raise it to at least 577 million bushels.

Of this total, 480 million bushels are wheat or flour.

Next year's goal for grain exports was fixed tentatively at 475 million bushels by Dr. Dennis A. FitzGerald, food director of the Economic Cooperation Administration, recently. This is 100 million less than this year.

The drop in the crop forecast from April was attributed to adverse weather in the southern Great Plains. The yield per acre was forecast at 16.1 bushels, as compared with last year's extraordinary 19.5 bushels.

The estimate for rye was 25 million bushels, the same as last year.

High points in yesterday's report were:

"Meadows and pastures are in promising condition, rather uniformly good over most of the country.

"Egg production in April was about the same as in April 1947.

"Milk production was smaller than in any April since 1941.

"Spring crop vegetables are about 6 per cent less than in 1947.

"Spring crops of green peppers and eggplant will be particularly heavy, with cauliflower, onions, cabbage, celery and cucumbers relatively larger than last year. Moderate reductions from last year of tomatoes, watermelons, green lima beans, asparagus, shallots, and substantial reductions in lettuce, snap beans, beets, cantaloupes, green peas and carrots are indicated."

The May condition of oats in 10 Southern States was 63 per cent of normal, as compared with 75 per cent last year.

In Maryland and Delaware, frost damage to apples was reported "relatively light and localized." In Virginia, there was varied frost damage during the first two weeks of April in the Shenandoah Valley. Prospects are still promising for most varieties, but Delicious and Black Twig suffered heavy damage. East of the Blue Ridge Mountains, damage was relatively light. In West Virginia, prospects are spotted, but the outlook is generally good.

Peaches in Virginia were badly damaged by late March freezes. In the important commercial producing counties of Albemarle, Nelson, Botetourt, Roanoke and Franklin, a short crop is expected. In West Virginia, some orchards were hard hit, while others have a good set. In Maryland and Delaware frost damage to peaches has been "light and local."

The orange crop is estimated at 110 million boxes, 4 per cent less than last year's record crop but 32 per cent above normal.

Early potatoes in 10 Southern States and California are reported at 80 per cent of normal—1 per cent better than last year.

Sugar production is 14 per cent above average.

Both maple sugar and sirup are far below last year. Maple sugar is 17 per cent down and 50 per cent under average.

The number of chickens on farms was only 363 million as compared with 435 million last year. Chicken prices averaged 28 cents a pound live weight on April 15, the highest for the month since 1920. Turkey prices averaged 37.4 cents a pound, the highest April price on record.

Real Estate Man Refuses to Testify

A Washington real estate man was brought before a District Court justice yesterday when he refused to testify before the special Federal grand jury investigating real estate lobbying here.

The alleged recalcitrant witness was Scott S. McCloskey, who until recently had offices in the Barr Building. His attorney, John W. Slater, was given until this morning by Justice David A. Pine to make out a valid case why his client should not testify.

McCloskey was ordered last week by the grand jury to appear bearing records of any correspondence he had had with a "large number" of persons "related to Federal legislation." On Wednesday he appeared and told the grand jury his lawyer had asked him to seek a continuance. The continuance was granted before Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws and postponed the testimony until yesterday.

According to testimony presented before Justice Pine, McCloskey refused to even enter the grand jury room yesterday. He said he refused on advice of counsel.

The Justice Department attorneys in charge of the investigation caused the grand jury marshal to take McClockey before Justice Pine to compel testimony or take any other necessary action.

Slater then asked "several more days" in which to prepare motions designed to prevent McCloskey from testifying.

Justice Pine said, "So far I am not impressed, but you have until tomorrow to present your authorities. I also suggest that the Justice Department also present its side of the case."

Justice Pine ruled that McCloskey had been taken into custody illegally and released the man.

Board of Trade Continues Effort To Back Symphon

The Washington Board of Trade yesterday approved recommendations that some plan of underwriting the National Symphony concerts at the Watergate be explored by its cultural development committee.

President Leon Chatelain, jr., announced that Chairman George R. Titus and members of the committee will continue their efforts in cooperation with the National Symphony Association and other organizations.

Several contributions have already been received, Titus said, but additional participation by business firms and individuals will be required to safeguard the concerts.

The National Symphony announced several weeks ago that lack of funds would force it to abandon the Watergate series.

Substandard Rooms Face District Ban

Persons permitted by the Commissioners to live in substandard attic or basement rooms because of the housing shortage during and immediately following the war will have to look for new homes.

William H. Cary, jr., director of the Health Department's Bureau of Public Health Engineering, said yesterday the Commissioners will not extend permission to use such accommodations. Their order "relaxing" requirements ended May 1.

"There are a substantial number of vacancies in rooming houses now," Cary pointed out. Attic and basement quarters will have to meet regular Health Department requirements for ceiling height, window area and distance below the ground, he said.

Cary said there is no way of estimating how many persons still are living in substandard rooms. "They will be discovered in routine inspections," he declared, and ordered to move to approved rooms.

Surprise Hawaii Statehood Move

By The Associated Press

Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) made a surprise move yesterday to get a Senate vote on the Hawaii Statehood bill.

He introduced a resolution asking the Senate to take the bill from the Senate Insular Affairs Committee, which voted 7 to 5 last Saturday to take no action until committee members visit Hawaii.

The House passed the Statehood bill last summer.

Traffic Curb Demanded of Falls Church

The Falls Church town council last night urged to order a town police crackdown on traffic violators on Lee hwy.

The request came from R. B. McDowell, president of the North Greenway Downs Citizens Association.

Town Mayor Fenner Hazelgrove, commenting on the request, said 82 traffic arrests were made last week, more than double the total for any previous week.

This more rigid police check, he said, was instituted by the new Police Capt. E. H. Howe.

The mayor added the State plans to make a check of traffic volume and speed over Lee hwy.

The council took under advisement a proposal by the town planning commission to make a public parking lot out of a town-owned area next to the police station.

Planning commission member Walter Mess said 30 cars could be parked there to relieve the downtown parking situation. Mayor Hazelgrove, however, expressed an opinion the town has no responsibility for providing parking facilities.

The council took under advisement a request from Leon Horowitz, president of the Tyler Gardens apartment development, that Falls Church provide free garbage and trash removal service there.

Shreve Urges Incendiary War Defense

President Earl O. Shreve of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce warned the National Fire Protection Association last night that the fire-fighting forces of America need specialized training and equipment for effective defense against incendiary war.

The "masters of the Kremlin," he said, are reputed to be "past masters" of the "scorched earth technique," and "some of their sinister experts may contemplate the devastation of our business centers."

Members of the international association, which yesterday opened its four-day fifty-second annual meeting at the Hotel Statler, earlier heard a warning from Ray C. Roberts, District fire marshal, on the local fire-prevention situation.

The marshal declared the "ever-present danger of a large loss of life from fire" will not be removed here "until we fire-protect the vertical and horizontal exitways in existing fire-resistive and semifire-resistive buildings."

C. W. Pierce, association president, termed the recent fire-loss record in the United States and Canada "inexcusable," and said the elementary causes of fire and their control must be stressed "until every man, woman and child in the country recognizes a sense of personal responsibility."

Two Booster Stations Now Carry WINX

Radio Station WINX announced yesterday that it now has in regular operation two 250-watt booster transmitters, in addition to its main 250-watt transmitter.

A spokesman said that this marks the first time that any standard radio broadcast station has operated simultaneously more than one booster on a single frequency.

The central transmitter, formerly located at 8th and I sts. nw., has been moved to Arlington, Va., and one 250-watt booster has been installed on the District site. The second 250-watt booster has been set up near Rock Creek Park at the East-West Highway, in the Chevy Chase - Bethesda - Silver Spring area of Maryland.

The transmitter and both boosters are connected by microwave link, which helps to reduce interference in the station's new coverage area.

Andrews Field Plan Opposed By Sullivan

By The Associated Press

Representative Meade (D., Md.) yesterday had "three compelling and basic reasons" from Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan why Andrews Field could not be used by the Naval Academy.

Meade some time ago proposed use of the big Air Force base for flight indoctrination courses by Annapolis midshipmen.

He has opposed Navy plans for building a $12,000,000 airfield for that purpose at Sandy Point, Md.

Sullivan said in a letter to the Congressman that the Navy thinks the Andrews Field proposal impractical because:

1. Seaplane facilities are lacking at Andrews Field and the seaplane "is a basic component of naval aviation."

2. Use of the Air Force field would necessitate a great deal of traveling by midshipmen "with consequent disadvantages in the Naval Academy's crowded schedule.

3. There would be an "increase in hazard by bringing additional air traffic of this nature into the already crowded air conditions of the Nation's Capital."

Meade's proposal was described as having "considerable merit" by Air Secretary Stuart Symington, who said that "we are quite willing to readjust our plans so as to provide a portion of the facilities for naval use."

Pastor Ouster Not Mentioned at Church Session

Cumberland, Md., May 10 (AP).—The quarterly conference of the Hagerstown Methodist Church District was devoted to routine business last night.

There was no mention in the proceedings of the Rev. Richard H. Bready, a pastor whose congregation has sought his removal from the Union Grove Circuit, charging his pastoral duties have suffered because of his activities in the Progressive Citizens of America.

Ernest C. Killingsworth, secretary of the board of Centenary Church, one of the four congregations of the Union Grove Circuit served by Mr. Brady, said.

"We don't know why the matter wasn't brought up. Dr. Wright (the Rev. William F. Wright, district superintendent) had announced that he would take up and read our letter. He failed to do so."

Killingsworth said that Bready's activities "were not discussed at all, but he was there. I don't know what other steps will be taken to remove him. We have no plans."

Dr. Wright said that it "was just a quarterly conference. We attended to regular business and that was all."

He added that "I asked three times if anyone in the congregation had any further business to bring up when nothing was said, I adjoured the meeting. That's all there was to it."

Hadassah Elects Arlington Woman

Old Point Comfort, Va., May 10 (AP).—Mrs. Samuel Luben of Arlington, Va., today was elected president of the Seaboard region of Hadassah as the organization closed its three-day conference here.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Sidney Pilzer of Portsmouth, Va., first vice president; Mrs. E. I. Binder of Newport News, Va.; Mrs. I. H. Medalia of Charlotte, N. C., and Mrs. D. Schiller of Richmond, Va., other vice presidents; Mrs. Meyer Lu Goodman of Norfolk, Va., recording secretary; Mrs. William Cappell of Arlington, Va., corresponding secretary; Mrs. David Lande of Baltimore, Md., treasurer.

Mrs. Louis Samuels of Baltimore, Md., was named representative to the national board. She is the outgoing president of the Seaboard region.

Tribute was paid to Mrs. Samuels by Mrs. Phillip Kroskin of Norfolk.

Highway Bill Meets Approval

A House Public Works Subcommittee approved yesterday a bill to permit the Government to acquire additional land for the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway in nearby Virginia.

The strips, containing about 260 acres, would be obtained from the Smoot Sand and Gravel Corp., in exchange for dredging rights on other nearby Government land.

The land is desired by the Government to add to the beauty and memorial character of the highway.

One on the Aisle—

National's Farce Is Just for Fun

By Richard L. Coe

AIR-CONDITIONING AND a summer-theaterish comedy blew into the National last night with Ilka Chase and "There Goes the Bride." The play's not supposed to be anything more than a parade of goofy situations and the first-nighters enjoyed it for what it was. Include D- in on that evident verdict.

Nothing would be easier than to tear into George Oppenheimer's slight farce with critical onslaughts. One indication of just how certain even the playwright is of this is the fact that he originally called it "Here Today." Several seasons ago it played New York under that title and while I don't recall its reception, I imagine the acidulous had their fun by filling out the rest of the phrase.

Such a treatment, though, would be hardly fair, for this mild bit of a farce decidedly has its amusing moments and isn't intended to be anything more than slightly soiled fun. An energetic cast bats it around with the abandon of determined badminton players and manages to get laughs to which S. N. Behrman and George Kelly would hardly stoop.

Perhaps, too, part of this reporter's fun came from the unexpected. Ilka Chase never has struck me as the high priestess of sophistication which, at least, the lady's admirers presume her to be. While she was most amusing in "The Women" and her first book was a gay pistache, Miss Chase in recent years has been confusing smartness with vulgarity. So my expectancy boiling point hadn't approached much more than a simmer.

In "There Goes the Bride," Miss Chase is playing a successful playwright who is suddenly struck with the idea that she wants her husband back. He is gaga for a beautiful Bostonian whom Ilka is helping him win over her prim mother's disdain. Ilka succeeds in gaining mother's approval when it strikes her she'd like her husband back again. Abetting this is Ilka's writing collaborator, one of those lazy lizards one used to see in the comedies of Coward, Behrman, et al.

Miss Chase's Technique

As an actress, Miss Chase isn't much over the standards of an amateur acting group's leading lady, but the part's good fun and the authoress-lecturer-fashion plate-commentator seems to enjoy playing it. Her lack of acting technique—especially following the skilled Jane Cowl on the same stage—is enough to turn William Winter in his grave.

Still, as I've said, "There Goes the Bride" is one of those cheerful things you adopt a relaxed tone for. The subdued violence with which Harold J. Kennedy attacks his lines as Miss Chase's fancy collaborator smacks unabashedly of the St. Regis bar. Best performance of the lot is from Cynthia Latham, as the Boston mother. It's a traditional role, but Miss Latham handles it cannily. Robert Alda, of the movies, is likable as the handsome chap the fighting's all about, and Philip Coolidge, who directed, sets the farcial tone of the evening with his broad playing of the unwanted fiance.

Emily Lawrence, Joseph Dooley and Virginia Girvin complete the hard-working cast and though the latter does not employ the Oxonian accent you find in the Bahama natives, the setting of the frantic goings-on is Nassau.

Summer is here—a month early—but I'm not complaining. Just relaxed.

"FANNY" will be the Hippodrome's next . . . This French film from the atelier of Marcel Pagnol stars Raimu, which is one more sidelight to one of those betting arguments we were phoned about yesterday . . . Though the great comedian died in Paris in September, 1946, his pictures continue to arrive here as "Raimu's final film." . . . This column isn't falling for any of that, though the list must be pretty well exhausted by now . . . And Raimu's style is certainly something the French are finding irreplaceable . . . The picture opens Saturday.

UPCOMING, too, are a batch of top-budget pictures for the F st. houses . . . Checking up the other day the Loew boys found they'll soon be showing us Clark Gable and Lana Turner in "Homecoming;" Judy Garland and Gene Kelly in "The Pirate," with Cole Porter music; "The Big City," in which such newcomers to the screen as Betty Garrett and Lotte Lehmann will be appearing; "Summer Holiday," the musical version of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah! Wilderness," with Mickey Rooney and Walter Huston, and "Easter Parade," the Irving Berlin film with Judy Garland, Fred Astaire, Peter Lawford and Ann Miller.

TODAY, by the way, is Irving Berlin's sixtieth birthday anniversary and his fortieth anniversary as a song writer . . . In his honor Rogers and Hammerstein, the prodigal success boys, have established a scholarship in composition at Julliard School of Music for a New York public high school graduate.

AND ANOTHER TOP composer winds up today's news—Sigmund Romberg, who'll be leading his own 60-piece orchestra and a quartet of operetta singers—Kirsten Kenyon, Donald Johnston, Marijane Maricle and Morton Rappe—tonight in Constitution Hall . . . The concert benefits the Variety Club's welfare fund.

"THERE GOES THE BRIDE," Harold J. Kennedy and Herbert Kenwith in association with Robert K. Adams present a new version of George Oppenheimer's "Here Today," a comedy in three acts. Settings by Richard Burns. Directed by Philip Coolidge. At the National:

Richmond, Va., May 10 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today approved a 10-cent streetcar fare in Richmond, to become effective on and after midnight May 20.

This action by the SCC, although concerned only with streetcar fares, actually served as a green light for the Virginia Transit Company's entire modernization program. A higher bus fare, already approved by city council, was granted subject to the SCC's approval of the same fare schedule for streetcars.

IS BRITISH SABOTAGE TO BE BASIS OF U. S. POLICY ON PALESTINE?

An Open Letter To The President Of The United States

Mr. President:

On November 29, 1947, your leadership defeated the delaying tactics of the Middle Eastern section of the State Department and brought about the decisive vote of the United Nations in favor of partition with economic union in Palestine.

On the day following that vote, however, the State Department resumed its active collaboration with the British Foreign Office to prevent the implementation of that resolution. This was reflected in the embargo on arms shipments to Palestine by the United States on December 6; in the failure of the State Department to let the Arab states know we would not tolerate their revolt; active propaganda by the Defense Department to prove the necessity of Middle Eastern oil for war purposes, and the danger that the Arabs would cancel oil leases; and in the charge of lack of patriotism against those who favor partition.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal has justified the new American appeasement policy as essential to preventing the cancellation of oil concessions by the Arab states. But the facts are that no Arab rulers have threatened to cancel oil leases; American military experts concede that Middle Eastern oil installations could be destroyed almost overnight in the event of war; and there are ample undeveloped oil reserves in the United States, Mexico, Venezuela, Peru, Colombia, Brazil, and Argentina, apart from the enormous potential of synthetic oil.

Actually, except for the determined sabotage of the partition resolution by the British and our own State Department, there is nothing in the present Palestine situation which was not anticipated last fall when you directed the American delegation to support partition.

On October 31, your representative, Herschel Johnson, told correspondents at the United Nations that if the Arabs resisted partition, there was no reason why the Jewish state could not be set up and the Arab area turned over to the Trusteeship Council. On November 22, he told the Ad Hoc Committee on Palestine of the United Nations: "We do not say we anticipate no trouble." On November 25 he voted for the inclusion, in the preamble of the resolution, of a specification that "the Security Council should determine as a threat to peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression, in accordance with Article 39 of the Charter, any attempt to alter by force the settlement envisaged by this resolution." On November 29 he told the final session of the General Assembly: "If we are to effect through the United Nations a solution of this problem, it cannot be done without the use of the knife."

BRITAIN IS BEHIND ACTS OF ARAB LEAGUE

The military and political developments in the Arab world are controlled by the Arab League composed of the governments of Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Transjordan and Yemen. Representatives of the British government were present at the meetings of the Arab League where the revolt was planned, and are in continuous connection with it.

Within a month after the November 29 resolution the Arabs were encouraged by Foreign Minister Bevin of Great Britain to believe that partition would be supplanted by a federal state. Armed shipments have been continued by Britain to the Arab states despite their known use for Palestine warfare.

The Arab world is incapable of a sustained revolt without the active support of the Western nations, including moral encouragement, military supplies, and training of troops. That the present revolt has taken place is due to the direct encouragement of the British government, which is in active alliance with the Arab League.

Since 1945 the British government, under the direction of Foreign Minister Bevin, has resisted every American proposal for a decent settlement of the Palestine question. This was true in 1946 when he refused to accept the proposal of the Anglo-American Committee, and your own, for the admission into Palestine of 100,000 Jews. It was true again in 1947 when he refused to accept the UNSCOP report in favor of partition.

BRITISH DELIBERATELY CREATE CHAOS

In 1948, the British government has deliberately created chaos in Palestine under the pressure of which it is trying to force the United States government to discard partition, to appease the Arabs, and to secure its own continuing control in the Middle East. For the British government, by arrangement with the Arab League, is to receive base rights in Haifa, the Negev, and the Galilee, if partition is shelved through one of several schemes to assure Arab dominance in the whole of Palestine.

BRITISH PLOT AGAINST THE UNITED NATIONS AND PARTITION

The British plot against the United Nations decision on Palestine is revealed in the secret documents of British Military Intelligence in Palestine and the Middle East. These have been incorporated in a Memorandum submitted to the United Nations and to you on April 30 by The Nation Associates. This Memorandum proves that:

1. Representatives of the British government attended the meeting of the Arab League where the Arab revolt was first planned, and that the British representative in Egypt, Brigadier P. A. Clayton, regularly attends the meetings of the Arab League.
2. The British first suggested the use of "volunteers" in the Arab invasion of Palestine, instead of the official armies of the Arab states, as a direct means of avoiding U. N. action to curb them.
3. British Intelligence is aware of every move of the invading forces in Palestine, but the British representatives have not informed the U. N.
4. The British in Palestine have sent messages to Arab leaders requesting them to ask the invaders to be as "unobtrusive" as possible.
5. In the opinion of British Military Intelligence the Arab invaders have served as a "pacifying and stabilizing" force.
6. The Arabs have instructions not to attack the British.
7. The British, in allowing 10,000 foreign invaders to enter Palestine, have condoned aggression.
8. Units of the Arab Legion have been deliberately retained in Palestine in order to coerce the Jews.
9. As far back as February 13 the British knew of the plan of King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan to march into Palestine; and that, under past and current treaties, Abdullah's Arab Legion, trained, armed, and financed by the British, could not move without British knowledge and consent.
10. The British have admitted into Palestine Arabs of known Nazi allegiance and training and Nazi prisoners of war in command of attacking units.

BRITISH DELIBERATELY DESTROY ASSETS OF PALESTINE

Further, The Nation Associates Memorandum reveals that:

The Palestine administration of the British government is involved in an organized dissipation of the assets of the country in the determination that there should be a vacuum and chaos at the end of the Mandate.

An artificial deficit has been created.

The Jews have been landlocked by the tur ning over of two railroads connecting with the outside world to Egypt and Transjordan.

A deliberate breakdown of central authority has been undertaken as part of the British move to create chaos.

BRITISH MILITARY RIGHTS IN PALESTINE

Laws have been drafted which would guarantee British rights in perpetuity to military bases and control of land, rail, and sea connections to the Middle East.

PARTITION IS A FACT

Despite British sabotage, the Arab revolt, and Jewish reprisals, partition is a fact. Dr Pablo Azcarate, head of the advance party of the U. N. Palestine Commission, on his return from Jerusalem a fortnight ago, reported that partition was in effect and could not be overthrown.

The truce commission of the U. N. has reported that the Jewish Agency has taken over suspended governmental activities as the British withdraw and is functioning effectively in spite of constant warfare.

Resisting with remarkable courage the war of nerves being waged against them, and Arab assault, the Haganah has occupied the key points in almost the whole area awarded the Jewish state by the United Nations. Jewish authorities have taken over most of the services. More impressive still, they have set up an agency to safeguard the properties of Arabs fleeing from towns and villages taken over by the Jews. Arab businesses are managed wherever possible, vineyards and farms are being attended, and produce used, but the assets are conserved for the legal Arab owners. Not the United Nations, but the Jews, themselves, have implemented the United Nations decision.

A MINIMAL PROGRAM FOR PALESTINE

Is British sabotage, Mr. President, to be permitted to serve as the basis of U. S. policy on Palestine?

The press of the United States and leading American spokesmen for the democratic way of life are unanimous in declaring the present reversal of our policy is without justification, an attack on the prestige of the United States, a threat to the authority of the United Nations, and a peril to peace and security in the Middle East and in the world at large.

You, Mr. President, have continued to indorse partition. The resolution of November 29 still stands. Justice, honor, practicality, all demand a new directive by you to insure its implementation.

A minimal program should be:

United States recognition of the Jewish state on May 15 at the Mandate's end.

A loan to that state.

Trusteeship for the Arab areas of Palestine pending the creation of an Arab government.

A general embargo on the shipment of arms to the states comprising the Arab League.

A recommendation to the Security Council to recognize that the aggression of the Arab states is a threat to peace.

Recognition of Haganah and supplying of arms to it.

The will to carry through partition thus demonstrated by the United States can put an end to Arab gangsterism, British sabotage. It will also safeguard the authority of the United Nations and lay the foundation for a more lasting peace. To do less, to yield to Arab blackmail, is to destroy the moral foundation on which our country is built.

LEADERS AND PRESS CALL FOR PARTITION'S IMPLEMENTATION

"I fail to see that we have done away with any troubles or problems by our new stand. And if this change in policy was undertaken to lessen the danger of war I fail to see where it has achieved that end. The USSR stands pat on its previous decision. And I will not be surprised if quite a number of nations refuse to turn about, in response to our whim. For they may feel—as I do—that, no solution being perfect, the one already adopted by the U. N. might as well be implemented, since, with all the argument and effort that has been made, no perfect solution has yet been found."

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
New York World-Telegram, March 31, 1948.

"The official explanations of the reversal of our policy on Palestine at least make two points wholly clear. There is no shadow of justification for this reversal; and the position which the United States now occupies is profoundly humiliating. . . .

"The action of the United States in regard to Palestine can be as far-reaching in its results as the refusal by the League of Nations to protect China when Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931. We are destroying the faith of the peoples of the world in the efficacy and authority of the United Nations. . . .

"By this latest reversal the United States has forfeited whatever moral justification it once had for leading the small nations . . . this reversal by the United States will increase, and not diminish, the danger of a major war in the Near East. It deals what well may be a death blow to the United Nations, and to our hope for collective security. It shakes confidence in the United States throughout the world."

SUMNER WELLES
New York Herald-Tribune, March 30, 1948.

"The unexpected reversal of the American official position has struck a vital blow at the authority of the United Nations and the international prestige of the United States."

HERBERT LEHMAN
Former Governor of New York, April 2, 1948.

"The plan for the partition of Palestine, adopted and recommended by the Assembly of the United Nations, should be carried through by the United Nations. Every possible alternative has been patiently considered without success. All efforts in behalf of a solution through agreement by the two parties have failed. Meantime the situation has worsened and the crisis has increased. The partition plan recognized the conflicting interests and the basic equities in this most complicated and difficult situation. The increasingly desperate situation and the far-reaching tragic crisis call for decisive action now by the U. N. for the fulfillment of the partition plan."

FRANK P. GRAHAM
President, University of North Carolina.

"The Arab attack on the Jews of Palestine is also an attack on the authority of the United Nations and the prestige of the United States. If we permit Arab aggression to continue in the Middle East, we shall weaken our own prestige and lose our influence completely in that critical nerve center of the world."

DEAN ALFANGE
Former Chairman of the Liberal Party, February 9, 1948.

". . . In the name of expediency, armed defiance of a decision taken by the U. N. Assembly under American leadership, is being appeased.

"This will not bring peace to the Holy Land. It leaves our Nation's prestige in the Middle East low indeed and the stature of the United Nations diminished."

THE BOSTON GLOBE
March 2, 1948.

"The League of Nations foundered on the rock of 'nonintervention' in Spain and Ethiopa. There is danger that the United Nations may founder on the rock of nonintervention in Palestine.

"Each day's crop of killings in Palestine makes it clearer that a conspiracy exists to countermand the United Nations' decision for peaceful partition of that land. . . . Since American leadership was a major factor in bringing about the Palestine decision, the United States has a special obligation to lead the U. N. in backing it up. Unless we do, future pledges of devotion to the U. N. will sound mighty hollow."

CHICAGO SUN.
January 23, 1948.

"Three things need to be said, and to be said at once, concerning the present shift of American policy on Palestine. The first is that it comes as a climax to a series of moves which has seldom been matched, for ineptness, in the handling of any international issue by an American Administration. The second is that it is a plain and unmistakable surrender to the threat of force. And the third is that it holds little promise of being able to avoid the very hazards which it is intended to circumvent."

THE NEW YORK TIMES
March 21, 1948.

"There are few Americans who will be able to regard the action of their government in the case of Palestine without a sinking of the heart."

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE
March 21, 1948.

"The British are helping to sabotage partition by their arming of the Arabs and their cynical failure to preserve the peace in the Holy Land in the final months of their Mandate. . . .

"We should abet neither Arab war on partition nor British sabotage of it by indifference and neglect. The Jews need help if they are to save their lives and their homes, and we must see that they get it."

THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
January 17, 1948.

". . . The longer the delay in returning the United States to a policy rooted in honesty and honor, the greater will be the revulsion of the people, the deeper the scandal, the more tragic the consequences to the whole world."

NEW YORK POST AND HOME NEWS
April 5, 1948.

"We have further endangered American prestige by demonstrating that we do not mean what we say. We have betrayed a people—as they have been betrayed through the ages—who placed their trust in our good word and in our good intentions. This will weaken our position in scores of other instances in international diplomacy. We give the impression that, now that we are the leaders of the world, we have nothing new to offer the world."

Conventions, Tourist Influx To Set Record

By S. Oliver Goodman

In attendance and amount of money spent, conventioneers and tourists are expected to set a new Washington record this year.

Arata

Conservative figures, compiled by the Board of Trade Greater National Capital Committee, put the number of visitors this year at more than 3,500,000 and their expenditures at over 60 million dollars.

Clarence A. Arata, GNCC manager, said yesterday that about 225 national and regional conventions have been booked here for this year. Although not a record for number of conventions, this year's meetings are far better attended, Arata pointed out.

The 225 conventions will bring in about 125,000 delegates, each of whom will spend an average of $100 during his stay here. Other visitors average about $32 to $36 during their stay, according to Arata.

Ever wonder where the visitors spend their money and what share your business gets? Here are some figures gathered by the GNCC: Out of every visitors' dollar spent, 34 cents goes to hotels and tourist homes; 26 cents to retail stores; 13 cents to restaurants; 10 cents to local transportation; 8 cents to amusements; 4 cents to liquor, and 5 cents to a variety of goods and services.

To carry out its promotion work the GNCC is campaigning this month for operating funds for the next fiscal year. To date, 30 per cent of the necessary $85,000 has been subscribed.

Alice Way to Stop Strikes: Put Face-Saver in Cabinet

By J. A. Livingston

"WHAT THIS country needs," declared Alice, "is a Department of Face-Savers. That's the only way to end these strikes."

"I suppose the man who'd head it up would be called the Secretary of the New Look," declared the White Queen.

"Yes," said Alice. "And it'd create jobs for sculptors, mask-makers and fiction writers. In the anteroom of the White House, there'd be a glass case full of masks. Whenever a strike threatens, each labor leader and business executive would put on a mask to save his face. A cold-blooded businessman would select a warm-blooded mask, a bully-like labor leader would select a Casper Milquetoast mask. Then they'd act out a tableau and settle the strike."

Livingston

"Where do the fiction writers come in?" asked the Red Queen.

"They write the script and get out a press release to the public explaining how the strike came to be settled," said Alice.

"Could it work in the case of the railroads?" asked the Carpenter.

"Easily," said Alice. "Just like in 1946. One minute Harry S. Truman is President of the United States, the next minute he becomes President of All the Railroads in the United States. Obviously, he needs a mask for his new job, otherwise Alvanley Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and David B. Robertson, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, would still think he was President of the United States and could defy him."

"WELL," said the Carpenter, "I see why Truman needs a mask, but why do Johnston and Robertson? And why do the heads of the railroads?"

"They're strong men," replied the Red Queen. "The Department of Face Savers is designed to get them to bow to the will of the people. They have to don the masks of men who bow."

"Why don't they bow to the will of the people in the first place?" objected the White Queen.

"And lose face!" interjected Alice. "No union leader can maintain his self-respect these days unless he carries his dispute to the White House. That's how he gains face. That was a custom President Roosevelt started and now Truman is carrying it on. Just imagine how Robertson would feel this year if he hadn't been invited to the White House. Two years ago Johnston got to see the President. Can Robertson settle for less? His men would say: 'Johnston made it; John L. Lewis has been there lots of times. What's wrong with Robertson?'"

"Why doesn't the President take over the union instead of the railroads?" asked the White Queen.

"The President's head of one union—the United States—already. It's giving him enough trouble," explained Alice gently.

"I'm puzzled," said the Carpenter. "Why doesn't Congress simply pass a law barring strikes?"

"Are you trying to undermine democracy?" demanded Alice.

"Well, then, why not compulsory arbitration in railroad, coal, public utility, and perhaps petroleum disputes?"

"Horrors! Compulsion again." And the Red Queen, White Queen, and Alice turned their backs on the Carpenter.

"WELL, if you feel that way about it," the Carpenter shouted, "why not let them strike and see how they'd like it?"

"But they mightn't like it," protested Alice.

"Then maybe they'd go back to work," said the Carpenter.

"And have the strike settled without reaching the White House! Never!" declared Alice.

The Carpenter shook his head wearily. "But isn't it compulsion to take over the railroads so that the men can't strike against the Government?" insisted the Carpenter.

"No, indeed," said Alice. "They can strike, but they're not supposed to. That makes all the difference. By the way," continued Alice, "I have a job for you."

"I won't take it," said the Carpenter. "The wages aren't high enough."

"But I haven't told you what I'll pay," said Alice.

"Not enough," said the Carpenter. "I'm on strike. I won't settle till I see the President. Are John L. Lewis or Alvanley Johnston bigger men than I?"

Pranksters Park Auto On Sidewalk

District law says that motorists cannot park their cars on the sidewalk.

Police granted an exception to the law last week, however, for Sam Marcel, 57, of 1614 Q st. nw., who woke up one morning to find his auto part way up on the pavement and a traffic ticket in the windshield.

The exception was made after Marcel explained that pranksters, sometime during the night, apparently moved his car, which he had parked as usual along the curb.

Marcel was one of 127 motorists for whom traffic tickets were "fixed" by police last week.

Six of the tickets were canceled because of diplomatic immunity for: Marc Andre, of the Belgium Embassy (two cancellations); Jose Duguez, of the Brazilian Embassy; Jorge de Oliveira, Julius Keller and Adam M. Pachacki (embassy connections not given).

Three motorists received warnings by reason of diplomatic courtesy. They were: Raimon E. Wachner, representative of the Austrian government; Hannes Kjartasson, of the Iceland Legation, and Henry Faustin, of the French Embassy.

A Fox Movietone cameraman, John H. Garvey, received a warning for parking in a hack stand after he explained he was on an official assignment.

Maryland Maps Fight On Jap Beetle

Baltimore, May 10 (AP).—Marylanders were warned today that the annual Japanese beetle invasion is little more than a month away.

Entymologists, the fellows who battle the beetles, predict that this year's horde probably will do more harm than last year's.

They say damage will be greater to crops and trees in 1948, although new weapons have been developed to fight the beetles.

Natural enemies of the beetles, insects from the Far East, are to be turned loose in Maryland for the first time in an effort to stem the tide.

New poisons and a broader control program, are to be tossed into the beetle battle.

The bugs first appeared in Maryland 22 years ago. Since then the State has become a center of one of the worst infestations.

Last year the bugs did a million dollars' worth of damage to Maryland corn alone—a good share of it in Montgomery County.

But the beetles don't stop at crops. They swarm over trees and make lacework of the leaves.

Maryland State Policeman A. W. Suitt said the Fischer car apparently swerved across the center line and struck a southbound car driven by Henry H. Murphy, 49, of Darlington, Md. Murphy was uninjured.

Mrs. Klenke, a native of Heidelberg, Germany, came to the United States in 1910 and married Mr. Klenke four years later. They have two sons, Henry, jr., of Mount Rainier and George of Elizabeth City, N. C.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, May 10 (AP).—The railroad strike threat had complete control of the grain market today. As a result, grain futures mostly advanced under the leadership of May contracts while cash prices declined. Trading in futures was light in view of the uncertain railroad situation.

News that the Government planned to seize the railroads was available before the market opened. Local traders thought it would cause a price decline. When it did not, previous short sellers decided to cover. Their buying gave grains support throughout the day.

Wheat closed ⅝ to 1½ higher, May 2.43½@2.44; corn was ⅛ to 2⅝ higher, May 2.21¼@2.21½; oats were ⅝ lower to 1⅛ higher, May 1.14@1.14½, and soybeans were unchanged to a cent lower, May 3.85.

In contrast to the action of futures, spot corn prices dropped 1 to 2 cents, while oats were unchanged to 2 cents lower. That narrowed the premiums at which cash feed grains have been selling over the May futures. The cash grain decline was based on fears railroads would not be able to switch grain cars to elevators before the strike deadline.

Another strike threat attracting attention was that of stockyards handlers here, also scheduled for tomorrow. If it went into effect it would sharply cut livestock slaughtering, livestock men said. This would cause some holding of livestock back on farms, with consequent greater consumption of feed grains.

New York, May 10 (AP).—Eversharp Inc. reported today a net loss of $3,416,985 for the fiscal year ended February 29, 1948, compared with a net profit of $4,213,902 or $4.51 per share the previous fiscal year.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

AS AN OLD sentimentalist, I am disappointed at the wares offered at the McLean estate auction. I have no use for the marble wall-heads, or the French bras fern tables with border of fleur de lis. Nor do the carved parlor suites and the golden-riveted jewel boxes of the late Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean strike a nostalgic note within this humble breast.

POVICH

I'd just like a slightly used divot from the old golf links at Friendship. It wouldn't bring much under the hammer, but a cut of the old sod would be lush with the memory of the most fabulous golfing craze that ever bit a rich man who could afford his own private course.

The late Edward B. McLean didn't discover golf until he was nearing middle age, but when he finally decided to extend recognition to the game and play it, he pulled out all the stops, if you'll pardon my hybrid metaphor. From Scotland he brought a golfing architect to survey the rolling front yard of his Friendship manor house, and chart a full 18-hole layout that would justify a 70 par. It was completed about 1920.

HE WANTED THE BEST greens in the world, Mr. McLean said. He got what they called the world's best greens. If they weren't, they were the world's most expensive greens, at least. The turf for 'em was imported from Switzerland, packaged and ready for sodding when the trucks tooled through the Friendship gates. There's another story about those greens, incidentally. The Nats won the 1924 pennant on a Swiss infield. Mr. McLean turned some of the sod over to Clark Griffith.

President Warren Harding got Mr. McLean interested in golf. They had been poker-playing companions when the late President was Senator from Ohio, but McLean was seeing less of the President after Harding got a four-year lease on the White House. The President was taking up with companions who could play golf, and Mr. McLean couldn't, so he decided he would learn.

He hired Freddie McLeod, the Columbia Country Club professional to teach him the rudiments of the game. It didn't take long, and Mr. McLean with his 240-pound heft was driving the ball 300 yards with consistency, if not accuracy. In a couple of years he was shooting in the low 80s, beating the President and laughing at him, and considering the million dollars he spent on his private links well spent.

WHEN McLEOD'S DUTIES at the Columbia Country Club wouldn't permit him to accompany Mr. McLean to his summer estate at Bar Harbor, Me., it was a situation that McLean solved very directly. He went out and hired a private professional who was no less than Leo Diegel, for something like $20,000 a year. Diegel had just won the National Open, or something.

Those Friendship foursomes were famous for other than the golf that was played or the high personalities who were Mr. McLean's guests. The ninth-hole martinis served by white-coated members of the household staff were fixtures. The neighboring forests would ring with the guffaws of Mr. McLean when the President dubbed a shot or missed a short putt. There was poker on the porch, and waiters and things.

And you should have seen the golf shop at Friendship. You'd have thought the place was frequented by hundreds of golfers daily, instead of one or two select foursomes. Hundreds of new clubs, still in their wrappings, were in meticulous array along the wall. They were never sold. They belonged to Mr. McLean's guests for the asking.

IN MANY THINGS, Mr. McLean was an extremist, albeit a nice guy and I want to pay that latter tribute loudly because a caddy gets to know the man whose golf bag he is toting. But I am thinking of the day at Bar Harbor when the pro up there, Shirley Liscomb, suggested that Mr. McLean try out a new driver, a bulldog-faced type, and Mr. McLean did.

He took one shot with the new club, hit the ball straight down the fairway for nearly 300 yards, turned to Liscomb and said, "I like it. Order me a half dozen of these drivers." I said he was an extremist.

It's nice to be able to afford golf the way Mr. McLean could. I'm thinking, too, of the trip he took to Europe on the Mauretania in the mid-twenties. A driving platform on the swankiest deck was arranged for him, so he could get in a bit of practice. He did. His valet came up from below with a gross of new Silver Kings and Mr. McLean unpeeled the wrappings one by one and drove $144 worth of new golf balls into the blue waters of the Atlantic. That's one way to help cure a slice.

Early Holds Browns to Five Hits

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Southpaw Sam Zoldak was a four-time winner over the Nats last season but this is 1948, leap year, so they leaped on him last night for four runs in the sixth inning, wiped out his 2-0 lead, and went on to lick the Brownies again, 6 to 2.

Early Wynn limited the Browns to five hits but he had to sweat out in the final innings along with the Nats' rooters among the 9896 customers who saw the Browns fill the bases with none out. At that point Wynn was struggling to protect a 4-2 lead.

Wynn was within a pitch of being yanked out of the ball game in that eighth when a two-bagger by Bob Dillinger, a single by Chuck Stevens and a walk to Gerry Priddy loaded the bases with Browns before he could get anybody out.

Whiffs 2 in a Jam

He got a lift at that point from First Baseman Mickey Vernon who grabbed a grounder off Whitey Platt's bat and rifled it home for a force play at the plate. Wynn took charge himself after that by the direct expedient of striking out the next two guys, Al Zarilla and Ken Wood, leaving three Browns on the bases.

Wynn took a one-hit game into the sixth inning when the Browns suddenly broke the 0-0 stalemate with two runs on two hits. Stevens led off with a single and Priddy crossed up the bunt-conscious Nat infield by bouncing a single over Yost's head. Stevens raced to third and Priddy took second on the throw-in. They scored eventually on a pair of long flies to McBride by Platt and Zarilla.

The Nats bounced back from that setback almost immediately and battered Zoldak out of there in a four-run spree in the same inning. It commenced with Coan's single to left. Vernon lashed a long ball into the right field darkness and Coan, assuming it would clear the fence, could only make third base when the ball dropped from the top of the wall for a two-bagger.

Nats Get Going

Zoldak forced in the Nats' first run by handing out walks to McBride and Sullivan, but there was nothing passive about the Nats' next two. Al Evans drove 'em home with a single to center, and Zoldak was replaced by Jim Wilson. Wynn clubbed a single into left off Wilson for the fourth run of the inning.

The Nats raked the Browns' third and fourth pitchers, Frank Biscan and Al Widmar, for an additional cushion of two runs in the eighth. Evans started it with a single to center, and Wynn scored him with a double to right. After he walked Yost, Biscan was relieved, and Widmar filled the bases with a walk to Kozar. Wynn scored from third when Pelagrini elected to make a play at the plate on Vernon's grounder and was late with his throw.

IN SHORT: Al Zarilla's record of seven straight hits in his last two games was ended on his first trip to the plate last night. Wynn threw him out . . . The Detroit Tigers, rained out in Philadelphia, caught an early train yesterday and watched the Nats and the Browns . . . Gil Coan made a one-hand catch of Wood's line drive to deep left in the fourth while fending himself from the wall with his other hand . . . In stealing second in the second inning, Vernon had such a big lead Catcher Roy Partee didn't even bother to make a throw . . . Mickey Haefner will take a personal three-game losing streak into the series opener tonight with the Tigers, who'll pitch Virgil Trucks.

Doby Hits Homer, Tribe Wins, 12-7

Boston, May 10 (AP).—With Manager Lou Boudreau starting a triple-play and Larry Doby and Joe Gordon homering, the Cleveland Indians made a clean sweep of a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox today with a 12-7 triumph.

Boudreau launched the triple-killing when Pinch Hitter Bill Goodman lined to him in the eighth inning. The Indians' pilot doubled up Wally Moses at second base and gave Gordon ample time to nail Birdie Tebbetts off first.

The Indians greeted Starter Dave (Boo) Ferris with a three-run blasting in the first inning on Thurman Tucker's leadoff triple, a Doby two-bagger, a single and three bases on balls as they batted around.

Coaltown Out Of Preakness

Lexington, Ky., May 10 (AP).—Owner Warren Wright said tonight he would not ship his speedy Coaltown to Baltimore for the Preakness Saturday.

Coaltown, second to his stablemate, Citation, in the Kentucky Derby, will remain at Churchill Downs for several days and later will be sent to Belmont, Wright announced at his Calumet Farm here.

Hours before the threatened Nation-wide railroad strike was called off, there was doubt that Coaltown would go East for the Preakness.

Wright said tonight his decision to leave the horse in Kentucky was based upon "uncertain shipping conditions."

Georgetown Prep Wins

Colonials Beat Out Hoyas, 7 to 6

Tied twice after holding leads of 3-0 and 4-3, George Washington scored two runs in the fourth inning to take a lead over Georgetown and went on to win yesterday's scrap, 7-6, on the Hoya field.

Each club got six hits, but the Hoyas made six errors and they proved costly. Second Baseman Chet Pietras and Catcher Joe Waypinsky provided the big blows for the Colonials.

Pietras, who got three for five, blasted a two-run homer in the first inning when GW scored three times whole Wapinsky smacked a double in the two-run fourth inning GW produced.

Before the fourth, the Hoyas matched the three-run first GW frame with three runs of their own in the second and tied it again, at 4-4, in the third. After that, however, they never could catch up despite a ninth-inning rally which fell one run shy.

Pete King hurled six innings for the Colonials, and was credited with the decision, although he had to be saved by Reliefer Gene Gould. Tommy Flynn worked eight innings for the Hoyas and was blamed for the loss.

Pirates Slap Brooklyn, 4-2; Kiner Hits His Sixth Homer

Pittsburgh, May 10 (AP).—Ralph Kiner got a home run—his sixth and a double tonight to drive in three of Pittsburgh's runs as the Pirates beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 2. Elmer Riddle limited the Dodgers to five hits, including a homer by Bruce Edwards in the fourth.

The night tilt drew 31,335 fans.

Riddle, rejuvenated ace of the Pittsburgh mound corps, won his third straight game as he struck out five Dodgers, making Jackie Robinson miss a third strike for the final out.

Kiner, who had three of the six hits the Buccos collected from Erv Palica, scored Stan Rojek ahead of him in the third when he belted a 400-foot homer. In the eighth, he smashed a double to again drive Rojek across the plate.

'Nicest Present' Is Trip to See Celebrities

THE TELEPHONE operator said that Wilmington, Del., was calling.

A woman's voice came over the wire:

"Are some tickets still available for the big golf tournament and broadcast that I have been hearing about in Washington next Sunday."

Assured that she could buy tickets to both, she said:

"Wonderful. Sunday is my birthday. I've been sick in bed for years. I'm just getting up and around. My husband said the other day that we would do whatever I like next Sunday.

"I can't think of anything that would be as nice as seeing all of those celebrities in the golf tournament and making a full day of it by attending the broadcast that night. Please put two tickets to each aside for us."

The lady was referring, of course, to the National Celebrities Golf Tournament at the Columbia Country Club and the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy broadcast with Bing Crosby as guest star.

The lady gave her name as Mrs. Ralph Axon.—BUS HAM.

Worsham, Helen Dettweiler Play in Celebrities Tourney

Lew Worsham and Helen Dettweiler, two of Washington's finest golf products, are coming home to play in the National Celebrities tournament next Sunday at the Columbia Country Club.

Worsham, reigning national open champion, has received special permission from his home club, Oakmont, Pa., to come here for the Nation's most unusual golf event.

After playing here, Worsham will compete in the national PGA tournament in St. Louis, where he won the open title last summer.

Miss Dettweiler, former Western Open champion, is driving from California to compete with such other women stars as Babe Didrikson and Betty Jameson.

Miss Beverly Hanson, State champion of North Dakota, is accompanying Miss Dettweiler on the trip east.

Although giving up 10 hits, nine of them singles, Sain was strong in the clutches and the Birds were never in the game after the Braves took an early lead. Earl Torgeson poled a three-run homer in the third.

Raymond, Payne Tie In Contest

WHEN WORLD SERIES time rolls around in October, Harold R. Payne and John Raymond, both of Washington, will be there.

The two won their trip to the series by capturing The Washington Post's weekly "pick the baseball winners contest" for last week.

Payne, 28-year-old Andrews Field mechanic, and Raymond were among nine who led the field with 12 out of 14 winners, but they also hit the score of Sunday's Nat-Brown game, 3-1, right on the nose.

Each missed the score of the Boston-St. Louis National League game by a bare margin. The game ended St. Louis 6, Boston 4. Payne predicted St. Louis 7, Boston 6 and Raymond called it St. Louis 5, Boston 2.

In addition to the series trip, the winners also will collect two tickets each to any Nat game.

This was the first tie in the weekly contest and judges decided to award them both with series trips and Nat tickets.

Anglers From Far Away Try Potomac

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

WASHINGTONIANS may not realize it but the fishing ground in their back yard brings many an angler from the hinterland.

Marylanders, from as far as 150 miles away, frequently come into this metropolis to try their luck in the Potomac.

After making a nice herring catch last time, Lloyd Kaufman and John Morningstar, both of Route 3, Frederick, were disappointed to learn the herring run is about over.

Kaufman and his companion think nothing of making the 50 mile trip here for an afternoon's fishing. And they reported many of their neighbors often come down.

After hearing so many dismal trout reports, it was refreshing to listen to Rudolph O'Meara, 2551 Military rd., North Arlington. On opening day, O'Meara caught his limit in about 15 minutes. On a return trip, he also caught the limit and expects more good fishing before the trout season ends in Virginia.

Nice thing is that O'Meara isn't at all reticent about telling you where he finds his trout.

He's had his good luck on the Thornton River about 5 miles out of Sperryville. That's about 70 miles from here on the edge of Shenandoah National Park.

O'Meara prefers worms to flies when fishing stocked waters. Worms aren't permissible in the park, so, on opening day, he fished outside its boundary.

Next time he went right in the park and had just as much success with artificial lures. O'Meara, a Gulf Oil supervisor, is proudest of an 18-inch brook trout.

MISCELLANY—Maryland fishermen are requested to attend a public hearing in Baltimore's Munsey Building this Friday by the Game and Inland Fish Commission. . . . Under discussion is a proposed regulation that will provide an open season on black bass from June 1 to November 30 in Lake Roland, Prettyboy Reservoir and Loch Raven Reservoir in Baltimore County. . . . It also would make the size and creel limit on crappie in these waters unlimited. . . . The D. C. Chapter of the Izaak Walton League holds its regular monthly meeting tomorrow night at the Ambassador Hotel. . . . A wire from Nags Head, N. C., calls Oregon Inlet "alive with blue fish," adding that some channel bass are being taken, but not many. . . . In the Ruppert contest, the largest channel bass entered so far weighs 53 pounds, 8 ounces. It was caught in Oregon Inlet last month by T. P. Ficklin, Raleigh, N. C. . . . A 55-pounder won last year. Incidentally, world's record for channel bass is the 75½-pounder taken off Cape Hatteras in November, 1941, by B. R. Ballance. . . . Pennsylvania has a convincing way of discouraging those using automobiles and spotlights to kill deer illegally. . . . The State not only fines the offender, it confiscates his car and gun.

MountMarcy, Beaten Badly, Runs Second

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., May 10.—Preakness stock rose and fell here this afternoon. Maryland was given some hope when S. W. Labrot, jr.'s Bovard virtually assured himself a place in the starting gate for the $100,000 added classic Saturday when he raced to a convincing 4-length victory in the $7500 added Survivor.

But if Bovard's chances for a victory over Calumet's great Citation were enhanced, the event dulled the prospects of the C. V. Whitney entry of Mount Marcy, second to My Request in the Wood Memorial, and Vulcan's Forge.

They followed Bovard home in the order named but did not show enough to warrant any excitment over them this weekend.

Bovard, second to Citation in the Chesapeake and reserved from the Derby for an all-out crack at the Preakness, won rather easily.

However, he turned in time that had the clockers talking to themselves. For the mile and a sixteenth, he registered 1:45, a second and two fifths over the track record shared by Air Master and Count Fleet.

The track was labelled fast but was definitely on the dull side. It was the fastest time for the Survivor, first run here in 1938.

A crowd of 12,000 installed the Whitney entry as the favorite and Bovard returned a $7.60 win mutuel.

Due to the vest-pocket field, show betting was eliminated but a minus pool of $3712.60 developed in the place position, so heavy was the play on the Whitney duo.

Bovard, Annapolis, Md., owned colt, was ridden by Jockey Willie Saunders, who will have the mount in the Preakness. The son of Bahram and Knight's Nurse again showed he was hard to keep straight in the stretch, lugging in and finishing along the inside rail. He cut over in front of Mount Marcy, but the latter was a beaten colt at the time.

The victory was worth $6555 to Bovard and brought his year's earnings to $26,205.

GWU to Have Varsity House

The prospect of greatly improved George Washington University athletic teams was held out last night as some 100 Colonial letter-winners of 1947-48, attending the annual sports banquet at the Shoreham, were told the school had purchased an apartment building to be used as a "varsity house."

President Cloyd H. Marvin made the announcement, giving the site as 22d st. between G and H, one block from the downtown school.

Approximately $25,000 will go into remodeling the present apartment house, allowing for living quarters for about 105 athletes. It will be the first varsity house where Colonial athletes may live together the school has had since before the war.

It was also revealed G. W. will soon close a deal for 16 acres of land near the Pentagon, in nearby Virginia, to be used as a practice field.

In addition to Marvin, speakers at the dinner were "Bo" Rowland, the Colonials' new grid coach; Coach "Peahead" Walker of Wake Forest; and Bob Ruark, New York columnist.

Tackle Carl Butkus received the Tuffy Leemans Trophy and a watch symbolic of his selection as the outstanding gridman of the year. Maynard Haithcock was named the Buff's outstanding basketball player.

Eastern scored five times in the seventh inning yesterday to beat Central, 11-6, at Central and move into a first-place tie with Wilson in the Interhigh baseball race.

The battle for leadership reaches a climax today at 3:30 p. m. when Wilson and Eastern clash at Eastern. Three other league games today find Western at Anacostia, Coolidge at Roosevelt and Central at Tech.

Sixth place Central threw a scare into Eastern yesterday, notching three runs in the sixth to tie the score at 6 all. But in the seventh, the Easterners loaded the bases with one out. Walks to Sal DeGiorgi and Dave Zatz forced in two runs, an error brought in another, and Don Jamieson's single knocked in two more. Jamieson was Eastern's big gun, driving in six tallies with two singles and a double.

Hush! We're Brewing Budweiser!
Great, rock foundations that not even an earthquake could budge! Walls like those of a fortress! Why this precaution? Because even slight vibration causes fermentation to speed up. So, the massive walls of the cellars where Budweiser is fermented and lagered (aged) shelter the brew from the clatter and rumble of outside traffic. It matures naturally . . . thoroughly . . . leisurely. This is only one step in the most expensive brewing process known. As a result, Budweiser comes to you, as always, mellow . . . full-flavored with a distinctive taste . . . fully aged . . . sprightly with natural carbonation.

On the sixth day try to drink a sweet beer
You'll want the distinctive taste of Budweiser thereafter

Giants Release Joe Beggs

Chicago, May 10 (AP).—The New York Giants today gave Joe Beggs, relief pitcher, his unconditional release. 4 National Teams Join BAA

Chicago, May 10 (AP).—Four key clubs today quit the National Basketball League and simultaneously were accepted as new members of the rival Basketball Association of America.

The National League, left with eight franchise holders, immediately countered by severing a working agreement with the BAA. It declared that it would retain contracts of players on the four jumping teams—Minneapolis, Rochester, Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind.

The new line-up gave the 2-year-old BAA 12 members. Holdovers are Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, New York, Providence, Philadelphia, Washington and Boston.

The BAA corraled two of the NBL's best gate attractions in Minneapolis and Rochester, Western and Eastern division champions respectively. Minneapolis' George Mikan broke every NBL scoring record last season and was the league's biggest individual drawing card.

During the first half century of its existence Washington was but little more than a Southern village centering about Lafayette Square.

Worker Voted Out of Job Plans to Run for Office Against One of Voters

LABOR STORY: William Morris is 36, a veteran, and he's in charge of an Oklahoma office of the Labor Department's Bureau of Veterans' Re-employment Rights. He was a Capitol Hill secretary and he has worked in several Federal agencies here.

Anyway, the House recently voted to abolish his bureau and, of course, his job with it. The recommendation to abolish was made by the House Appropriations Committee. One of the members of that committee who urged abolition was Representative George Schwabe (R., Okla.). Now Morris will try to turn the tables on Schabe. He will resign to run against Schwabe.

CAPITOL HILL STORY: The Senate has approved a bill to set up a National Science Foundation to provide Federal aid for scientific research. During the debate on the bill, Senator Fulbright offered an amendment that would permit the proposed new agency to assist "social sciences" as well as physics, chemistry, engineering and the like.

But Fulbright had to explain to several of his suspicious colleagues the nature of the social sciences. They had asked him, of all things, whether his amendment would permit a study of "socialism."

"I told them," the Arkansas Senator explained, "that what was contemplated was a study of economics and politics."

COMMERCE Secretary Charles Sawyer yesterday told his first press conference that he had inherited an excellent staff in the department and that he planned no change in either staff or policy. He added that he had no plans to bring in personal assistants. It's a good bet that his Undersecretary will come from the business world and that the Assistant Secretary will be promoted from within, perhaps Tom Lilaisdell.

NOTES: This is the thirteenth birthday for Rural Electrification Administration . . . The House Civil Service Committee is being urged to include Federal prison guards in the Hagen bill that would permit Government employes who investigate and apprehend criminals to retire at 50 after 20 years of service.

JOBS: The VA regional office at 1825 H st. nw., has openings for Grade 3 stenos and typists. The starting salary is $2168 . . . Civil Service has an examination open for printers to work in the Government Printing Office. The starting salary is $2.12 an hour . . . There are examinations for chemist, physicist, mathematician, and metallurgist in the Naval Research Laboratory and other naval stations here and nearby. These jobs pay from $3397 to $5905 to start . . . Examinations will be announced soon for poultry and veterinary coordinator for the Bureau of Animal Industry at Beltsville . . . An examination for six types of laundry jobs at Army establishments here and near by is open. Please get further information at Civil Service.

DISGRACE: The wives of a group of Federal workers who must do a considerable amount of traveling are now appealing to Congress to raise the paltry $6 daily travel allowance. It's a disgrace that this the richest Government in the world, forces its employes to pay part of their traveling expenses.

One wife showed me a detailed account of her husband's expenses for a 21-day period. The trip had cost him $81 out of his pocket. Now his family must eat hot dogs and beans to offset this uncalled for financial burden. Another wife told me it had cost her husband $270 for several trips that amounted to 65 days.

Even the poorest and cheapest private employer wouldn't dream of treating his employes like that. Everyone knows it's impossible to pay bills for hotel rooms and meals, tips, etc., on $6 a day. It's high time that both the Administration and the Congress did something about it.

PAY SURVEY: A new study by Civil Service shows that the average salary of all Federal workers as of August 1 of last year was $2839; that 80 per cent were in jobs that pay from $1500 to $3500; 3 per cent were below $1500, and 17 per cent were paid $3500 or more.

Only 1291 were paid $10,000 or more. This is less than one-tenth of one per cent of the total Federal employment.

USES: Labor Undersecretary David A. Morse yesterday urged the Senate Appropriations Committee to throw out the House-approved rider that would transfer the United States Employment Service to the Federal Security Agency on July 1. He was backed up by Robert C. Goodwin, USES director, who said scores of local USES offices would be closed and several hundred employes would be fired if the House bill were approved. Both officials urged that the agency be kept in the Labor Department and that it be given the full amount of the budget estimates.

NOTES: Veterans Administration has delegated authority to its operating officials to deal with employe unions . . . Representative Homer Jones (R., Wash.) is drafting legislation that would give "forgotten" employes a chance for grade promotions. His bill will provide for the creation of a special board to review the case of any employe who has worked for five or more years without a grade promotion.

Home Rule Battle Given Preview by House Group

Preliminary Round To Floor Fight Occurs Before Rules Committee

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Congressional District leaders tangled yesterday in a public preview of the no-holds-barred battle to come over passage of the Washington home rule bill.

Their preliminary round was staged before the House Rules Committee which can say whether the bill is to reach the House floor with a chance for approval, and how it is to be handled there.

Urging clearance for the bill were Representatives Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) and James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.). Opposing the bill was Representative John L. McMillan (D., S. C.). Other members of the House District Committee are expected to take up the dispute at 10:30 a. m. today in a second session before the Rules Committee.

Approval by Split Vote

Dirksen, Auchincloss and McMillan reflected the 14-8 split vote of the House District Committee by which that group approved the home rule bill. Dirksen is committee chairman, McMillan is former chairman and ranking minority member, and Auchincloss headed the subcommittee which drafted the home rule bill.

Dirksen asked the Rules Committee to recommend three hours of general House debate on the home rule bill, and to authorize waiving points of order against the bill. He said some sections might invade the jurisdiction of other House committees, thus making them subject to attack by points of order. Waiving these points would permit the House to take up the plan as a whole for decision.

Dirksen said the most controversial section of the bill was the one which would let District residents of a year, who are otherwise qualified, take part in the District council and school board elections, without—by the intent of the bill—losing voting rights they may have in the State of their legal residence.

The big question involved, said Dirksen, is whether the thousands of Federal workers here, with legal residences elsewhere, shall be allowed to take part in the strictly local proposed District elections. He said three Governors had said they thought the plan would be all right, and eight were opposed.

Dual-Voting Debated

Representative E. E. Cox (D., Ga.) a member of the Rules Committee, said it seemed to him the dual-voting plan "destroys home rule."

"We thought it would enhance the principle of home rule," said Dirksen.

A moment later, Cox told Dirksen, "the property owning people I know here say we're about to do a very foolish thing and turn the government of the District over to a class from which we could not expect good government."

Dirksen declared "if there is any place democracy ought to work it's here."

Representative McMillan, urging that the bill be blocked, recalled that he had voted against it in the Auchincloss subcommitte, and said, "I haven't found anyone yet who can properly explain the bill."

He defended Washington's present government, and said "I think we better leave well enough alone. We've tried this (home rule) system before and Congress had to take over and bale them out." This referred to the territorial District government in the 1870's in which an appointed governor ran the city into debt for public works, a system replaced by the commissioner set-up that still continues.

Dirksen pointed out that under the home rule system, bond issues would have to clear the council, Congress, and a referendum, and would be limited to 3 per cent of the assessed valuation of taxable property here.

McMillan cited Board of Trade, American Legion and other opposition to the bill including the Federation of Business Men, and said, "you know who's left in the District to appear for it."

"I don't know anybody that's behind this legislation unless it's the newspapers," McMillan said.

Dirksen said the published hearings on home rule "speak for themselves" to show the supporters of the plan. Numerous Washington groups and individuals voiced strong support for home rule in hearings last summer and earlier this year.

87 Temperature Recorded; Lower Mark Due Today

The weather worked itself up to an 87-degree temperature yesterday, reaching for the all-time May 10 record of 93 degrees set in 1896.

It succeeded in bringing out seersucker still smelling of mothballs, occasional straw hats, and plenty of sun worshippers.

The 87-degree reading at 3:30 p. m. was the season's highest—one degree over that premature summer day, March 21.

Some cloudiness will keep the mercury in the low 80s today, with possibility of showers late today or tonight, the Weather Bureau predicted.

Police said there was no indication he had been struck by a train or that there had been any foul play.

Air Group Speaks

New Airport Protest on High Stacks

Smokestacks over 162 feet high on the Alexandria power plant will constitute a hazard to National Airport operations, their coordinating committee held yesterday.

The interagency committee, which coordinates Federal air policy for the President, submitted its findings in a question over construction of the Braddock Light & Power Co. plant 8200 feet south of the airport on the southern approach zone.

Its announcement said it is "urging" that the company reconsider its plans "and endeavor to reduce the maximum height of its structure to 162 feet above mean sea level."

The Potomac Electric Power Co., for whom the plant is being built, said yesterday it had received no official notification of the action and would have no comment until notice is received.

Plans for the new plant, on which construction has started in northeast Alexandria west of the airport's only instrument approach zone, called for stacks almost 300 feet high.

After protests by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and airline groups, the power company scaled down the stacks; finally made plans to install equipment which would allow stacks 193 feet high.

Commenting on the air committee's announcement, a spokesman for the Air Transport Association said "the ATA will accept that figure as a compromise, but still points out that the building would remain a hazard."

Its study said revenue loss to airlines operating here would be $2,468,000 a year through 1952 and would mount to over $4,000,000 by 1957 because its planes would not be able to make instrument landings in bad weather.

Tuberculosis X-Rays Show 1000 Unsuspected Cardiacs; Malaria Mystery Is Solved

50-Year Puzzle Of Medicine Now Answered, World Congress Is Told

A 50-year-old medical mystery—involving malaria—has been solved.

This was disclosed yesterday as the International Congresses on Tropical Medicine and Malaria opened here for eight days of sessions.

For more than half a century scientists have been unable to trace the complete cycle of development of the malaria parasites in the human body.

In what part of the body did the parasites develop during that two-week period between the bite of the mosquito and the first appearance of the parasites in the blood stream?

Answer Is the Liver

The answer—which is the liver—was supplied yesterday by Dr. Henry E. Shortt, director of the Department of Parasitology of the London (England) School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine.

In a paper read before the international gathering yesterday, Dr. Shortt described how he first infected 500 mosquitoes by letting them feed on monkeys infected with malaria.

Next he allowed the infected mosquitoes to feed on a monkey not infected with malaria. Then to be certain the monkey had an overwhelming infection, Dr. Shortt ground up the entire lot of mosquitoes into a suspension and injected this concentration of parasites into the animal.

On the seventh day after the monkey was infected, it was killed and all organs and tissues were examined for parasites belonging to the missing cycle called the pre-erythrocytic form. The parasites were found in the liver. There they lodged and incubated.

Further Evidence Developed

By repeating similar experiments on other monkeys it was discovered that parasites of the missing cycle could be found in the liver on consecutive days in the incubation period from the fifth to the tenth day.

The International Congresses on Tropical Medicine and Malaria—the first since 1938—are being held under the sponsorship of the State Department.

Sessions began yesterday at 11 a. m. at Departmental Auditorium, Constitution ave. between 12th and 14th sts. nw. Meetings through May 18 will be held at this auditorium, Commerce Department Auditorium, 14th st. between Constitution and Pennsylvania aves. nw. and National Museum Auditorium, Constitution ave. at 10th st nw.

Delegates from 41 nations to sessions here on tropical diseases were told by Secretary of State Marshall that medical isolation in the modern world is as impossible as political or economic isolation.

Secretary Marshall, addressing the opening session of the International Congresses on Tropical Medicine and Malaria, described tropical diseases as an international problem that "should be solved by the pooling of the genius and the resources of many nations."

Mass Campaign Reveals Heart Ailment in .6% Of All Examined

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

The Washington mass chest X-ray campaign is producing an unpublicized dividend in uncovering diseases other than tuberculosis in Washington residents.

X-ray evidence of one of these—the cardiac condition—has been discovered in about 1000 persons, six-tenths of 1 per cent of those who have been X-rayed since the drive started January 1.

In the first disclosure of positive information which the X-ray survey has uncovered, Owen C. Billows, assistant survey director, in a report to the D. C. Tuberculosis Association yesterday, told how 161,000 X-rays had been interpreted. The 161,000 were part of 205,000 X-ray pictures made by March 5.

Here is what the X-rays showed:

Negative	155,000
Definite evidence of TB	1,600
Symptoms of TB	2,100
Cardiac symptoms	1,000
Other diseases	1,500

On the basis of these figures, larger X-rays had been asked in about 3900 cases by March 5. These reexaminations showed:

Negative	1,280
Definite TB	1,560
Minimal (first stages)	1,330
Moderately advanced	200
Far advanced	26
Cardiac	113
Suspicion of TB	280
Other forms of TB	85
Other diseases	340

Dr. A. D. Christie, head of the medical-technical committees on the survey, said the United States Public Health Service plans to X-ray the entire population of the Nation within the next five years. USPH plans to move next to Seattle, Wash., which had vied with the District for first city for the mass X-ray.

Dr. Christie, who pointed out that 10 years ago such a mass X-ray as Washington now has would have been a physical impossibility, declared that the problem of X-raying people here is "well in hand, and in such a way that it can be used as a pattern for the rest of the country."

Dr. Christie said every physician in Washington has received a brochure explaining the most modern methods of treating tuberculosis. All have been informed of the necessity of keeping in touch with the Health Department for the two-year period in which tuberculous cases will be checked, to inform department heads of the progress of their cases.

William E. Leahy, chairman of the Washington Chest X-ray Survey, said more than 400,000 "pictures" have been taken so far. This he termed a "mass demonstration of cooperation."

Leahy warned that the segment now under way is the one in which we "envision the greatest difficulty" because it is in outlying sections with a heavily residential population.

Leahy said that throughout the survey, the effort has been to "take the machines to the people," and that now it will be necessary for the people to go to the machines.

At the luncheon meeting, the association board members elected 10 members for terms expiring in 1951. They are George W. Beasley, president, Federation of Civic Associations; Dr. Albert Harden, associate professor of medicine at Howard University; Dr. Vern K. Harvey, medical director, Civil Service Commission; Mrs. P. Y. K. Howat, member, 1948 seal committee; William E. Leahy; Dr. Howard Long, assistant superintendent of schools; Mrs. C. D. Lowe, TB Association president; the Rev. Donald A. McGowan, director, health and hospital bureau, National Conference of Catholic Welfare; Msgr. John J. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's and director of Catholic Charities of Washington, and the Rev. James O. West, jr., pastor of Calvary Episcopal Church.

Man Is Found Dead With Dying Mother

A 44-year-old man was found dead yesterday of alcoholism and his 63-year-old mother, found ill with him in their fashionable Chevy Chase home, died early last night.

The dead man was Joseph Francis Jones. Dr. F. J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner, issued a temporary certificate of natural causes in his death, due to alcoholism.

Jones' mother, Mrs. Madeline A. Sonnemann, was taken to Suburban Hospital, where she died at 6 p. m. When she was admitted, physicians said she was suffering from malnutrition.

Dr. Broschart issued a certificate listing her death as due to natural causes, nephritis and Bright's disease.

Bethesda pplice said Mrs. Sonnemann had been separated for several months from her husband, Theodore A. Sonnemann, 6115 Brookville rd., who operates a hardware and feed store.

On Sunday night, Sonnemann said he went to the Broad Branch rd. home, accompanied by his attorney, James H. Pugh, but found the doors locked.

Accompanied by Sergt. L. C. Day and Officer L. M. Whalen, Sonnemann entered the house at 8 a. m. yesterday. Police said Mrs. Sonnemann was found on the first floor, semiconscious, while her son by a former marriage was on the second floor, his body partly on a bed.

Police said there were three empty whisky bottles near the bed, and that there was food in the house.

Dr. Broschart, who conducted an autopsy on Jones' body, said the organs will be sent to the State medical examiner at Baltimore for a further check.

U. S. Grants For Hospitals Here Backed

House D. C. Group Approves Plan to Expand Facilities

The House District Committee yesterday approved and sent to the House floor a bill to authorize Federal grants up to 15 million dollars for expanding Washington's private nonprofit hospital facilities.

The bill would let Congress, by later appropriations, tap the estimated 10 to 15 million dollars difference between what was authorized for the future hospital center here and what the center will actually cost. Authorized total was 35 million; estimated cost of the center is 20 to 25 million. Three hospitals are to combine in the center, Emergency, Garfield and Episcopal. The grants under the new bill could go to private Washington hospitals not participating in the center.

The bill cleared the District Committee by a 16-to-4 poll of the members. Committee aides said this procedure was ordered by the committee at a previous meeting when it sent the bill back to a subcommittee for further preview, with the understanding that subcommittee approval could be followed by a poll of the full committee on the measure. The subcommittee, headed by Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.), had cleared the bill without change.

Meanwhile Miller announced he had called on Commissioner Guy Mason for rush delivery to the Capitol of a proposed bill that would permit mental patients to be sent directly to St. Elizabeths without clearing through Gallinger.

At the same time, District officials moved ahead with long-developing plans for improvements in Gallinger's psychiatric wards. Bids were opened yesterday for 20 special steel protective screens for the windows, to permit removal of the bars. The low bid of $2170 was submitted by the Chamberlin Co., Detroit, Mich. Bids on the main project are to be opened today. Bids on three new elevators for the same building are to be opened Friday.

In another move, Republican Ellsworth B. Buck (R., N. Y.) filed in the House the request from its Education and Labor Committee for passage of a bill to permit voluntary admissions to St. Elizabeths Hospital. The report said the proposed bill would eliminate "the untoward psychological effect" upon the patient of the present "cumbersome" commitment procedure.

Bakery Workers Reject Raise Of 12½ Cts. an Hour; Want 50

AFL bakery workers yesterday rejected management's latest contract offer—to boost wages by 12½ cents an hour.

Charles B. McClosky, business agent for Bakery Workers Local 118, announced that members voted, in two separate membership meetings, to stick to their original demand for a 50-cent hourly wage increase. Their present wage scale runs from 80 cents to $1.60 an hour. The bakery workers met at 525 New Jersey ave. nw.

McClosky said he would ask Conciliation Commissioner James Holden to call another meeting with the Employing Bakers Association, which represents major producers in the area. Employes have already authorized a strike, but McClosky said no date has been set for a walkout.

Management's previous top offer was a 10-cent hourly hike. About 1200 workers are involved and an estimated 80 per cent of the city's bread production.

Commercial Printers Offer New Proposals

AFL printers in commercial plants yesterday submitted new contract proposals to the Graphic Arts Association of Washington.

James J. O'Connor, president of Columbia Typographical Union No. 101, which represents about 400 printers in some 50 commercial plants here, announced that demands include a "joint board" agreement on hiring.

Under the plan, which "avoids the closed shop issue," prospective employes would be screened by a labor-management committee to determine their competence, O'Connor said. Heretofore, only persons already belonging to the union have been eligible for hiring. The closed shop, however, has been outlawed by the Taft-Hartley Act.

Other proposals include a 35-hour work week, 2½ hours less than at present, and weekly wage boosts ranging from about 13 to 22 per cent. The current agreement runs through August 10.

Workers are also seeking an additional week's vacation and four more paid holidays. The proposal would give day shift workers $90 a week compared with $79 under the present scale; night shift, $99 against $84; third shift, $108.90 against $87.50.

George P. Mallonee, executive secretary of the GAA, said he had received the union's proposal but declined to comment on the contents. He said negotiations would not be launched for some time.

Talks Open Thursday On New Milk Contract

Union and management officials in the Washington area milk industry will meet at 10 a. m. Thursday to launch negotiations on a new contract.

This was announced yesterday by Michael Burchell, president of the Alexandria Dairy Co., following what he described as "preliminary" talks yesterday in Hotel Washington. He is the industry negotiations chairman.

He said the union, Milk Drivers and Dairy Employes Local 246 (AFL), has not yet submitted its proposal." The present agreement expires June 6.

Burchell said all major milk distributors in the area, except Highland Farms, are involved in the contract talks.

Hospitals to Devote Month To Telling Why They're in Red

Greater Washington hospitals will use "Know Your Hospital Month," which begins Wednesday, to acquaint the public with why they are operating in the red.

"Know Your Hospital Month" will start with "National Hospital Day" and will end June 12.

W. R. Castle, president of the hospital council here, said the council will use the month-long observance to make public financial figures on 1947 hospital operations here and other information on hospital problems.

On the opening day Wednesday, Arlington, Casualty, Emergency, Episcopal, Garfield and Sibley Hospitals will hold open houses to which the public has been invited.

Heading the hospital council's educational campaign will be Robert P. Bryant, former assistant director here of the University Club, Castle announced. Bryant will be the council's first paid executive secretary.

Area News in Brief

Du Barry Porcelain Must Drop Name

Madam Du Barry, already famed in history and in the movies, yesterday found a place in the law reports, too.

For years, Edward P. Paul & Co. has been buying porcelain in Japan, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and other countries and selling it to 25,000 American stores under the trade mark "Du Barry."

The Federal Trade Commission ordered the firm to stop using the trade mark and to stop giving people the idea that its porcelain came from France or Britain as the FTC claimed the name "Du Barry" implied.

Chief Justice Harold Stephens and Justice E. Barrett Prettyman of the United States Court of Appeals here, upheld the FTC order yesterday and said the firm must obey it. But Justice Bennett Clark did not agree.

Clark said he thought the FTC order not only "arbitrary and capricious" but "absurd and ridiculous." The trade mark "Du Barry," he pointed out, had not misled anybody, and was not linked up to any particular nation.

"To be sure," the justice went on, "in the middle of the Eighteenth century, a nameless waif, the illegitimate daughter of a poor washerwoman in Vaucouleurs, France, became a successful courtesan under the name of Mlle. Lange. Her great charm brought her under the protection of Jean Comte du Barry, who used her as a decoy in his gambling house.

But, the justice added, so far as history records, the only connection that any one of them ever had with the unfortunate British to whom the Federal Trade Commission now attaches them is the final trip which Madame Du Barry made to England to try to sell her jewels, the ill-gotten gains from her affair with King Louis XV, for which she was beheaded in the French Revolution."

Building Workman Hurt

Reese Truitt, 51, a carpenter, of 1708 16th st. nw., suffered head injuries yesterday morning when he was struck by a descending elevator in the Dupont Plaza Hotel, Dupont Circle.

Police said he was working in the elevator shaft on the second floor of the building, now under construction, when another worker brought the elevator down and failed to see him. Truitt was admitted to Emergency Hospital where he was reported in good condition.

McCoach Serves Again

Reappointment of Maj. Gen. David McCoach, jr. (USA, ret.) to serve for a third time as chairman of the Washington Board of Trade's municipal finance committee was announced yesterday by Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the organization.

General McCoach, who was commanding general of the Sixth Service Command with headquarters in Chicago upon his retirement from the Army in 1945 after 39 years' service, is now vice president of the Charles H. Tompkins Construction Co. He lives at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Two Men Indicted

Five indictments charging robbery and one charging attempted robbery were returned by the District grand jury yesterday against Willie Rice, 27, no fixed address.

Rice's alleged activities, mostly pocketbook snatching, according to the grand jury, took place in January and March around 5th and C sts. se., where, police said, he robbed women walking along the street. His loot totaled less than $15, police said.

In another indictment, John J. Baker, 39, of 933 H st. nw., was charged with embezzling $814 from the Belleview Hotel. Baker was a cashier-night clerk there for a month before the money was found missing on March 7, the grand jury report said. He was arrested in Chicago and returned here.

C. W. Taussig Dead; Expert On Caribbean

Charles W. Taussig, 52, cochairman of the Caribbean Commission since its formation in 1942 as the Anglo-American Caribbean Commission, died Sunday at his home in Bay Shore, N. Y.

Mr. Taussig

Considered America's right-hand man in the development of Caribbean areas during and after World War II, Mr. Taussig, was also special adviser to the Secretary of State on Caribbean Affairs and head of the American Molasses Co. and its subsidiaries.

In addition to his work in enhancing economic and social life in the Caribbean, he also was a leader among advocates of a progressive national health program and found time to write several books.

In announcing his death yesterday, the State Department said: ". . . the Natoin has lost a distinguished leader in the fields of public service and business. The Department of State has suffered the loss of a man noted for his broad vision, energy and humanitarianism."

Friend and confidante of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Taussig was among those known as the "Brain Trust" and served in a number of advisory capacities in his 15 years with the Government.

In 1944, he was adviser to the American delegation to the twenty-sixth general conference of the International Labor Organization and in 1945 went to San Francisco as adviser at the United Nations Conference on International Organization. He was chairman of the second session of the West Indian Conference held at St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands in 1946.

The Anglo-American Caribbean Commission, which Taussig headed with Britain's Sir Frank Stockdale, was perhaps the first instance, preceding the Marshall Plan, of successful international cooperation in economic and social aid. Mr. Taussig was instrumental not only in furthering local interests, but also in coordinating and giving impetus to industrial output there.

Born in New York, he enlisted in the Navy during World War I, serving as radio-electrician. Among his books are "The Book of Radio," "Book of Hobbies," and "Rum, Romance and Rebellion."

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ruth Taussig; two daughters, Mrs. David Pearsall and Miss Patricia Ann Taussig, and his mother, Mrs. Constance G. Taussig.

Funeral arrangements were not announced.

Msgr. Buckey's Life Extolled At Final Rites

Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle yesterday celebrated a solemn requiem mass for the Right Rev. Msgr. Edward L. Buckey, 86, retired rector of St. Matthew's Cathedral, who died Wednesday.

In his sermon at the mass at St. Matthew's, the Right Rev. John K. Cartwright, who succeeded Msgr. Buckey as rector, described both his achievements and personality as "effective and striking while they were at work in the world."

"The legacy of decency, dutifulness, courtesy and the fine conventions of an honorable and ancient way of life—these were his in reality," Father Cartwright declared.

"Faith, the firm persuasion of the reality of things unseen, was woven into his personality," he continued. "But even faith is not sufficient. It needs to be informed and pervaded by charity. Msgr. Buckey's faith was so informed and so pervaded."

Referring to Msgr. Buckey's work in completing the building of St. Matthew's, Father Cartwright said Msgr. Buckey was "simple to the point of austerity in personal habit and requirement" but that he believed that the "grandeur of religion should be reflected and expressed in the human virtue of magnificence."

Msgr. Buckey was buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery. He is survived by three sisters, Miss Anne G. Buckey, Mrs. Myddelton Woodville, and Mrs. William Fitzhugh Gurley, all of Washington.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Rift Is Developing in Mixed Marriage Since Man Took Steps to Join Fraternal Group Incompatible With Wife's Religion; How Can Unity Be Restored?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: When Doris and I married five years ago, at the age of 25, our parents were apprehensive because we are of different nationalities and religion.

There is no fundamental difference in religion except that my wife's is much more rigid and comprehensive. She is assuming the religious education of our two children; but is zealous in making sure that I have full opportunity to attend to my church duties, and encourages me to do so.

Thus our life together has been very smooth; and we share most outside recreations, with the exception of an occasional fishing trip or card party. We are average people, healthy and tolerant; our children are normal and active and Doris is a good housekeeper.

Man Considers Issue Trivial

THE PROBLEM is that recently I have taken steps to join a fraternal society to which members of her church are forbidden and this seems to have introduced the first discordant note in our relations. When we discuss it, Doris says she is not prejudiced against it, but I feel a withdrawal from me that is gradually widening.

The fraternal society hadn't been mentioned until now, nor promises made concerning it, hence I feel that I have a normal male right to a certain amount of freedom from home duties and interests, so long as my activities are above reproach.

How can I keep this rift from becoming permanent or widening? I do not want our marriage to fail and until now we have been too close to let such a trivial thing separate us. C. W.

Man Does Wife Great Injustice

DEAR C. W.: In my opinion, it is deceptive to imply and would be misleading to assume that the problem you pose is rooted in religious differences.

I think it has to do with character, namely, yours; and that the vital irrepressible difference is one of temperament, with Doris an earnest, able, conscientious helpmeet and you an immature fellow who wants increasing measure of bachelor freedom as his family responsibilities grow.

It seems significant (1) that major exceptions to shared recreations are fishing trips and card parties, enjoyed by you in company of "the boys," I have no doubt; and (2) that Doris, though by her own admission not prejudiced against the fraternal society per se, nevertheless is profoundly disturbed by your intent to join it.

Truth Appears Between Lines

ALSO it seems significant (3) that she gives you every opportunity and encouragement to attend your church duties, an endeavor on her part which (wholly free of attempts to proselyte) indicates that she is trying to steer you in the direction of constructive responsible companionship; and (4) that you are claiming "a normal male right to a certain amount of freedom from home duties and interests!"

Thus though your letter seeks to portray Doris as a religious fanatic and as such, impossibly difficult to deal with reasonably, I see quite a different story as I take the foregoing four points into account. I think you are subtly dishonest with Doris in many ways, which doubtless explains the widening rift and her inability to condone your most recent attempt at self-justifying breach of trust.

So for advice: To heal the rift you've got to see yourself as you are, glib, tricky, shallow and selfish in relation to Doris, and address yourself to the proposition of becoming fully a man on the score of honor, integrity and devotion to family. M. H.

B'nai B'rith Group Celebrates 10th Anniversary at Luncheon

Mrs. Truman was guest of honor when B'nai B'rith Women Argo celebrated its tenth anniversary and installed new officers at a gala luncheon held yesterday in the Mayflower Hotel.

Mrs. Nathan Simkowitz, who was reelected president of the organization for a second term, was installed in a colorful ceremony. Others taking the oath of office, which was administered by Mrs. Nat H. Levy, first vice president of District Grand Lodge No. 5 of B'nai B'rith, were: Mrs. Theodore Shapiro, first vice president; Mrs. Michael Shapiro, second vice president; Mrs. Samuel Feldman, third vice president; Mrs. George Nathan, fourth vice president; Mrs. Edward Weiss, financial secretary; Mrs. Julia Epstein and Mrs. Raymond Sterling, assistant financial secretaries; Mrs. Marcus Mensh, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Herbert Bright and Mrs. George Winnick, assistant corresponding secretaries; Mrs. Benjamin D. Friedman and Mrs. William Perau, auditors; Mrs. Julius Kirson, parliamentarian; Mrs. Samuel Fishman, historian, and Mrs. Robert Mars, treasurer.

One of the highlights of the program was a dramatization of the organization's 10 years of service as told by the past presidents. Mrs. Morris Gewirz, first head of the B'nai B'rith Women Argo, recalled that the group was formed in October 1938 with 600 charter members . . . that Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, then First Lady, cut the first birthday cake . . . that members of the organization helped establish the Self-Help Exchange and manned Community Chest booths one day each week, helped establish a vocational library at the Jewish Community Center, and gave $1000 for extension work at the University of Maryland.

By the end of the second year the membership had increased to 972. Members helped to dedicate Hillel Student House at the University of Maryland . . . were doing Red Cross sewing, aiding with emergency relief, sent 300 blankets to Europe.

Federation Asks Education Aid

Members of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday passed a resolution urging the District Board of Education to restore the visiting teaching services to the D. C. Receiving Home for Children. They also called for a general adequate education program for the home.

Another motion passed at the annual meeting, held in the Hamilton Hotel, indorsed the establishment of a research and statistical division in the Juvenile Court of the District. The resolution pointed out that such a division would enable the court to evaluate case work service within the court and also would provide the community with needed statistics on high delinquent rate areas.

A third motion voted to commend George E. Muth and Frank R. Jelleff, respectively president and president emeritus of the Boys Club of Washington for their outstanding work in forwarding the Boys Club movement here and for their contribution toward developing good citizens.

Tip From the Best-Dressed

To Be Stylish Evenings— Try Tying Velvet Ribbon And Jewels at Neckline

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

STYLE CONSCIOUS Capitalites might be interested to learn that two of the U. S. A.'s "best dressed" were here for week-end partying. Glimpsed at a candle-lit dance, this department is forced to describe Mrs. Harrison Williams' and Mrs. Byron Foy's get-ups in a somewhat blurred fashion. Mrs. Foy, who is a sister of Warrenton's most expansive lord-of-the-manor, Walter Chrysler, was poured into a strapless, ice blue taffeta, sweeping longer, into an almost train in back. Thelma wore matching taffeta gloves and around her slim neck a band of taffeta bowed in front and ornamented with a magnificent dingle-dangle of two huge pear-shaped diamonds nestling amongst equally luscious pearls. Mona Williams, who was persuaded by Salvador Dali to tint her distinguished gray hair a more everyday brown, had on a "rainbow" dress—blues, mauves, other pastels, tucked with indescribable complexity, narrowing at the waist, spraying wide over the bodice, wider in the skirt. Around her throat was a velvet band also pinned with magnificent dingle-dangle pear shaped pearls, topped with other pearls and, for all we know, a welter of diamonds. But for our money, the sartorial prize goes to Washington's Mrs. Rowan Shevlin—yards and yards and YARDS of pale candy pink material, plain, but made with indescribable artistry—its strapless top hidden under a gracefully voluminous stole. With the advent of all this elegance we have picked up one tip—to be stylish evenings tie a ribbon around your neck, pin it with your best bit of jewelry. As simple as that!

Italian Leader Known Here

COUNT CARLO SFORZA, who has been named majority choice for election as President of Italy's new Republic, has lots of friends in this country. A career diplomat, he was stationed everywhere from Peking to Cairo, held down the job of Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs in Rome, first attracted public attention by championing Dreyfus, hit the front page by resigning in protest of Mussolini in particular, fascism in general, when the regime had scarcely gotten under way. Quitting Italy he went to Paris, supported himself by lecturing, writing articles, books—making a literary hit with a tome—recording the histories of the world's outstanding dictators.

Count Sforza moved from Paris to New York to continue his fight and was unofficially recognized as leader of Italy's anti-Fascist forces. He lived in two tiny rooms just off Lexington Avenue, continued lecturing, picking up jobs wherever he could.

A sun tan fiend, he spent as much time as possible sunning himself, even in the window of his own apartment. He hated constricting clothes, never wears a necktie if he can avoid it, skips around without a shirt when possible. His pet dislike is stuffy people. The more important a person, the more summarily Count Sforza treats them. Once he was invited to a dressy Long Island luncheon to meet Clare Booth Luce. Among the guests was a young girl who had just won some kind of beauty contest. Sforza became so enthralled with her general ensemble that he never said a word to the brilliant Mrs. Luce.

A student and great admirer of Chinese civilization, he often told friends that he achieved tranquillity and infinite patience through his comprehension of Chinese ways. His patience, whether oriental or otherwise inspired, enabled him to struggle against fascism, believe in his own return to political prominence in Italy through two decades of difficult exile. He went back to Italy after Mussolini's fall and since then has held down cabinet posts and high-powered political assignments. It will be interesting to see how the unconventional, humorous, but somewhat vain Count Sforza works out in Italy's No. 1 job.

Women's Committee Launches Symphony Series Campaign

The National Symphony concert series campaign was launched yesterday at the annual luncheon held by the Women's Committee. The luncheon was held at the Mayflower Hotel at 12:30 o'clock.

The concert series campaign is a ticket selling drive and is separate from the fund raising campaign which was started early in February.

It was announced at the luncheon yesterday that the Fund Raising Campaign has raised $148,648 of its goal of $165,000, and the drive will continue until the goal is reached.

For the concert series campaign, it was announced that tickets to the Wednesday series will not be purchasable after October 13, the day of the first concert. Tickets to the Sunday series, however, are purchasable in advance and throughout the season. Both series are on sale now at Kitts Music Co., 1330 G st. nw.

Old subscribers received circulars in the mail yesterday to the effect that their last year reservations will be held until June 15, and then go on public sale.

The Sunday Box Committee and Wednesday Box Committee will function in the months of May and June. Both committees expect to sell out, as of the first of July.

Mrs. Charles Carroll Glover, jr., past chairman of the Women's Committee, announced at the luncheon that Mrs. Theodore Dominick has been elected to succeed her. In a report made by Mrs. Merritt Ruddock, retiring chairman of the concert series campaign, Mrs. Theodore Babbitt was announced the new concert series chairman.

Vice chairmen of the Women's Committee for this year are Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt, Mrs. E. C. B. Danforth and Mrs. de Forest Van Slyck. Mrs. Warren Ege was announced the new recording secretary. Mrs. A. Lloyd Symington, treasurer, and Mrs. Donald Fraser, jr., was appointed assistant treasurer.

Summer Cooking Reminders

Could you give me a recipe for strawberry preserves which uses a commercial pectin and tell me how to have the strawberries evenly distributed. In my last year's preserves, the berries all came to the top and three quarters of the jar was just jelly. If I don't use a pectin, the preserves are water, apparently from undercooking.
O. D. McC.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES

6 cups berries (measure after stemming)
6 cups sugar
½ bottle commercial pectin

Wash berries and remove stems. Measure one half (three cups) of fruit into a large kettle and add one half (3 cups) of the sugar to the fruit. (Kettle should be large because berries foam and boil up when cooking.) Start the berries on a slow fire until some juice is extracted, then increase temperature and boil 5 minutes. Start counting time when the berries begin to boil. Stir occasionally, but avoid breaking berries. When 5 minutes are up, add remaining berries (3 cups) and 3 cups sugar. Boil 5 more minutes. Remove from fire and cool for 15 minutes, then pour in the pectin directly from the bottle, stirring while you add it. When the pectin is well stirred in, allow berries to stand in the sirup overnight. Allowing the berries to cool overnight in the juice plumps them and prevents them from separating from the pan rather than the kettle in which they are cooked. An enamel broiler pan or the botton of a roaster is ideal for this. In the morning, pour the cold preserves into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin.

What should be used to clean an Haitian basket which has become dirty through dust settling on the top? The whisk broom no longer cleans the top thoroughly. U. S. G.

Maybe moistening a powder such as corn starch or corn meal with carbon tetrachloride and placing it into the creases of the basket will remove the dirt. Allow the powder to remain until dry and brush out. Or, cleaning powder, dusted into the basket and brushed away, might be used.

The leather on a leather upholstered couch, stored for 15 years, has become cracked, dry and rough looking. Can this be rehabilitated? U. S. G.

There is a plastic paint on the market which is for use especially on leather. Perhaps applying a coat of this to the couch covering would give it a new lease on life. For further information about the paint, call District 1130.

What is the correct tip for a permanent, a manicure, a set, and what is a proper tip for the waitress and hostess, maid, etc., at an American plan hotel? M. A. W.

Correct tip for all beauty parlor services is 10 per cent of the total bill.

In an American plan hotel the waiter or waitress receives about 5 per cent of a week's board, the hostess or head waiter $1 or $2 a week. The chambermaid is given from 50 cents to $1 a week, and the bellboys 10 cents for ice water, packages and newspapers delivered to the room.

How can I remove crayon marks from wallpaper—the latter white with flowers? E. C. M.

Cover the spot with a thick layer of a paste made by mixing fuller's earth and carbon tetrachloride. Do not have the paste so moist that there would be danger of liquid dripping from it. When the paste is dry, brush away with a soft brush. If the paper is old and soiled, it is wise to first clean the area around the stain with a dough type wallpaper cleaner to avoid forming a soiled ring around the poultice.

PETUNIA!

Here's my weekly Wednesday maxim:

To keep mats cleaner Longer—Wax 'Em!

Right, Petunia! Your washable table mats will look just as pretty and stay clean much longer, if you give them a coat of wax when they're new.

Strawberry Coffeecake

Before the strawberry season slips by, make a luscious, juicy strawberry coffeecake. It's an upside-down affair which can be prepared in very little time. For the flavorful topping, spread two tablespoons of melted butter or margarine over the bottom of a nine-inch cake pan and sprinkle with one-fourth cup of sugar. Arrange two cups of sliced strawberries over the butter-sugar mixture. Pour a quick coffeecake batter over the strawberries and bake in a moderately hot oven for 25 minutes.

PIN-WORMS CAUSE FIDGETING AND THAT AWFUL ITCH

One of the warning signs of Pin-Worms is a nagging rectal itch which often causes fidgeting and broken sleep, and may lead to even more serious distress.

It is no longer necessary to put up with the trouble caused by Pin-Worms, because science has at last found a way to lick these stubborn pests easily and safely.

Get JAYNE'S P-W at the first sign of Pin-Worms. P-W is a medically sound treatment based on an officially recognized drug element which has proved very effective in dealing with this ugly infection. The small P-W tablets act in a special way to destroy Pin-Worms. P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

Friedrich Foerster Sees Hope in German Youth

Friedrich Wilhelm Foerster, author of some 19 books including "Europe and the German Problem," yesterday warned that the democracies must mobilize their strength to prevent the German war laboratories from moving into South America, "and setting up shop."

Speaking at the Woman's National Democratic Club's luncheon, he pointed out that America's chief problem is reeducating and rehabilitating the Germans in democratic thinking. "There is a little hope among the young Germans," he said, "because for the first time they see their cities bombed and they are beginning to inquire why. This creates an inquiring mind and therefore some hope.

"Unity of the Allied powers must be reinstated so the Germans will know they haven't a chance to wage war again," he declared. "An inflexible authority which would punish every attempt toward militarization should be established."

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

"Kosciuszko" Is Tough to Spell; (Z What I Mean?)

The other day we used the story about the rookie Brooklyn cop who dragged a dead horse to another street, because he couldn't spell Kosciuszko.

Ralph Gelardo of 3930 Tunlaw rd. nw. protests: "You can't spell it, either. There's no 'z' in Kosciusko. I ought to know, because I lived on the street for 12 years."

Samuel Warren of 1321 Quincy st. nw. agrees that I shouldn't have used a "z" and adds: "I ought to know—I used to be a rookie cop in Brooklyn, and I walked that beat."

In the face of such strong evidence that Brooklyn spells the famous Polish general's name without a "z" I consulted some standard reference works.

The Encyclopedia Britannica uses a "z." So does the Encyclopedia Americana. But the Columbia Encyclopedia prefers the Americanized spelling, and gives the Polish spelling (complete with "z") as secondary.

In view of the foregoing, I'm willing to call the argument a draw, and concede that Brooklyn has a right to Americanize the spelling of Kosciuszko — even if Brooklyn can't seem to Americanize its quaint pronunciations.

Incidentally, Betty Freret of 2 Accotink rd., Alexandria, Va., says that the way she heard the story, it happened in New Orleans and the policeman dragged the horse away from Tchoupitoulas st.

Next we'll probably hear about a version in which the incident takes place in Albuquerque and the cop lugs the nag over to Santa Fe.

MISCELLANY

Police Inspector Arthur E. Miller, in charge of traffic enforcement, tells a wonderful true story about the policeman who tried to give a motorist a ticket for a traffic violation and got the startling response: "I'm sorry, but I don't accept tickets on Sunday." . . . The Bridgewater (Va.) College Glee Club will present a program of sacred music at 8:30 Friday night at Constitution Hall. Tickets, priced at $1, $1.50 and $2.50, may be reserved by calling REpublic 3682. Proceeds will be used for overseas relief by the Church World Service . . . R. W. Dyar of Glenn Dale, Md., points out that our biggest traffic problem here is created by the avenues, which cut across the usual network of streets at awkward angles . . . W. L. G. says his pet peeve is using up tea bags left over from the war days. No strings . . . Harriet K. Doyle of 1731 Lyman pl. ne. writes: "Perhaps George O. L. Holmes can get his handwriting textbook from the Spencer Publishing Co., New Orleans, La. L. C. Spencer created a method of shorthand from his handwriting. His signature in my husband's shorthand book is a beauty to behold."

NO WONDER THE POSTAL SERVICE LOSES MONEY

This department extends its sympathies to the three policemen who were fined for failure to deliver some letters.

The undelivered letters were found in the glove compartment of a scout car 29 days after they had been turned over to the officers. Stiff fines resulted.

If we were to mete out the same kind of justice to every husband who failed to mail his wife's letters for a month, this would indeed be an unhappy world.

Besides, I can't quite understand why policemen are required to deliver letters by hand. It seems to me that:

A letter needn't take a cop
On tour of hill and dale
Because for just three cents it can Be sent by U. S. mail.

ADD SIGNS

Dorothy S. Stockwell of 4419 S. 36th st., Arlington, Va., was driving along a country road in Fairfax County (Va.) the other day when she encountered a sign which proclaimed:

"Washing Cars in Highway Strictly Prohibited."

A few feet further on, the reason for the sign became evident. The road became a ford through Cameron Run.

"I'M SORRY, SIR— THEY DO NOT ANSWER"

"I was very much interested in your item about getting a signal on our telephones, to indicate that there's a call waiting for a busy line," writes Edward J. Barrett of 1300 S. Thomas st., Arlington, Va.

"Several years ago, the same idea occurred to me. So I wrote to the telephone company, and asked why it wouldn't be possible for the operator to sound a tone signal, similar to that now used on the radio to indicate the time.

"The telephone company didn't even bother to acknowledge my letter. If a Government department ignored a citizen's letter like that, there would be a congressional investigation.

"But the phone company ignored me, so now I'm getting even with them. I'm not sending them any more of my suggestions. That'll 'learn them.'"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Touchy on Nominees

By Drew Pearson

President Truman has become so touchy about his own renomination that it even enters into job appointments pertaining to the distant islands of the South Pacific.

Some time ago the State Department selected two men to serve as United States representatives on the new South Pacific Commission and to work with Australia, France, England and other countries in helping the war-torn Pacific Islanders. The two men were Paul Smith, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, a Republican, and Richard Wells, New York attorney, a Democrat. Both are able, conscientious citizens, Smith having fought all over the South Pacific.

The State Department thought it had made a good selection. However, it reckoned without President Truman and his friend, the ebullient Ed Pauley, who made one million dollars gambling on the commodity market while working for the Government. Just as Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, the White House doctor, continues close to Truman despite his commodity gambling, so Pauley also ambles in and out of the White House whenever he wishes.

So when Pauley heard that Paul Smith was to be appointed to the South Pacific Commission, he called on Truman, told him that Smith's San Francisco Chronicle had opposed his (Pauley's) appointment to be Undersecretary of the Navy, and demanded that Smith be vetoed.

Simultaneously the State Department began to get intimations from the White House that Truman didn't like the Democratic commissioner, Richard Wells.

The Touchy White House

At the State Department's suggestion, Wells had played down the fact that he had such rock-bottom Democrats behind him as Congressmen Carl Vinson of Georgia and Pat Drewery of Virginia. Instead he listed as his chief backer a former Assistant Secretary of State, Adolf Berle. Berle, once a strong Truman man, more recently joined the Roosevelt boys (and a few million other people) in hoping Truman would not run for reelection.

Suddenly, therefore, the State Department phoned Wells, asked whether he shared Berle's views about Truman. Was he likely to come out against Truman? And what were his exact relations with Berle? The White House, it was explained, was touchy on the subject.

Wells, who is not an intimate of Berle's, answered all this to the satisfaction of the State Department, and was told to get his passport, typhoid inoculation and be ready to leave San Francisco for Sydney, Australia, on May 8.

Meanwhile a strange silence settled over the White House. The State Department could get no commissions of appointment for either Wells or Smith. Appointment to the South Pacific Commission pays no salary. To serve is an act of pure patriotism. Yet the State Department could not get Mr. Truman's OK.

Friendship, South Pacific

Finally, Undersecretary Lovett went to the White House, reminded the President that the two commissioners had to be in Australia by May 11.

Next day a luncheon guest at the White House was Judge Sam Rosenman, now acting as Truman's unofficial brain-truster. Testily, Truman remarked that he had the papers on his desk making Paul Smith and Richard Wells South Pacific commissioners. Smith, he said, was out because he was no friend of Ed Pauley's. Wells, he added, was a friend of Adolf Berle's.

Then the President proceeded to launch into a tirade against that so-and-so Berle. "I am not," he declared, "going to throw any bones to the Berle boys." And he asked Sam if he knew a good man to serve on the South Pacific Commission instead.

Rosenman replied that at the moment he didn't, but later submitted the name of his law partner, Milton Shalleck. Milton had been appointed Judge Rosenman's law clerk at the instance of Jimmy Hines, the jailed Tammany leader who gave Rosenman his start as bill-drafting commissioner in the New York Legislature.

So Milton Shalleck is now en route to the South Pacific.

Race Problem

This column, reporting on certain race incidents in Mississippi, recently said the President's civil rights message unfortunately had resulted in a reign of terror for Negroes in Mississippi.

Since then Congressmen Williams and Abernethy of Mississippi have been good enough to bring certain facts to my attention which show that some of the previous reports were incomplete or erroneous. For instance, while two Negroes were badly beaten by the police of Jackson, Miss., yet both Negroes had criminal records, and in one case the Negro bystanders came to the aid of the white policeman. Obviously the policeman was conducting no reign of terror.

In the case of two incidents in Kosciusko, that city has an excellent reputation for law, order and fairness to the colored race.

Furthermore, the Supreme Court of Mississippi recently leaned over backward to give a fair trial to a Negro, Sandy Magee, accused of killing a white man. Three tiimes the cour reversed a lower court's decision which gave Magee the death sentence.

In view of the above, it is only fair to correct my previous mistaken impression about the treatment of Negroes in Mississippi, which I am delighted herewith to do.
